

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 944

It was obvious that he wanted to interfere.

The two of them spoke one after another. Before Mr. Huang could reply to them, his phone rang with a new message.

He couldn't care less about answering them and switched on his phone. As expected, it was a message from Qiao Nian.

It was a link to a website.

At a glance, he felt that the website link looked familiar, but he was not sure. He tensed up slightly and pursed his lips before clicking on the link.

A familiar website page appeared in front of him.

Mr. Huang was stunned for a moment as he stared at the website. He suddenly stood up and looked at the thesis excitedly.

There was a red mark on the thesis, inked 'S' with a seal.

He didn't come to his senses for a long time.

S.

BMJ was a famous medical journal in Country Y, and it was also a famous international medical journal. There was a specialized Student-BMJ panel on their official website. It was the copyright to an authoritative academic paper for medical students and junior doctors. The papers that could be published on this page were all the best in the medical research field. The BMJ website even graded these papers.

They were classified into A to S grades. Among them, A Grade was the worst, and S Grade was the best.

Because the selection system was very strict, up until now, not many papers on the official website had been selected as S-grade papers.

He had a few research papers that were graded S, but he was at an age where he couldn't really be bothered about them.

However, he never thought that Qiao Nian had also published a thesis on the BMJ official website. Furthermore, it was an S-grade thesis!

Mr. Huang was completely shocked.

He looked at the time the paper was published. Two years ago, an academic research paper on bone surgery.

The signature was simple.

QN.

If it wasn't for the fact that the link Qiao Nian sent him brought him to this thesis, he would never have found a connection between this thesis by QN and his new student.

This was because only the medical professionals understood how abnormal it was to be selected as a grade thesis on this authoritative medical website.

Furthermore, she was only 16 years old when she published the thesis!

What kind of genius was this!

Nie Mi saw that his usually calm expression had changed and became nervous. He subconsciously stood up and leaned over to ask, "What's wrong? Did Nian Nian never publish a paper? At her age, it's normal that she never published these things. You..."

Before he could finish speaking, Mr. Huang had already regained his senses. His eyes burst out with fiery light as he shook his head and interrupted him. He suppressed his excitement and said, "No. She sent me the thesis she had published. Wait a moment, I'll save the link and post it on Instagram immediately."

He had heard of the name QN before. It was a relatively mysterious name on the medical forum. This QN had published a paper.

She was given an S-grade on BMJ. Some people had asked about her nationality and age, but throughout the medical world, those who could possibly have produced this S-grade thesis denied that they had written this paper.

He didn't expect it to be Qiao Nian!

Mr. Huang couldn't wait any longer. He took a screenshot of the thesis and attached the link. He also had an Instagram account. Usually, he let others manage it and rarely logged in. This was the first time he logged into this account by himself and sent out a new post.

[There is no end to learning!]

This caption came with a picture and a website's link address.