

Chapter 195

“Mr. Winters, this way please.” After Serene snapped out of her daze, she immediately led Duke into the meeting room. Adina was reading the document in the meeting room. When she heard the noise, she smiled faintly and stood up. “Mr. Winters, please have a seat.” Duke pulled out a chair and sat down. Then, Serene immediately went out to get some coffee. “Why are you here alone, Mr. Winters?” she asked in surprise. She thought that Mr. Garcia would tag along, or Duke would come with Trent and Eilam. She did not expect Duke to be there by himself. Duke raised his eyebrows indifferently. “Why? Do you want to meet Trent?”

Adina was speechless. Could this man speak nicely?

She sat in her chair and pushed the document over. “This is the direction of the new design, which I set after my previous discussion with Mr. Garcia. Mr. Winters, please take a look and give your comments.” But Duke did not flip the document open.

“I’m not here to talk about work today,” he said stoically.

“What do you want to talk about then?” Adina rested her chin on her hand and attempted to ask, “Is it related to Harold?” Duke shook his head. “Was your company website attacked by a hacker at 11.00 pm last night?” Adina narrowed her eyes. She schooled her expression and asked, “Why? Do you know who did

Duke pursed his lips.

Although he did not want to admit it, he had no other choice. It was George’s fault.

As a father, he had to apologize for his son’s misdeed.

“My son attacked your company website. I’ll compensate you for all the losses that he’s caused to your company,” he said in a deep voice. Adina’s eyes were filled with confusion. “Harold’s a hacker?” “It wasn’t him. It was my eldest son, George.” Duke responded in the same deep voice. As soon as he said that, Adina remembered who George was. George’s eldest son was a genius, and he was already the confirmed heir of Winters Corporation

When Duke talked about George the other day, his words seemed to imply that George’s intelligence was much higher than Alden’s.

No wonder the company’s server was in a mess.

It looked like George’s hacking skills were comparable to Alden’s. “George might have misunderstood you, so he attacked your company website. I’d like to apologize to you on his behalf.”

Duke stared at Adina and spoke seriously. However, Adina smiled faintly. “Does he know that you’re apologizing for him?” Duke understood what she was trying to say. He held back his imposing aura and slowly said, “He should really apologize for his mistake, but I’d like to apologize for my own fault as well. I didn’t educate my son well.” Adina gave him a firm look. It felt like she was getting to know this man all over again. Mr. Winters was always noble and frightening when everyone in Sea City mentioned him, but he had actually apologized to her. She thought nothing in the world could make him lower his head.

She chuckled. "Okay, I accept your apology."

Duke slowly said, "I'll give George a call and get him to apologize to you personally."

Adina leaned back in her chair and did not oppose it. She was also interested in that child genius who was as intelligent as Alden.
