

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 1271

After reading the message, Sophia took a peep at Bethany.

Bethany and that pair of no good perverts have done the 'sandwich' before?

She remembered what Sarah just said about Bethany being favored, and that she had signed a contract with Ryan and Henry to become a spokesperson for Ronney Group. So, was she both Ryan and Henry's woman?

A sense of foreboding filled her heart and she felt that something bad was about to happen!

Thinking closely of what had happened earlier, she felt that there were a lot of things that weren't right. If it was just a matter of a senior wanting to kick their junior off their pedestal, there were plenty of chances, so why choose to do it today?

On an occasion like today, she didn't even have enough time to take photos, yet an A-lister like her would waste her time on a personal catfight with a minor Internet celebrity?

Sophia wasn't sure if she was on the right track, but this was still weird.

Michael, who was beside her, noticed that something was off too. He quickly contacted Hale.

"Send two people over here and have them keep an eye on Bethany. Watch her every move."

"Have Christine watched closely as well," Sophia added.

That young lady looked so innocent, but who knew what she had up her sleeves?

After Hale received the order, he immediately sent people to watch them.

Meanwhile, Bethany took the chance to take pictures with everyone everywhere before the show started. She looked very busy.

Backstage, Hale personally kept a watch on Christine himself. A tiny drone carrying a pinhole camera was flying around, sending the surveillance data obtained to the main console in real time. There were people watching the influencer's every move from behind her too.

The clothes under the JNS Group's brands and the materials needed for the show had been delivered in advance to the venue, and it filled up quite a few rooms. After Ronney's show was over, it would be their turn to go on stage.

Sophia's assistant brought Christine to meet Russell Simmons's daughter, Chloe Simmons, to let her pick a fitted dress for Christine, then sent her to a guest room to get changed. The assistant instructed her to quickly get ready before the opening of the fashion show before leaving.

Hale wasn't interested in watching her get changed, but not long after Christine entered the room and the assistant left, someone went to the door sneakily...

Soon, Michael received a call from Hale.

After answering the call, Michael's expression changed. With a grim look, he tapped on the Bluetooth earphone and ended the call.

"What did he say?" Seeing the heavy look on Michael's face, Sophia felt her heart skip a beat and she quickly asked him.

Don't tell me something bad really did happen!

Michael seemed to sneer and said, "If you and Stan didn't intervene earlier, Christine would have been chased out of the venue by the fashionistas because of the knock-off gown she was wearing. Humiliated, she wouldn't have been able to accept the grievance in her heart and would have climbed to the top of the state guesthouse and committed suicide, falling to her death on the red carpet right before everyone."

Sophia's eyes widened in disbelief after hearing this. An icy chill rushed through her body.

Christine wore a knock-off here today. If no one had intervened, she might really have been kicked out and the news would soon spread. She might really have jumped off the building because she couldn't bear the results...

Actually, it didn't matter if she could handle it or not because the other party needed her to die during fashion week. It would be best if she jumped off from the state guesthouse and fell to her death on the red carpet.

At that moment, celebrities from all over the world and Bayside City would be walking on the red carpet. Various stars and models would be duking it out on the red carpet while the camera lenses of countless media would be aimed toward that space. And when the event was at its peak, suddenly, a girl would fall from the sky and land right on the red carpet. Her body would break like a watermelon and blood would splatter everywhere on the ground...

Sophia didn't dare to picture that scene.

The fashion week would definitely be discontinued, and the guests would surely be frightened to death. Who would still dare to come and watch the show?

Although the venue was warm, she felt like she was being splashed by a bucket of ice cold water.

If Stanley just stood by and watched earlier and she didn't poke her nose in, by now, Christine would've jumped off the building and committed suicide because she was chased out of the event!

Michael held her and said, "Alright, it's okay now. Thanks to you and Stan, their plan was disrupted. Christine wasn't chased out, so they had to send someone to her room to continue their plan, but they were caught by Hale. God is looking after you, it'll be fine."

It was only then that Sophia got over her fear, and she glared viciously at Bethany.

Sophia knew that Bethany definitely wasn't the person behind all this. She was just a star who wished she could go to as many fashion weeks as possible to be in the spotlight.

It seemed that this was planned by Ryan and Henry.

