

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 176

Qiao Weimin was utterly regretful right now. He regretted not parting with Qiao Nian on good terms back then, and even more so for listening to the women at home sow discord, causing him to be mean to Qiao Nian as well.

If they had parted with Qiao Nian civilly, their family would have been able to gain some benefits now.

He simply couldn't believe that the quiet child at home not only had an impressive biological father and cousin but also was good at her studies and even strong in the medical field.

Qiao Weimin turned to look at his daughter with her hands over her face as she cried. He recalled the interview he saw on the television when he was in the office.

He felt his cheeks burn.

He was ashamed.

And felt awful.

He felt so uneasy.

This couldn't do, he still had to go to her school tomorrow.

Qiao Nian came downstairs in a long-sleeved dark-blue hoodie and boots. She looked extremely cool.

She also had on a cap that concealed half her beautiful face, revealing only her pretty jaw and those rose-colored lips.

Seeing the few pairs of eyes glance over at her, Qiao Nian pulled her cap lower and smiled slightly. Feeling a little uneasy, she said, "I'm free tonight, do you guys want to go shopping?"

Gu San saw his Master Wang and Little Young Master's eyes light up.

Rao City wasn't as exciting as Beijing.

They only had one top-notch mall selling branded goods.

In the evening, the place would be crowded with white-collar workers.

And also young couples having their date night.

Qiao Nian and Ye Wangchuan's pairing stole many glances.

Needless to say, Ye Wangchuan's long legs and tall figure made him look like a walking clothes rack. His handsome was practically glowing and attracted many girls' gazes.

Qiao Nian's cap hid most of her face, but just those beautiful long legs and pretty jaw made her just as attractive as the man beside her.

Naturally, she stole many men's glances too.

What was most intriguing, however, was the little kid between them holding their hands.

The child was about five years old and appeared rather bright. He had on a sleeved top of a similar color scheme and denim bermudas, as well as boots that resembled those of the woman beside him. He looked adorable and suave all at once.

There was also a cute picture of a kitten on his top, and a shiny brooch on his collar.

Which was also in the shape of a cat.

He swayed from side to side as he walked slowly. If one looked closely, they'd realize that he was limping slightly on his left leg.

But the man and woman were walking slowly as well with much chemistry. They were essentially keeping to his pace.

Gu San watched from afar and really felt that they were a family of three.

The top Master Wang was wearing was bought by Miss Qiao.

It happened to be of a dark-grey color.

Miss Qiao herself was wearing a dark-blue top, and it appeared dark-grey from afar.

Unsurprisingly, the moment Little Young Master heard they were going shopping, he had rushed to his room to pick out a top of a similar color to Miss Qiao's. It was as if he wanted to be in a mother-and-child matching tee.

A handsome man, a beautiful woman, and an adorable child.

All wearing the same color scheme.

This visual...

Gu San couldn't help but snap a photo of them from behind and send it to Old Master Ye.

Old Master Ye's biggest wish was for Little Young Master to be more cheerful. He wanted Little Young Master to laugh and play as much as peers his age.

But Little Young Master did not want to go out and play because of his leg condition.

Much less go to such crowded places like the mall.
