Chapter 1401 Her Kindness

Sally told Zachary, "I'll write down my phone number for you, and you can call me anytime if you need anything, okay?"

"Okay!" Zachary answered.

Outside the door, Kyle smiled at the thought of how caring Sally was. I guess a person who is kind enough toward a stranger wouldn't do anything horrible even if she did come to the Seet family with some sort of motives.

With that thought in mind, he walked into the room, and Zachary's eyes were all lit up when he saw him.

"All this food?"

"Come, have a look and see if there's any you like."

Kyle laid out all the nutritious breakfast food he had brought with him on the table, and like a greedy little kitten, Zachary stared at all the food on the table intently.

"Eat whatever you want. It's all yours."

As soon as he said that, Zachary licked his lips and went for a slice of pizza.

Meanwhile, Sally felt a little bitter on the inside when she saw him gobbling down the food like he was starving. "Slow down. Don't choke yourself," she said as she handed over a cup of warm milk to him.

"Thank you," Zachary said sincerely.

After coming out of Zachary's room, the two went over to the elderly patient without children. Sally was very caring as she asked him about a lot of things and even offered him money.

"Take it. It might be of use to you."

"I can't. How can I take your money when I'm given treatment without charge? I just can't."

"Ms. Lane's the one who's giving you free treatments, but this is from me. You're accepting help from her, but not me? Just take it."

His hands were shaking as he stared at the stack of bills in front of him and hesitated.

In the end, Sally stuffed the bills in his hands and said, "Take it."

Having received so much money out of the blue, the old man could not contain his excitement as he thanked Sally repeatedly. Sally's heart softened as the pure-hearted old man reminded her of something from her past. An urge to cry washed over her, so she left in a hurry after telling the old man to take care of himself.

Kyle followed her out of the room, and he noticed Sally's teary eyes. He asked in a low voice, "What's wrong?"

Sally shook her head and said, "Nothing. It just reminded me of the kind old lady who took me in. She was also a simple person with a pure heart. She always thanked other people's tiniest kind gestures with all her heart. I remember once she was so touched and grateful when a person gave her a kettle in the dead of winter. Since then, she would thank and pray for the person's well-being every day. I always think that she and those old people are so pure-hearted, and they are always very grateful for the kindness they received."

Each time Sally thought of those things, she would feel a sense of warmth in her heart.

Meanwhile, Kyle was surprised by what she said. He and Juan had been suspecting that Sally was not an orphan. They thought that she must have come from some family with class. Thus, he was surprised to hear her mention an old lady who took her in.

Kyle kept to himself as he pondered for a moment. He thought that the old lady Sally had mentioned might be someone she knew or a relative of hers. Perhaps she even told him the story on purpose to hide her true identity.

At the same time, Sally noticed that Kyle was not saying anything, so she turned to him and asked, "You didn't come to the hospital to show your love and support, did you?"

"If not that, then what?"

"I suppose you're here for me. To keep an eye on me."

Once again, Kyle was surprised by how straightforward Sally was. After a moment of silence, he asked, "Why would I keep an eye on you?"

"Because you're the same as Juan. You suspect that I approached the Seet family with some ulterior motives."

"Did you?"

Chapter 1402 Sally And The Maupay Family

"Would you believe me if I say no?" asked Sally instead of answering his question.

A smile came over Kyle's face as he replied without hesitation, "No."

"I'm telling you the truth. I know you don't believe me, but I have no intention of hiding anything from you. May I ask, will you blame me if I have no choice but to do something harmful to the Seet family one day?" Sally stopped in her tracks and asked Kyle sincerely.

Kyle's eyes darkened at her question, and he took a moment to process what he heard. "It depends. I won't forgive you if you hurt my family."

Sally's expression turned grim as she felt Kyle's words like knives stabbing in her heart.

"I can help you if there's anything you need," said Kyle.

Help... Kyle's saying he could help me?

Sally felt her heart warm up when Kyle said that. However, even though she was willing to believe that his words were true, she knew there was nothing he could do for her.

She smiled bitterly and said, "I'm just joking with you. I don't need any help. I... I would never hurt your family."

Even so, Kyle noticed the helplessness and avoidance in her eyes.

"Let's call it a day. I have things to attend to, so I'll get going first," said Sally before she turned and left.

