

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 640

He could only watch as the defensive net the Ninth Branch was proud of was disintegrated by the opponent.

Everyone present looked awful.

As the culprit, Gu San's expression was even worse—a 1.8-meter tall man with bloodshot eyes. Qiao Nian sighed as she saw how he looked like he wanted to slap himself in the face. She stepped forward and asked, "Why don't I take a look?"

In the corridor stood 20 or so people, and they were all tense.

Her light and fluttering words seemed particularly abrupt.

The man who just accused Gu San of bringing her over so casually now squinted and turned his head. He looked her up and down and then questioned her contemptuously. "You?"

Qiao Nian was not frightened by his contemptuous eyes. She nodded calmly with her hands in her pockets, standing straight there looking like an evil bandit. "Yes. Me."

"Huh?" The man smiled. His fierce face looked even more so when he smiled.

He grumbled and said, "What do you know as a girl? Have you graduated from high school? Know what C language is? Know what library functions, multithreading, and source codes are?"

Qiao Nian didn't even make a sound, but the ends of her eyes showed nonchalance, which was an expression of self-confidence.

She really did know about C language and source code.

Regarding her reaction as a failure to answer, Luo Qing said dismissively, "Do you think that computers are something you turn on and off and occasionally use anti-virus software on? Do you think it's just finding a few apps online? Do you take that as having computer knowledge?"

His words were overboard.

"Leader Luo, Miss Qiao is just being kind! You don't have to vent your anger on her!" Gu San stood in front of Qiao Nian.

The atmosphere in the corridor was a bit frigid.

At this time, the technician who had just said that the Ninth Branch defense program had been breached interjected, "The other party has begun to steal our information."

"Damn!" The big man hammered his fist on the wall, his face turned pale, and he murmured, "Master Wang hasn't woken up yet, what can I do?"

What to do, who would know what to do? They couldn't possibly barge into the ward to wake him up. Even if they could, Ye Wangchuan was a man, not a god. How could he sit up and work in this physical state? Wasn't this a dream?

"I..." How could the technician know what to do now? His eyes were worried and helpless, watching the data on the computer while reporting to them. "They have the chip in their hands, and the download progress is very fast. Here. It shows that the download is at 25%. At this rate, in less than ten minutes, they can copy all the numerical data of the Ninth Branch..."

The Ninth Branch's database contained all the cutting-edge technology and confidential information that had not been made public in the country. Once it was lost, the consequences were unimaginable!

No one could afford to bear the consequences.

Luo Qing gritted his teeth and walked inside. "No, I need to find a way to get a doctor to wake Master Wang. Now only Master Wang can stop the other party."

Someone stopped him. "Leader Luo, don't be impulsive, you know Master Wang's condition..."

Luo Qing's eyes were red, and he stared at them as if he wanted to swallow them whole. "Then tell me what to do. Are we just going to watch them steal our data? Stand here and not do anything about it?! I can't do that."

More than a dozen people from the technical department hung their heads low.

At this moment, Qiao Nian said to Gu San, "Bring me a computer."
