

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 667

“Huh?” Qiao Nian didn’t understand what he meant for a moment and habitually reached out to pull down the brim of her hat, a little irritated.

A pair of bright and clear eyes looked at Principal Liang. Her eyes were extremely beautiful as if they could speak.

Principal Liang was in a daze for a moment until Nie Mi reminded him. He coughed and suddenly came back to his senses. His face was a little awkward as he subconsciously touched the bridge of his nose and said, “I mean, your wish to study at Qing University hasn’t changed, right?”

Speaking of serious matters, he was quite nimble. He did not waste any time and went straight to the point. “Qiao Nian, I believe you already received many calls from other schools this morning asking about your university intentions. It’s like this. Our Qing University definitely wants you to stay. You know our situation, too. Master Nie and Mr. Huang are definitely the top experts in the country. With the two of them around, I won’t compare teaching resources with other schools...”

His words were light and casual, but there was no lack of arrogance in them. He was far from being as gentle and refined as he seemed.

There was no choice. There were only two big shots in the education world in the country. They were known as the giants of the education world. It was all because of them that he, as the principal, was proud.

He had to be proud!

Qiao Nian raised her eyebrows and did not say anything. She only looked at Nie Mi meaningfully. Nie Mi blushed and slapped the pretentious man. “Ahem, get to the point! Don’t pull me into this. I never said I was a top expert. I’m just a musician.”

President Liang: “...”

He really just played music.

Qiao Nian still had an indifferent expression on her face as she waited for him to continue. Principal Liang adjusted his mood and looked at her attentively and eagerly.

“...I won’t introduce you to the education resources of Qing University. Qiao Nian, you must have known about it before you chose our school.

“I mainly want to talk to you about the scholarship.”

“Huh?” The girl’s attitude was quite casual. She did not seem attracted by money.

Principal Liang braced himself and said, “Other schools must have come looking for you in the morning to discuss this, right?”

Qiao Nian's phone vibrated. She held it and did not read the message as she nodded slowly. "I think a school told me about it."

Principal Liang's heart was in his mouth. He asked nervously, "Which school?"

Which school?

Qiao Nian thought about it. She had been woken up by a call in the morning that interrupted her sleep. She had been too angry when she woke up and had not noticed what the other party had said.

She thought about it for a long time and raised her eyes. They were cold and dry. "Nanjing University?"

President Liang: "..."

He had long expected that many schools would try to poach her if her results at the joint examination were revealed. However, he did not expect the other party to be so fast.

He could ignore other schools.

But Nanjing University...

No matter what, Nanjing University and Qing University were on par with each other. Over the years, they seemed to be surpassing Qing University.

If not for the two top big shots, Nie Mi and Mr. Huang, at Qing University, they might have been surpassed by Nanjing University long ago.

Even so, Nanjing University was very close to them in the top 500 schools in the world.

They were only three or four spots behind.

Furthermore, Nanjing University's computer science and biotechnology specializations were rated especially high internationally. Many experts in this field overseas recognized them.

In comparison, Qing University was much inferior.

Only their financial and medical departments could barely win over the other party..