They would rather ruin the whole fashion week than to have Sophia ride their wave.

She clenched her fists so tightly under her sleeves that she broke the fake fingernails she had attached to her nails.

“Hand that person over to Lucy and send two more people over to watch Christine. We can’t let them get another chance to try something.”

At that moment, Lucy had her hands full backstage. Unexpectedly, when Lucy learned of this news, she became so angry that she almost exploded in rage.

That pair of trash had really gone insane trying to ruin fashion week!

“Lock him up temporarily. We’ll hand them together to Ronney Group and let them deal with this themselves!” Lucy ordered viciously.

She really didn’t want to have anything to do with Ronney Group. The same went for that pair of b*stards too!

It was going to be over very soon. After she completed her mission for this fashion week, everything would come to an end. Ronney Group would have to solve their problems on their own!

After a while, Christine came back in a change of clothes.

Her dress was picked by Russell’s daughter, Chloe. As expected from the daughter of a fashionista, she had great fashion sense. The dress she picked suited Christine perfectly. It was a refreshing one-piece dress in pink which was flamboyant but not without elegance, yet had the cuteness of a young girl and suited Christine’s sweet temperament well. The dress was designed by Kenny’s team and was this year’s latest trend. It looked gorgeous on her.

Christine had also touched up her make-up. When she walked out, the dress caught the attention of many grande dames and fashion bloggers at once. They all inquired about the designer of this dress. When they learned it was Kenny’s work, they paid even closer attention to it.

Sophia was very surprised by this outcome too.

After a while, Sean learnt about the alarming things that had happened. Seeing Christine walk out again, he watched as she shined with envious eyes.

How great it is to be a girl. They can wear whatever clothes they like!

He looked over to Stanley who was talking to Nate, then looked at Christine who was all dressed up and reminded Stanley, "Look, Chrissy is out again. There's definitely going to be people who will try to harm her and ruin fashion week. You should keep an eye on her."

Stanley immediately grew alert.

Sean continued, "Let's take her to have some photos with the crowd. We can promote Aunt's dress at the same time."

Stanley thought it was a great idea too and agreed immediately. He took the initiative to help Christine take pictures with a few famous fashionistas.

Sophia turned around to look at Sean. Behind his perfect smile, she saw sadness.

Was he ready to let go of Stanley completely and find the right girl for him?

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 1272

When Christine found out that her idol actually took the initiative to bring her to take photos with the heavy hitters, she was so excited that her speech became incoherent. "R-Really? That would trouble you too much! I-I can do it on my own."

Her company had asked her to take more pictures with big shots during the event and post them on Twitter to raise her popularity, but she didn't know even a single one of them and had no one to take her around to get to know them. She also had no assistant that could help her to take the pictures. Besides that, they had even sent her a knock-off dress. It seemed that they purposely wanted to take her down.

Stanley didn't mind. "Oh, we are all loser otakus who play games. We should help each other out. Come, I'll introduce you to them."

Sean watched as they both walked in front of him. He followed them behind with a camera and even gave Stanley a reminder. "Stan, you two should exchange phone numbers and add each other on Messenger so it'll be easier to send pictures."

Stanley was a little slow on the uptake. Catching on, he quickly exchanged phone numbers with Christine and added each other on Messenger.

After they exchanged contacts, Stanley brought Christine along to take pictures with someone and introduce her to some big shots along the way.

"Uncle Michael, Aunt, come here and take a picture together. Uncle Harry, come closer. Right, leave the center to the miss."

"Nate, come here. Take a picture with this young miss. You need to hold hands and look like you guys are close."

"Nicole, Uncle Sam, Linus! Come take a picture!"

.....

When Bethany and the other D-listers saw that Christine was able to chat and take pictures with a group of fashionistas and had Stanley by her side, they were all extremely jealous.

Bethany was fuming.

Sh*t, why is nothing happening yet? Isn't this b*tch supposed to be dead by now?!

She had always wanted to get rid of Christine, and it so happened that her financial backer wanted her to make a scene at fashion week. She was planning to use the opportunity to get rid of her and cause some trouble at the same time. They could have killed two birds with one stone if the plan had not been messed up by someone else unexpectedly!

After the photo session, Christine was overjoyed. She had also used the opportunity to get to know a lot of fashionistas and added them on Messenger too.