Meanwhile, Kyle watched her leave as he wondered what exactly she was up to.

He narrowed his eyes as he pulled out his phone and made a call to Draven. "Put everything aside and keep an eye on Sally. I want you to report everything about her to me."

"Understood."

Meanwhile, Draven was confused, since not only did Juan have him monitor Sally, but Kyle also did the same. Draven was curious about the woman who had caught the attention of the Seet brothers.

At that instant, he decided that he should put in all his efforts to check Sally out.

He pondered for a moment before he pulled out his phone and called Jeremy from the Hidden Masters.

“You want me to investigate Sally?”

“Yes. You four have nothing to do in the meantime anyway. Just help me look her up.”

“Draven, you’re on a whole different level than the Hidden Masters. Do you really need my help on such a small matter?”

“Small matter? It’s not a small matter. Both Mr. Juan and Mr. Kyle are very concerned about this. If you guys manage to find out about her, they will reward you handsomely.”

“That goes to show that this girl is not that simple. She must have some powerful connections backing her, not to mention how incredible she is that she has it so well-kept all this time. It’s going to be exciting to go against someone like that.”

“There’s no need for that. I’m finally getting a breather, so I have no intention of seeking this sort of excitement.”

“Jeremy, if you can help me find something this time, then I’ll consider looking into the Maupay family’s secrets that you guys had always wanted to know.”

Draven’s offer was a rather good deal for Jeremy.

The Maupay family’s existence was a mystery of its own. No one knew how or why the entire family disappeared overnight.

Rumors were saying they had messed with some influential figure and so the entire family was wiped out. A different rumor was that they had gone to live in seclusion to work on some sort of secret weapon.

Back then, the Maupay family only took six months after their arrival in Y City to achieve the level of the infamous Seet Group. Thus, many people related the Maupay family’s disappearance to Evan. They suspected that it was business warfare and Evan wanted to monopolize the market, so he hired a mysterious organization to make the kill.

Evan was also puzzled by the Maupay family’s disappearance, and he even had the Hidden Masters look into it. However, they could not find anything at all. The investigation went on for six months, yet it was as though the Maupay family had vanished into thin air. Thus, they had no choice but to give up.

Jeremy's interest was piqued now that Draven brought it up again.

Chapter 1403 Feelings For Sally

Then again, Jeremy still had his reservations.

"Draven, I know you're better than the four of us, but investigating the mysterious disappearance of the Maupay family is even harder than investigating this woman, Sally. How confident are you about figuring out the Maupay family's incident when you can't even find out anything about a woman?"

"I'm not, but I just assumed you're not confident about finding anything about Sally either. There's one thing I have to tell you. Sally is as mysterious as the Maupay family, and I think they might have something to do with each other. Even though I don't have proof, I still think you can look into it in terms of that."

Jeremy was a little taken aback by the mention of Sally and the Maupay family together.

He thought of the other rumor besides the one about Evan sending men to terminate the Maupay family. It was about how they had gone into hiding to work on some secret weapon so that they could replace Seet Group as the head of Y City. He could not help but think of the possible danger that Seet Group would be in if that was really the case.

"Okay, Draven. We'll do it together. We'll share all the information with each other."

"Okay."

After all, if Sally really had something to do with the Maupay family, then Seet Group might be in trouble. It would bring chaos to Y City, so they must hurry.

It was in the afternoon when Kyle got back to the office. Juan came over and asked him about Sally as soon as he saw him.

"Kyle, what happened when you went over to monitor Sally today? Was she difficult to deal with? She has all sorts of tricks up her sleeve. She's truly a cunning fox."

Kyle's eyes narrowed as he thought of the things Sally did. Not only was she kind toward Zachary, but she even helped the sick old man. Specifically, he remembered the tears in her eyes when she was touched by the old man.

There was just nothing he could relate her to a sly fox when he thought of those things.

Thus, he mumbled, "She has a kind heart."

Kind heart?

Juan was surprised by what Kyle said.

"Kyle, you're saying that a sly fox like her has a kind heart? What did she do to you? Did she throw herself at you and show you her heart?"

Without a word, Kyle just stared back at Juan coldly.

