

Madness 466

Son In Law Madness Chapter 466

Unexpected Aid “You’re right. It’s Hunter’s Coil.” With a whistle, Pharaoh straightened the wire before it curled up into a ball of a baby fist’s size. Nathan closed his eyes in desperation. I should have known. Swoosh! Footsteps approached. The special forces were closing in, and their searchlights illuminated the earth as they neared. Rosie was unnerved at the sight. There are at least tens of thousands of them, and they are armed with the best weapons. There were people from the Angel Alliance, the Knights of The Round Table, the Homeless Alliance, and an army.

“General,” a long-term partner of Noah. “I guess I don’t have a choice. I will have to go all out if I want the production line,” Rosie noted with a smile. “Kill the annoying woman first!” Erskine ordered. He morphed into a humanoid tank and charged forward. Then, he raised his shiny robotic arm and extended its sharp fingers, wanting to being butchered. “Rosie!” the person shouted through the wireless earpiece. “What’s going on?” “I think Hobarton poisoned me. I can’t move!” she that looked like a coffin. Erskine stared at his arm in disbelief, and a tempestuous storm raged in his heart. He could not believe his arm was punctured by a mere stone. I’m a