"Thank you, Mr. Snow Fox!" Christine blushed. She was still used to calling his username in the game.

Stanley didn't mind and replied, "Oh, it's no big deal, so don't worry about it. I'll send you the pictures as soon as possible so that you can report back."

He really didn't mind it at all and forgot about it after a while, but Christine's eyes were shining and she had butterflies in her belly.

Sean, who was not far away, looked at them. There was sadness in his eyes, but it was filled with blessings too...

Sophia had added Christine on Messenger too and used the opportunity to check on her circle of friends. Sophia saw the bunch of beautiful photos she just posted that she took with her phone earlier.

Because both parties didn't interact much before, they didn't have many mutual friends. Besides, Messenger only allowed the likes and comments of mutual friends to be seen, so she couldn't see her likes.

She swiped her finger and took a few more looks, thinking that maybe she and Stanley could develop their relationship. As his aunt, she went through her profile and inspected it closely. Unexpectedly, she saw a like and comment. She clicked it and found that it was actually from Maddie.

Maddie and Christine actually knew each other!

She quickly sent Maddie an inquiry and Maddie replied very quickly. "Oh, she is a distant cousin of mine from my hometown. She came to Bayside City to pursue her career alone and she didn't know anyone, so my relatives back home asked me to take care of her. Her invitation for this fashion week was from my company too! You don't have to mind her, just let her explore on her own. She's already all grown up and isn't a kid anymore."

Sophia was left speechless. Christine was actually Maddie's distant relative, yet she had never heard Maddie mention about her before.

But Maddie sure was punctilious. She never told her relatives back in her hometown about life with her husband in Bayside City, and she had never brought her relatives to the Fletcher Residence too. Her family really thought that she had married a paratrooper and lived in a basement in Beijing.

It wasn't because she thought that her relatives were embarrassing, but because if her relatives knew about the Fletcher Family, they would start to ask Joel for help with all of their family matters, such as helping an older brother, uncle or younger brother get married, or helping them look for a job. They would definitely bother Joel and she didn't want to cause him trouble.

Even though she knew that Sophia and Michael had a lot of resources at their fingertips, and that they could arrange everything for her if she asked for it, she still stayed silent.

However, that was in line with Maddie's style. She started off as an intern editor in a newspaper and worked there for many years. She had worked her way up, not letting Joel put in a good word for her and without using any of the Fletcher Family's resources either.

Seeing how Christine wore a knock-off dress to the fashion show, it seemed that she was being ostracized by her company. Her team also didn't seem to care about her at all. Maddie really was careless, letting a young lady wander in Beijing by herself without worrying. What was more, she was letting her wander in the ruthless and cruel world of entertainment.

If she hadn't intervened out of kindness, Christine would have been a dead person by now!

Sophia looked at Christine and said to her assistant, "Contact Christine's agency. She has a good temperament. She will be our spokesperson for the next season."

A storm was prevented just like that, but Sophia still kept her guard up. This matter wasn't as simple as it seemed. If they wanted to make such a big scene, they would need a lot of manpower and would have needed to start planning a long time ago. If she hadn't intervened today, they probably would have succeeded already.

She really didn't expect the other party to be so bold that they would kill someone at such a grand fashion show.

But that fitted the style of that pair of twin brothers who weren't afraid of anything.

After handling the matter, Sophia lifted her head and started looking everywhere for Cooper.

"Huh, where's dad?"

Cooper still hadn't appeared, and Anna didn't show up either. He was probably waiting for Anna outside.

Sophia looked over to Callum and saw him staring at his phone. It seemed that he had received some grim news.

Outside the venue, Cooper had already been waiting for quite a while. He checked on his watch from time to time.

The show is about to start. Why is Anna not here yet?

Did something happen?

Just then, a car stopped and Daniel got out of it gracefully. He immediately saw Cooper who was still waiting foolishly and greeted him. "Hey, Mr. Cooper! Are you waiting for someone?"

Cooper responded with a grunt.

Daniel presented his invitation while saying, "I think I saw Ronney's car right behind me just now."

Cooper perked up immediately. He pulled himself together, tidied up his attire and prepared to welcome Anna in his best condition.

Daniel smiled.

Geez...

The cold Cooper was no different to a little boy when he fell in love.