Unbothered, Juan went on, "What a sly woman she is. She's as cunning as a fox when she's with me. It's always a full-on battle of wits whenever I see her, yet she shows her kind heart and seduces you like a vixen when she's with you? What's with the preferential treatment? Is it because you're more charming?"

As soon as he said that, he sized Kyle up.

Their parents had given them the same face, and their bodies were more or less the same. The only thing that was different between the two was their demeanor.

Kyle was as cold as ice, while Juan was a passionate man.

Juan thought that his type ought to be the more popular type.

In the end, he concluded and told Kyle in a serious manner, "Kyle, I'm telling you that Sally must have some sort of ulterior motives behind the kindness she had shown you. It's a lie. Think about it. I'm the more attractive one between the two of us. Why would she fall for you if she didn't fall for me? You shouldn't fall for such a fickle woman. You can never trust a woman like her."

Meanwhile, Kyle looked at Juan whose confidence was over the roof and snorted. "Only shallow and tasteless women would be attracted by that pretense you call passion."

Juan was stunned by Kyle's words. What does Kyle mean by that?

"Kyle, do you have to say that about me just because I said that Sally wouldn't fall for you? You're practically saying that I'm shallow and tasteless. And you even say that I put up a pretense of my passion? I'm passionate on the inside too. I'm not putting on an act."

“Sure. I believe you.”

Juan was rendered speechless by his sarcastic response.

He finally realized that what he said had pissed Kyle off.

“Don’t tell me you have feelings for Sally.”

Chapter 1404 Resentment Toward Bernian Hospital

Kyle looked up at him and gave him a meaningful look. He then lowered his head and switched his focus to work.

Juan pondered for a moment. It’s dangerous if Kyle had really fallen for Sally. No way. I must stop this. I can’t just watch Kyle fall into a trap.

With that thought, Juan walked out of the office and called Sally immediately.

On the other end, Sally saw the caller ID and took the call.

“What’s up?” she asked in all seriousness.

Juan went straight to the point as he said, “Sally, you’re really something. You’ve acted like an evil, cunning fox in front of me, yet you turned into a kind little bunny in front of Kyle. You’re trying to get his sympathy to catch his attention and make him fall for you, aren’t you? I’m telling you now that there’s no way that’s going to happen.”

Sally snorted and said, “I’m going to make it happen. What now? Does it upset you that Kyle likes me? Could it be that you have fallen for me too?”

“Nonsense. Why would I fall for a sly fox like you? I would never fall for you even if the sky falls and the earth crumbles. I’m warning you. I’ll make you pay if you use Kyle to hurt my family.”

“Fine. I’ll be waiting,” Sally replied fearlessly and hung up.

Juan was stunned by that reply. This woman’s really something. It seems that I’ll have to think of a way to stop Kyle from seeing Sally anymore. As long as they don’t get to see each other, nothing will ever happen between them. That way, I won’t have to worry about Kyle being used by Sally. In that case, I should watch Sally from here on. Wait there, Sally. I’ll make you disappear if you’re really up to no good.

In the meantime, patients who had received free treatments from Nicole were grateful for her. Everyone complimented her medical expertise. Through word of mouth, Bernian Hospital's reputation grew.

As a result, not only those unfortunate people who could not afford the medical fees went to Bernian Hospital, but many of those who were well-off also chose to go to Bernian Hospital to get treated.

There were even talks among those people.

"I heard that they didn't build Bernian Hospital to make money. Instead, it was to help less fortunate people who couldn't afford the treatment. We should go to Bernian Hospital next time so that the money we pay for our treatment gets contributed to helping those patients. That way, we'll be doing something good with Ms. Lane. Perhaps good things will happen to us in return if we do some good deeds."

"Yes. Getting treated and doing charity all at the same time. Perhaps we'll even recover faster."

As the people got more motivated to do good, word spread, and Bernian Hospital's business became better and better. At the same time, it had also caused resentment from the other hospitals.

Some even commented on how much of a busybody Nicole was, and that she should have just stayed put as Evan's wife. They could not understand what was in it for her.

As the business of those hospitals declined, the persons in charge gathered together and began to discuss their plan.

"What should we do? I heard that Bernian Hospital is full every day, yet the number of patients in our hospital is decreasing. We have to do something about it."

