

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 609

“Are you a college student?”

Qiao Nian nestled into the sofa and took out her cell phone. She leaned there with a very relaxed posture. It could be seen that she wasn't nervous at all. She just looked a little lazy. She said, “No.”

Qin Si saw her indifference. He wanted to take out his cell phone, take a picture, and show it to someone.

Her free and relaxed attitude was the same as Master Wang's attitude!

It wasn't her expression, but her aura!

Her aura was the same as Master Wang's aura!

The man who just asked her a question smiled and turned his head. He spoke to the girl who was sitting beside him. “Then, you must be of the same age as Tang Ning. Are you in your third year of high school?”

Qiao Nian felt like she had heard of this name before. She raised her head and looked at the beautiful and fashionable girl sitting there. The girl had dyed her hair. She couldn't remember where she had met the girl before. Thus, she silently retracted her gaze and gave a vague answer.

Although she didn't recognize Tang Ning, Tang Ning recognized her.

When Tang Ning visited Rao City previously, her family introduced her to a potential partner, Fu Ge. She was attracted to him and even made an appointment with him to stroll around the streets.

While on the stroll, she met this girl in front of the mall. At that time, Master Wang was also there. Master Wang's attitude towards this girl was very unusual!

She thought of Ye Wangchuan again and took another look at Qiao Nian. She was a little jealous. However, she wasn't as arrogant as before and was much more honest now.

“Tang Ning is going to be admitted into Qing University this year. What about you? Which schools are you aiming for?”

The squarish-faced man who previously looked down on Qiao Nian said, “I have a few connections. If you're planning to come to Beijing to study at a university, I can try to help you.” He was boasting about being good with kids and could easily talk to her about studies and various attractions.

His family ran a flourishing tuition chain. Many well-known educational institutions in China and abroad had invested in his family business.

Although his family had some support, it wasn't a lot compared to the whole of Beijing, and his family was not considered to be strong.

Because of this, he bowed down to Zhang Yang and usually followed him around to establish new connections. He was also not considered as part of Qin Si's circle.

However, he was a man of marketable character and had the insight of a businessman. He could see that Qin Si placed great importance on Qiao Nian. He also wanted to get into Qin Si's good books so that he could get into Beijing's top circles more smoothly in the future.

It wasn't that he looked down on Qiao Nian personally. He just looked down on a small place like Rao City. The educational resources from such a small place would never be comparable to Beijing.

Tang Ning's family was also from Rao City. Her family was considered one of the top families there.

They also sent her to Beijing to study at a young age.

They put in so much effort to send them to Beijing, was it not just because Beijing had better educational resources?

He looked at Qiao Nian and spoke proudly. "As long as it's not Qing University or Nanjing University, and is a slightly inferior university, you can rely on me, your brother. Which universities are you aiming for? Just let me know and I will get you in."

Qin Si frowned when he heard the man call himself Qiao Nian's brother so casually.

The man didn't know that he was over-flattering Qiao Nian. Excited, he persistently asked her again, "How is it? Have you thought of a school you want to go to?"

Qiao Nian only felt irritated by him. She lowered her eyelids, and the corners of her eyes raised angrily. She glanced at him and slowly picked up her cup of Maofeng tea. She held it in her hands and took a sip. Then, she put it down and said, "No, I will think about it next time."

This meant that his flattery had failed!

The man looked uncomfortable, and his face turned ashen.