Daniel walked over to the red carpet and entered the venue. Just when he was about to greet an acquaintance, he suddenly saw a blue dress flashing past him.

In that instant, Daniel's eyes widened. An attractive figure was reflected in his eyes.

"Alice, is that you...?"

Alice turned her head and looked back. Her eyes were calm, as was her smile. She controlled her emotions perfectly.

"Daddy!"

Casper suddenly appeared and ran toward Daniel joyfully.

.....

Cooper, who was at the door, finally saw Ronney Group's car arrive. He happily took two steps forward, ready to welcome Anna, but he didn't expect that when the car door opened, the first thing to step on the ground would be a pair of leather shoes for men...

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 1273

Cooper, who was in high spirits, paused when he saw that pair of men's leather shoes. Taken completely aback, his pupils shrank when he saw Jordan get out of the car.

Jordan was dressed in a men's custom fall/winter outfit, looking domineering and unfathomable. After he got out of the car, he instantly turned around, bent down slightly and grabbed Anna's hand, helping her out of the car.

Anna was wearing a pair of white gloves. She wore a creamy white outfit today, almost becoming one with the snow around her. She would've been the perfect match with Cooper, who was wearing all black. She had picked the outfit for him, but she came with Jordan.

With a calm smile, she held Jordan's arm with one hand and gently lifted her dress with the other. Walking toward the red carpet, it was as if she didn't see Cooper, who had been waiting for her for a long time.

Throughout the whole time, she didn't even give Cooper a glance at all. She just walked on the red carpet alongside Jordan and entered the media's view, a warm smile on her face.

They were even wearing couple rings.

Anna was the president of Ronney Group. Today was the launch of Ronney's new product, so naturally, she was to be today's finale. Countless lenses were pointed their way while lights flashed continuously, perfectly capturing her every smile.

Most of the time, she appeared alone. She would sometimes appear with her son, but tonight, she had shown up with a man. Everyone was surprised and someone took the opportunity to ask, "President Anna, the one beside you is—"

Cooper looked over too, his eyes wide opened, waiting for Anna's reply.

Facing the media's cameras, Anna smiled impeccably and said, "This is my husband, Jordan."

Cooper's heart, which was already in his throat, felt like it was smashed to the ground hard and shattered into pieces...

So Anna had a husband!

That man seemed like he was... the head of the Edwards Clan, Jordan Edwards!

This was exclusive news!

The media took pictures frantically, a cacophony of camera shutters sounding. Jordan and Anna stood arm in arm, generously letting the media take their pictures. They occasionally looked at each other and smiled. They seemed to be truly affectionate with one another and looked a perfect match.

Cooper just watched as they walked down the red carpet and into the venue. He took in a deep breath, but that breath affected his whole body. He then realized that the pain had sunk into his organs.

Justin, who was at the side, looked at Cooper who was badly shaken. He quickly called out, "Cooper—"

Cooper waved his hand and said, "I'm fine."

It seemed that the situation had changed.

Anna definitely wouldn't have changed her mind on a whim. Jordan had been in hiding for decades, so him showing up and revealing his identity so suddenly was weird.

Except for the Edwards Family and the Yard Family, he had mistresses all around the world and also countless businesses, but he only ever revealed his relationship with the Yard Family.

It must be because Jordan had noticed something.

His Anna was being forced!

She didn't like having bodily contact with men. She must be in terrible pain right now, but yet she had to force herself to smile!

He straightened his clothes and walked into the venue.

In this battle without gunpowder, he would never let his Anna fight alone!

Justin was very helpless and texted Sophia, asking them to be prepared.

Just when Cooper was about to enter the venue, he saw Tiffany who was already waiting for him at the entrance.

"Fass, you're here!"

Tiffany's outfit today could not be ignored. Her low-cut dress was very eye-catching, and with her long legs, willowy waist and wide hips, her figure was as good as a supermodel's.

She had seen the whole thing too. She didn't expect that Jordan was really Anna's husband.

That b*tch! Seems like she is eyeing what's in the pot as she eats from the bowl!

She must think that Cooper is an honest man and wanted him to be her lover!

Poor Cooper. He's probably still kept in the dark, not expecting that her real husband would appear!

Everything is exposed!

This is great!