"I agree. Before Bernian Hospital came into the picture, the patients would have to make reservations for admission. Not only was there a lack of beds, but we even had beds in the corridor. Now, not only are the rooms empty, but we are also getting fewer patients. I even suspect if everyone had somehow gotten themselves a miracle pill. That would explain why nobody is getting sick or admitted into the hospital anymore."

"There's no such thing as a miracle pill. In my opinion, they must have been bewitched by that woman, Nicole Lane. All of them have gone to Bernian Hospital. They even get their medicine from Bernian Hospital. They're saying that they're doing a good deed and showing their kindness."

Chapter 1405 Patient In Critical Condition

“Alas. I find it strange. Evan is a meticulous man, and he never takes on unpropitious business. How is it possible that he’s merely watching his wife endeavoring for nothing?”

“Impossible. In my opinion, Mrs. Seet must have an aim. I think she intends to build up the reputation for Evan, Seet Group, and herself. Now, her hospital is getting quite the attention. In the future, Seet Group will definitely be more well-known. Of course, it’s beneficial to them.”

“That’s true. Nowadays, public opinion plays a huge role in the society. She’s utilizing the power of public opinion to consolidate her image. Although she’s doing unprofitable good deeds now, she could undoubtedly earn much more in the future by setting up a good reputation.”

“You’re right. We can’t just sit idly and let them snatch away our business. We have to expose her true intention.”

“How?”

They fell into silent, pondering.

The person in charge of the few hospitals discussed the topic for half an hour. Finally, they decided on a solution.

“We’ll proceed as this plan!”

“All right. Since she started the fight by snatching our business, we should return the favor. She brought it upon herself.”

“Then who’s going to handle the matter?”

Again, all of them fell into the silent.

They looked at each other, waiting for a brave volunteer. Making Evan Seet’s wife, Nicole, the enemy was equivalent to declaring battle against Evan himself, and that meant they had to confront the man with the nickname “Lucifer.” Undoubtedly, they had to think wisely beforehand.

“How about we do it together? If anything happens, we’ll take the responsibility together.”

The rest hesitated for a moment until one of them stood up and gave a motivational speech. Only then did the rest agree to join in.

“Then it’s settled!”

Meanwhile, at Bernian Hospital, Nicole was patiently examining some patients’ recuperating progress as usual.

At times, she would give them some advice. Her attentiveness and gentleness made the patients feel heartwarming.

“Ms. Lane. You’ve tended us well. We will remember your kindness forever.”

“That’s right. Ms. Lane, you’re very kind. I’m not sure if you remember me. Two years ago, you treated me with acupuncture without taking a penny. You claimed that it was a doctor’s responsibility. Since then, you’ve always been in my prayers. It seems like from now on, you’ll be in the prayers of many. I believe that you’ll be able to save more people in the future.”

“You’re right! Ms. Lane is such a benevolent doctor!”

Nicole felt bashful at the endless compliments coming from the crowd.

“I’m flattered. I’m starting to get shy. In fact, my capability is limited. Hence, I’m only doing something I like that’s within my ability. As long as everyone gets better and leads a happy and healthy life, that’ll enrapture me.”

“Ms. Lane is indeed a kind person!”

Suddenly, the door was flung open where a doctor rushed in.

“Ms. Lane. We have a patient in critical condition. The man with her requested for you because he has heard many great achievements of yours.”

Nicole’s interest was piqued, not by the fact that the patient requested for her, but by the critical condition the patient was facing. Concerned, she promptly asked, “What’s the disease?”

“I’m not sure. He didn’t allow us to go near her and even refused to let us treat her. Instead, he requested to meet only you and asked for you to cure her.”

“Bring me there.”

To not delay anymore, Nicole trotted while following the doctor to the consultation room.

As she entered the room, she saw a man supporting a feeble woman in the center of the room. The woman was convulsing while the man was demanding for Nicole.

Chapter 1406 Unexpected Turn Of Events

"Where's Ms. Lane? Bring her here to treat my wife. Hurry!"

"I'm here!" Nicole replied loud and firm.

She marched forward and examined the woman. "What happened to her?"

The man locked his gaze on Nicole, scrutinizing her. "You're Ms. Lane?"

"Yes. What disease did your wife catch?"

"I don't know. This occurred to her out of the blue. Ms. Lane, I've heard that you're a superb doctor. Please save my wife!"

