

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 517

Qiao Nian looked down and opened the message.

It was sent at 3:00 AM.

There was only one sentence.

[Sister Nian, I'm home.]

Surprised, Qiao Nian raised her eyebrows.

She hadn't given the Wei Family an ultimatum, so there was no way Chen Yuan would be released from the police station for the time being.

She only asked Cai Gang to take care of him and look for a doctor to treat his injuries.

As for Chen Yuan's bail...

She had planned to talk to somebody today and didn't expect Chen Yuan to be released on bail last night.

Qiao Nian squinted her eyes and tried to figure out who had released him from the police station.

She could think of no other person with this ability except Ye Wangchuan.

In addition, she had only told him about the incident with Wei Qi last night. Besides him, Qiao Nian couldn't think of anyone else.

Of course, she hoped that Chen Yuan could be bailed as soon as possible. After all, the sooner his injuries could be treated, the lower the chances that they would cause problems for him in the future.

It was similar to infection and inflammation.

There were still three months before the college entrance examination. Every day was extremely important for senior high school students. She believed that Chen Yuan didn't want to delay his studying schedule.

Qiao Nian held her phone with her slender fair hand, leaned against the table, and curled her long legs. Pursing her lips, she did not reply to him. Instead, she unplugged the phone from the charger and gave him a call.

Chen Yuan answered within seconds.

"Hey, Sister Nian."

After hearing his energetic voice, she knew that he was fine and was a little relieved. She asked, "I was asleep yesterday and didn't see your message. Where are you now?"

"The hospital." Chen Yuan didn't wait for her to finish by saying, "I guessed that you were asleep. I called you later, but seeing that your phone was off, I didn't disturb you further. I initially wanted to tell you that I'm out and you don't have to worry about me."

He paused before continuing, "The person you asked to pick me up took me to the hospital to bandage my wounds. The doctor has taken care of all my injuries. There are no major issues, and I'll be better in two days."

He was ready to enter the detention center and thought that he might not be able to take the college entrance examination. When he was at his lowest point, someone suddenly came in and told him that someone had come to bail him out.

He didn't know who that person was, but he mentioned Qiao Nian's name and comforted him along the way to the hospital. He even revealed that there was a large chance that the confession he was forced to sign would become invalid and that he shouldn't worry...

He didn't really care about the confession, but he was worried about his parents' condition after he was locked up. Now that he was able to leave smoothly, he was very grateful to Qiao Nian.

"Thank you, Sister Nian."

Qiao Nian didn't even know that he had been taken to the hospital to treat his injuries and found it irritable that she probably owed someone a favor again.

Irritated by the many nuisances, she felt a headache coming. "It wasn't me who bailed you out..."

The person on the other end understood her and said with a chuckle, "Even if it wasn't you, others were willing to help me because of you. It's no different than you bailing me out."

Knowing what she was going to ask, he said, "Sister, don't worry about my family. I went to Nanyuan Hospital to look for them after I had my own injuries checked. They know that I'm OK, so don't worry about it. In fact, my mother scolded me for involving you in this matter. She refused to talk to me last night and was only willing to talk to me just now.. She wants to treat you to a meal."