"Hmm," Cooper answered shortly. He didn't stop Tiffany from grabbing his arm.

Tiffany held his arm happily and walked into the venue.

Sophia, who was inside, saw Anna and Jordan come in. Callum and Cade suddenly acted dignified and went to sit with Jordan. They seemed to be chatting away happily in a low tone. The family of four were having a good time, and nothing seemed out of the ordinary.

Meanwhile, Cooper also entered the venue with Tiffany, who took the advantage to sit beside Cooper. Her exposed breasts were like basketballs that almost hid half of Cooper's torso.

Sophia looked at him in distress.

Cooper's heart was probably bleeding badly right now.

The first show hadn't started yet, and most of the guests had arrived. Anyone who came late to such a grand fashion show would likely be blacklisted. Besides, Ronney's fashion show had always been on time, so even the famous fashionistas didn't dare to be late. There were practically no cars left outside.

But there was still one car which came late. A girl in an outrageous dress got out of the car, followed by two men who looked exactly alike and were dressed in the same outfit.

The two men came limping and wanted to enter the venue without invitations.

Why are they here?

Justin personally came forward and blocked the entrance.

"Hello, please present your invitation!"

Henry, who was limping, still acted arrogant. "Me? Are you asking for an invitation? Don't you know who I am?"

"I'm sorry, I don't know who you are," Justin replied. "I only recognize invitations!"

Henry was furious and stepped forward on his crutches. He knew of Justin, who was in cahoots with Sophia. As it happened, his leg was broken by that fierce and stupid wife of Justin's.

"Open your damn eyes and take a look. I'm Henry, the general manager of Ronney Group in Cethos! My surname is Yard!"

Justin still looked indifferent. "Sorry, but I'll still need your invitations!"

He had thought that Lucy would watch them closely, but they still managed to escape from the hospital.

Sandra, who came with the twins, was even more arrogant. "Mitchell, look closely! These two are Ryan and Henry Yard, the heads of Ronney Group. How are you doing your job? Don't look down on people!"

Justin was very cold. Just when he was about to have them thrown out, a person unexpectedly came running over and whispered into his ear. Justin suddenly changed his mind and waved his hand. "Fine, you guys can head inside!"

Sandra then proudly followed the limping brothers inside.

But unexpectedly, just as the brothers entered the venue, they were called to a room backstage by Lucy.

In the room were Anna, Callum, Cade and Jordan. Lucy had sent people to bring over two big men who were tied up and threw the men in front of them, then explained what had happened.

"Dad, you deal with it. I don't want to get involved in the Yard Family's business."

After Lucy finished what she had to say, she opened the door and left. "I have work to do."

Jordan looked at the mess his sons had caused, seething.

He never expected his sons to become so foolish. To think they would even do something like this!

But the Yard brothers who were exposed didn't think that they were wrong and were even trying to defend themselves in a righteous manner!

"Dad, Lucy is looking down on us. She orchestrated this whole thing herself! This has nothing to do with us!"

"The way I see it, she wants to take over the Yard Family's assets! Dad, you can't fall for it!"

"Besides, nothing happened. How could she say that it was us? We didn't do anything and were even kept prisoners in the hospital by her! We finally managed to escape today!"

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 1274

Jordan wasn't so easy to fool and from what Lucy had explained, he already knew everything. He knew his sons well enough; they were spoiled ever since they were young and were capable of anything. They didn't know how to see the big picture at all.

But actually, he also had his guard up against Lucy. His eldest daughter was very much like him and wasn't one who was easy to fool too.

She might really be coveting Ronney's assets.

Meanwhile, Anna hugged Ryan and Henry in distress, not blaming them at all. She even thought that they were ones who were wronged.

"Good heavens, how could this happen? Jordan, as I've kept warning you, Lucy can't be trusted!"

"Yes, she is your daughter and you trust her, but to her, my sons and I are outsiders. She would never care about us!"

"My poor sons..."

Callum took the opportunity and said, "Dad, I too think that entrusting such an important matter to an outsider is somewhat biased. She said that Ryan and Henry did something bad, but it might just be her putting on a show!"

Cade didn't say a word, but he must be smiling inside.