"Don't worry. I'll attend to her right away."

Nicole took the pulse of the woman and discovered that it was abnormal. Looking at the woman's ashen face, she reckoned that her pulse should be weak. Surprisingly, it was vigorous. Contrary to her appearance, it was indeed anomalous.

She realized that the patient was not ill, but poisoned at that.

"We have to detoxify your wife."

"Detoxify? Are you saying that my wife is poisoned?"

"That's right. It's a detrimental poison. Hence, we have to treat her immediately, or else she'll be in grave danger."

The man was still dubious about her elucidation. "Ms. Lane, you should examine her carefully. I don't think she's poisoned because she has been with me for the whole day. Instead, I think she's struck with an acute disease. She's sick."

"Who's the doctor here? We're running out of time. Thus, we need to arrange a procedure to detoxify your wife as soon as possible."

"Ms. Lane. Are you implying that you can cure her?"

"I'll try my best. Now should be the golden time for detoxification. If the treatment is executed correctly, I believe that your wife will recover."

"Fine. I'll trust you."

A vague gloominess showed in the man's eyes as he placed his trust upon Nicole. Then, he left his wife to Nicole and headed out of the room.

Very soon, Nicole started performing acupuncture on the woman. With her comprehensive knowledge, Nicole inserted the gleaming long silver needles one by one into the woman's major acupoints expertly.

After the extensive treatment, Nicole could perceive that the woman's pulse was not extravagant as before. As the pulse had finally abated to normality, Nicole heaved a sigh of relief.

"Prescribe her some medicines and keep an eye on her condition. If anything abnormal happens, report to me immediately."

"Yes, Ms. Lane."

Nicole wrote down the medicines required and passed the note to the doctor. Only then did she walk out of the consultation room.

"Your wife's condition has stabilized. Now, she needs an IV drip. She'll recover tomorrow or the day after."

"Thank you, Ms. Lane."

Nicole nodded and turned to walk away. Behind her back, the man's gaze secretly turned ominous.

Recover? That won't happen. She will never recover from it.

Two hours later, Nicole suddenly heard a knock on the door to her office. The doctor entered and looked at her anxiously. "Bad news. The woman that you treated just now, s-she..."

"What happened to her?"

"She suddenly stopped breathing. Her husband is raising a ruckus now and demanding an explanation from you."

Suddenly stopped breathing? How could this happen?

Nicole's heart instantly dropped. Quickly, she stood up and rushed to the room earlier. During that brief moment, many thoughts flashed across her mind.

Why did she suddenly pass away? Was there a problem with my acupuncture? That's impossible. After the acupuncture, her condition had stabilized. Her condition shouldn't make such a sudden quick turn. Is it the medicine's fault? No way. I had written the list of appropriate medicines on the note before I passed it to the doctor, and I'm confident that the medicines were prescribed correctly. That should not be the problem. What went wrong then?

After pondering for long, she could not fathom the underlying reason, leaving her distraught, and even her pace was disordered.

Chapter 1407 A Quack Doctor

When she arrived outside the ward, the patient's husband started roaring at her.

"It's your fault! You have caused the death of my wife! Your medical skills are nothing to brag about! In fact, I think you are a quack doctor! Because of you, my wife has lost her life! Give me back my wife! You quack doctor!"

The ruckus had attracted the attention of other patients, and they started to crowd around.

"What's going on?"

"I'm not sure. He said Ms. Lane is a quack doctor and caused his wife's death."

"How can Ms. Lane be a quack? She is obviously a miracle doctor."

"No matter how good she is, there will be times when she makes mistakes, too. Perhaps..."

"What are you gibbering about? How can you not have trust in Ms. Lane's skills? If you don't, then what are you doing in Bernian Hospital?"

"There's no need to attack me so soon. I did not say I don't trust her. I believe in her, just like you do. But it doesn't mean she will not make any mistakes. It's an entirely different matter! In fact, it's normal to make mistakes, and it's completely understandable."

His pertinent speech caused everyone around to waver. There was no way they would believe that Nicole would harm someone on purpose. However, making an error in her judgment was quite plausible.