Jordan was silent for a moment, then said, "Let's end the matter here. Ronney's Fashion Week is a major event of the Ronney Group. Mistakes aren't allowed to be made. After this fashion week is over, Lucy will step down and leave."

The twins were discontented. They always felt that Jordan favored Lucy and thought they should've chased that old woman away sooner!

However, Lucy was Jordan's eldest daughter after all. She had the surname of Edwards, while they were both Yards.

They absolutely would not let Lucy and Sophia have their way.

Meanwhile, Callum and Jordan began chatting. "Dad, weren't you supposed to be overseas these few days? Why did you come over so suddenly?"

Jordan looked at Anna and seemed to be smiling. "Because I'm a citizen here. Anna and I want to get married, and we plan to hold the wedding banquet in Bayside City this year."

Get married?

Hold a wedding banquet?

This news took Callum by surprise, then he congratulated Jordan. "That's great news! Congratulations to both of you!"

Anna smiled impeccably, looking like a woman who was in love and immersed in happiness, but no one knew how she really felt inside...

After a while, Lucy saw her family come out, chatting and smiling. As expected, the twins were both fine and she understood what was going on at once.

"Hmph!"

Seemed like Jordan and Anna thought it wasn't a big deal.

Ronney Fashion Week wasn't even as important as their sons!

The struggle between the Yard Family was none of her business. All she wanted was to complete this mission and leave.

The show had already begun. As one of the staff behind the scenes, she was focused on the show so she didn't notice a palm going for her butt.

Slap!

A familiar palm slapped her on her butt and her whole body shook. She turned around and saw a tall man walk past behind her. He was dressed in a frivolous manner, his hair was dyed in many colors, and he even had an ear piercing, looking like a non-mainstream from a decade ago.

Lucy rolled her eyes at him.

"How immature."

Dana was here today as a security guard. When she learned that someone was planning to cause a scene, she had been patrolling vigilantly. She was the one who caught the two people who were up to no good just now.

While she was patrolling, she also took the opportunity to tease people. When she went to tease Sean just now, she was given a harsh slap by Stanley.

The fashion show had already started, and all the guests went inside the venue to watch the show. The slender models were wearing gorgeous clothes and walked professionally on the runway in the splendid venue. The atmosphere was harmonious, and one climax came after the other. Ronney's new collection this year was once again a smash hit. They were sure to get tons of orders after the show.

Dana looked over to Lucy who was not far away from her and saw that she was frowning while watching the models nervously. Other people might think that she was enjoying the show, but to her, this was work.

She looked at her, forgetting all the glitz in front of her. The only thing left in her eyes was Lucy, timeless and unforgettable.

At this moment, water was poured onto the dry ice near the stage, and white fog started to float in the air. Gradually, she lost sight of her, so she left, her interest gone.

Jordan was dealing with a sudden situation. When he turned around, he saw Dana's slender and attractive figure disappearing in the fog...

A show might need months of preparation, but the actual show only took about half an hour to finish. Soon, the Ronney's fashion show ended. The afternoon would belong to JNS Group.

A magnificent show had ended and everyone was satisfied. The celebrities had raised their popularity, buyers found new clothes to buy, fashion bloggers and editors had their drafts ready, and the rich ladies had already started to place their orders.

Sophia also had a few items that she liked, and Michael had already placed an order for them.

Anything that his wife took photos frantically with her phone must mean that she liked them, so buying them would not be a wrong move. He had bought a few pieces for himself too.

Ronney Group was indeed the overlords of the fashion industry. They had a royal aesthetic and style of their own, and most of their contract designers were the descendants of former tailors of the monarch. Later on, they hired lots of well-known designers who were recognized internationally, so how could they not be famous?

Ronney and many other brands had their own fashion shows, so more than a dozen of fashion shows were lined up for the next seven days. The guests could pick the shows they were interested in to watch.

After the show ended, the main creative team went on stage to everyone's applause. Anna and Jordan were on the stage too.

As Ronney Group's president, she gave a short speech about the idea of the design and the inspiration behind this year's fall/winter collection. At last, she said, "Today, I have another important announcement to make."

Everyone perked up their ears. Meanwhile, Jordan was already standing beside Anna and looking at the audience calmly.

Anna's gaze swept across the venue, but she missed a certain corner.