“What kind of person are you? I’m sure Ms. Lane really wanted to save your wife. Even if she has made a mistake, it wouldn’t be intentional. You can’t—”

“Her mistake wasn’t on purpose? But it cost my wife her life! It’s a life we are talking about. I want justice for my wife!” The man was getting very agitated and upset.

Sensing that she was about to be blamed, Nicole quickly explained herself, “I did not misdiagnose. Your wife was indeed being poisoned. After I performed acupuncture on her, her symptoms were alleviated. As for why she stopped breathing, we will have to perform a thorough check to find out the reason.”

“A check? What for? The only reason why you want to perform a check is to exonerate yourself of any responsibilities. You will surely claim that my wife has contracted some sudden illness and passed away as a result of it.”

“I won’t do that! I will reveal the facts!” said Nicole in a serious manner.

“Of course you will say that! My wife’s death is on your hands. I won’t believe you!”

“So, what do you want?”

“I want to lodge a police report! I want an autopsy done!”

Everyone was speechless.

All the other patients started speculating and gossiping when they heard the man’s demands.

“Ms. Lane, since he is so adamant, go ahead with the autopsy. We have faith in you!”

“That’s right. There’s nothing to worry about if your conscience is clear. Justice will prevail!”

“Yes, Ms. Lane. Let the coroner perform the autopsy. We believe you!”

When the other patients proclaimed their trust in her, Nicole was very touched. At that moment, she believed that she had nothing to worry about as well.

“Fine. Make a report and get an autopsy done.”

When Nicole agreed to his conditions, a smug smile flashed across the man’s face. Once the report is out and with the help of the public opinion, there will be no way for Nicole and Bernian Hospital to get out of this mess!

The coroner arrived in no time and began to perform an autopsy to find out the cause of death of the woman.

As he was doing his check, he asked Nicole questions along the way. It turned out that there was nothing wrong with Nicole's treatment methods at all.

"Then what's going on? What happened to her?"

"Not to worry. There are still a few more tests to be done. The result will be out very soon."

After a lengthy wait of two hours, they had finally reached a conclusion.

It turned out that there were issues with the medication used in Bernian Hospital. All the medications that had been used turned out to be fake.

The outcome of the autopsy shocked all the patients to the core. Even Nicole was stunned and found it hard to believe. Her expression darkened.

"How is that possible? The medications have been acquired through strict means. How could they be fake?"

Chapter 1408 Set Up

"Ms. Lane, it's true. If you have doubts, you can get other organizations to check again!"

The moment those words were out, the deceased's husband yelled at Nicole, "Great! Turns out that it was fake medications that caused my wife's death! Ms. Lane, no wonder you have been so kind to offer free consultations for the patients. You have been using poor-quality medications! You have no respect for human lives! Purchasing inferior drugs must have cost you minimal funds. Maybe they cost you nothing at all. Yet, you have earned such a wonderful reputation as a kind doctor. This is indeed a smart move of yours! How 'kind' of you!"

His words caused an uproar among the other patients.

"Fake medications? How could that be? Why would Ms. Lane purchase fake medications?"

"That's right. Ms. Lane isn't this kind of person. She has always been a caring and concerned doctor. How is this possible?"

"Her care and concern is just a ploy to gain a name for herself! If she hasn't been nice to all of you, will all of you have defended her? Will all of you have come to Bernian Hospital? You are here because of her good reputation, right?"

“Um...”

“But Ms. Lane is indeed a skillful doctor. She has cured many patients!”

“Cured? All of you are too naive. These fully recovered patients could have been arranged by her. You will never know. Furthermore, she has utilized fake medications for patients. Perhaps their recovery was only temporary. Once they have been discharged, they could have dropped dead afterward!”

“You slanderer! The patients that I have cured left the hospital in good health. None of them have died after being discharged.”

“Ms. Lane, there’s no need to get emotional. It’s fine if you refuse to admit it. Your usage of fake drugs has caused my wife’s death. Why don’t we check the medicine in your storage to see if you have given other patients fake medications as well?”

“Check for fake medications? W-Will it turn out to be real?”

“Stop talking nonsense. We believe Ms. Lane. She will never purchase fake medications.”

“But if it’s true, then everyone will be in danger...”

The fervent discussion started again.

“What’s wrong, Ms. Lane? Are you afraid of something?”

Nicole eyed the arrogant man who had just lost his wife, and she recalled the incident where the deceased had been poisoned. An unimaginable thought crossed her mind.

Could it be that this man has caused his wife’s death, and he’s trying to frame it on me instead? He must have something to do with the fake medications!

Looking at his haughty and confident expression when he wanted the medication storage to be examined, she was pretty sure he must have done something.

Looks like this person is targeting me and finding fault with Bernian Hospital on purpose!

“I think we should seal the medication room for the time being. No one is allowed to enter!”

“What’s wrong? Are you afraid to get caught? Feeling guilty?”

“No. Before we verify the authenticity of the medicine in the storage room, I want the entire storage room to be scanned for fingerprints like how it is done at a crime scene. Other than the people in charge of the medicine storage room, I want to find out who else has been inside. For all we know, someone may have gone in and tampered with the medicine in order to frame Bernian Hospital!”

At that juncture, Nicole stared at the man before her and asked, “I am particularly curious. How did your wife get poisoned? Did you do that to her so that you could use this opportunity to find fault with my hospital and set us up with fake medications?”

“Exactly. What would a healthy person be poisoned out of the blue?”

“I find it strange as well. Logically, if his wife has just passed away, he should be very upset. But look at him. There is barely an ounce of sadness on his face. It’s as if a stranger has just died. As for him, he’s behaving like a mad dog.”

Chapter 1409 Looking For Evidence

The man was dumbfounded for a moment.

When the rest of the patients started to suspect him as Nicole did, he began to defend himself.

“I have no idea how my wife was poisoned. I believed in Ms. Lane’s medical skills, and that’s why I came to Bernian Hospital. I did not expect my wife to die because of fake medications. Instead, Ms. Lane now tries to accuse me of killing my own wife. This is completely unacceptable! Ms. Lane, you cannot simply accuse me like this!”

“That’s true. When he first came, he specifically requested for Ms. Lane to attend to his wife.”

“It looks like we can only rely on the evidence to determine the truth.”

The law enforcement officers, who were present, witnessed the dispute and immediately sealed the medication room off. As for the deceased, they stored her body in the mortuary box for further investigation later on.

Very soon, the news of Bernian Hospital using fake medication for its patients and the consequential death had become the hottest trending topic on the internet. It spread like wildfire.

When Kyle and Juan found out about the news, they got to Bernian Hospital right away.

"Mommy, what's going on?"

"Someone is trying to set me and Bernian Hospital up. The coroner has detected fake medication in the deceased's body. I'm worried that someone is trying to get at me and the hospital."

"Fake medication? Who is the person in charge of purchasing the medicine?"

"Nick is in charge of purchasing, but it cannot be him. Every purchase, including the invoices, has to go through me. I doubt he has anything to do with this incident."

"So, that means that somebody else has tampered with the medicine? Is there a mole in our hospital, or did someone sneak into our hospital to sabotage us?"

The moment Juan finished talking, a person's name appeared in his mind. His eyes shone. "Could it be her?"

"Who?"

"Who is it?"

Both Kyle and Nicole looked at Juan expectantly. "Sally!" Juan replied.

"Sally?" Nicole frowned.

Kyle's face darkened as well. Could it be her?

Sally's beautiful and seductive face popped up in his mind. Then, he recalled the question that she had asked him.

"Will you blame me if I have no choice but to do something harmful to the Seet family one day?"

Suspicion began to form in Kyle's mind.

Could it really be her doing? But why would she want to frame our hospital and Mommy?

"I don't think it's Sally!" proclaimed Nicole.

"Mommy, why do you think so? That woman is so good at acting. You mustn't be fooled by her!" With that, Juan asked Kyle, "What do you think? You have interacted with her before. Do you think it could be her?"

Kyle's eyes narrowed. Evidence will be the fairest judge.

"We will know once the investigation has been completed."

After hearing what Kyle had said, Juan fell into deep thought.

Investigation? Kyle wants to investigate? In front of Kyle, that woman acts like a cute and innocent girl. In the past, Kyle has even mentioned that she has a heart of gold. Perhaps Kyle has fallen for her charms. If so, will Kyle lose his senses and be used by that vixen to hurt Mommy, the hospital, and even the Seet family? Women are the best liars, especially the beautiful ones. They are capable of making use of people and also sweeping men off their feet. What if Kyle really...

At that thought, Juan became flustered. No, I cannot watch Kyle being made use of. Hence, it's better if I am the one to investigate this incident.

"You're right. We should only make a conclusion after a thorough investigation. You handle Seet Group. Let me handle this matter!" said Juan.

Kyle pondered on it, but before he could respond, he saw Evan, Maya, and Nina arriving at the hospital in a hurry.

"Mommy, what exactly is going on? We saw the news on the internet and rushed here immediately! Is everything true?"

Chapter 1410 Get It Done

"Why would there be fake medicine in the hospital? Did someone do this on purpose to get you and the hospital into trouble?"

Once Maya and Nina were done with their questions, Evan walked up to Nicole. Without asking anything, he placed both his hands on her shoulders and reassured her, "Don't worry about it. I'm here now! Let me handle this for you!"

As Nicole looked at the man before her, warmth welled up in her heart. To her, Evan was her pillar of strength. He was someone whom she could always rely on.

"Evan, I know this matter is child's play to you, and I have no doubts that you can settle this with ease. However, there is something more important that I need you to deal with. So, please don't get involved in this. Let Kyle and Juan do their investigation."

"What is it?" asked Evan curiously.

"I received a call from K Nation. My dad has fallen ill and is in the midst of receiving treatment. But the prognosis is not good. I have promised to go over.

Unfortunately, it isn't possible right now given the situation we have here. Will you be willing to go there in my stead and look after my dad?"

During a challenging time like that, he did not feel comfortable leaving Nicole behind and going to K Nation. "But, you—"

"Don't worry about me. I have Juan, Kyle, Nina, and Maya here with me. Nothing will happen to me. Besides, I believe that the truth will reveal itself eventually."

"Mommy, why don't I take care of Grandpa and let Daddy stay here?" suggested Maya.

"No. I feel more at ease if Daddy is the one going there on my behalf!" Nicole was very insistent about her decision.

Evan thought about it and agreed. It's a good opportunity to put Juan and Kyle's ability to the test. If they cannot settle this issue, I can easily resolve it with a phone call even though I will be miles away.

In short, as long as he wished to, the matter was still within his control.

Furthermore, if his presence in K Nation could put Nicole at ease, he would gladly do so.

"All right, then. I'll go!"

"Daddy, do you want me to go with you?" Nina offered.

She had always wanted to know how Chris was getting on after he got married. Does he fight with Felicia often? Is he having a miserable life? Since Chris had dumped her for Felicia, Nina felt that it would serve him right if he was living a miserable life.

A trip to K Nation would enable her to find out more about his current life.

As for Mommy, she has Juan, Kyle, and Maya with her, not to mention my uncles and aunts. They won't allow her to be bullied. Moreover, Mommy has been framed. I'm pretty confident that Juan and Kyle will be able to find out the truth.

When Nicole heard Nina's suggestion, she glanced at Evan while Evan kept quiet. He was worried that the reason Nina wanted to go to K Nation was not only because of her grandfather's illness, but she was still thinking of Chris.

It had taken Nina quite some time before she recovered from her heartbreak. If she were to find out the actual situation about Chris, Evan knew it would be a huge blow to her.

As such, Evan wanted Nina to stay on.

"Nina, I think it's best for you to stay here and look after your mother. This way, I will feel better."

"Maya can take care of Mommy. There are so many people who can look after Mommy. They'll be fine without me."

"But you are your mommy's daughter. You are the apple of her eye. You should stay here."

"Mommy is Grandpa's daughter too. At a time like this, I'm sure Mommy wants to be there for him. If I go, I am also helping her! Mommy, what do you think?"

Nicole was in a dilemma. She had the same concern as Evan. In the end, she made the decision and asked Nina to stay on with her.

Why are they trying to stop me from going to K Nation? Why? Are they worried that I will see Chris again? All I want to do is to see him get his retribution. That's all! Since Daddy and Mommy won't allow me to go, I will pretend to obey them first. Later on, I will find a way and go there on my own.

"I understand, Daddy. I will stay here with Mommy."

"Good! Juan, Kyle, I'll let you guys handle this matter. I don't care how you plan to do your investigation. I only have one request, and you two must get it done!"