Finally, she said with a dignified and elegant smile, "The one beside me is my boyfriend who has been with me for many years. He is also the father of my four children. Tonight, in this hotel, our engagement ceremony will start at eight o'clock on the dot. Everyone is welcome."

Everyone was shocked, then they started applauding to give their blessings.

This was Ronney Group and the Edwards Family from Bayside City they were talking about! They were a perfect match!

And they even had four sons. It must have not been easy for them to finally get married after they had been in love with each other for such a long time.

Engagement ceremony!

Sophia's heart trembled after hearing these words. She looked over to Cooper, whose face was calm, not showing any signs of happiness and sadness. There was nothing at all. He was like a statue with no emotions.

But Sophia could still see the sadness spreading beneath his calm expression, which was tearing him up from the inside like a devil. He was suffering, but he couldn't express it.

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 1275

Ronney's fashion show came to an end today and the guests left one after another, but Cooper still sat in place, not moving. He held his position and stared blankly in the direction of the runway.

Sophia went to sit beside Cooper and nudged him gently. "Dad?"

After nudging him a few times, Cooper finally came back to his senses and replied, "Yes?"

"Dad, let's go get something to eat," Linus said softly.

Cooper didn't reply. He got up and felt like his whole body was boneless. He had experienced countless despairs in his life, and this time, as always, he hated himself for not being capable enough to protect the ones he loved.

"Let's go have a meal together," Sam said energetically. "The room and table have already been reserved. It will be my treat today." After saying that, he patted Cooper on his shoulder.

Tiffany didn't let go of Cooper's arm the whole time, as if she was already Cooper's wife. She was enjoying holding onto his arm, and she was so excited that her huge breasts jiggled up and down.

"Come on, let's go together." Of course, Tiffany wanted nothing more than to be together with Cooper. "Fass, let's continue chatting after the meal."

JNS Group's fashion show was in the afternoon, and Cooper was definitely going to be there. Tiffany had received an invitation too, and she was planning to use the opportunity to interact more with Cooper. Since Tiffany was coming, her daughter would definitely come too. As such, Sarah grabbed her husband tightly, glaring fiercely at Betsy's G-cup breast.

Bailey, however, walked out without saying a word. It seemed like he didn't want to eat with them. Sarah quickly stopped him. "Huh? Kid, don't go! Let's eat together!"

With a cold face, Bailey left without hesitation. "Not interested."

Sarah pouted. As expected from Adams Group; all the women had big breasts and all the men had long faces. What was with that attitude? Later when I get home, I'll draw you into an erotic manga and pair you up with Judge!

While Bailey had already left by himself, Cooper, Sophia and the others headed to the Crimson House for a meal. They had to rush back for the second show in the afternoon, but unexpectedly, just when they turned around and had taken only a few steps, someone stopped Cooper.

"Cooper!"

Cooper paused and turned his neck around stiffly. He saw Jordan walking toward him, with Anna taking his arm and their four sons following behind them. Lucy and Sandra were with them too.

Jordan strode toward him proudly in large strides, his entire demeanor elated. He came up, patted Cooper on his shoulder and said, "It's been a long time. Let's have lunch together!"

Cooper coldly pushed Jordan's hand off his shoulder and said, "Unfortunately, we've already made a reservation."

Jordan didn't seem to notice that anything was wrong and extended his invitation kindly, "Tonight will be Anna and mine's engagement ceremony. You must come!"

Everyone could see that he was only here to show off and knock Cooper down a peg. Anna, who was beside him, kept smiling and didn't say a word, but Sophia could see a hint of unnaturalness and reluctance in her eyes.

Cooper, however, didn't have the courage to glance at them. As he turned around, he said, "I will be there."

As he left the group, his figure from behind looked so lonely and sad. Anna felt as if her heart was stabbed by a knife, and as she took a breath, she felt her heart bleed. While she looked at Cooper, her smile seemed to grow teary and her eyes grew moist.

Everything had been perfect. She had personally picked the creation she was most proud of for him. Then, she would show up with Cooper, and they would appear like a pair made in heaven. But this morning, Jordan had suddenly appeared and proposed to her to get engaged and married all of a sudden.

Besides being shocked, she realized she had no reason or excuse whatsoever to refuse... but she didn't want to marry Jordan. Just being under the same sky as him already made her feel disgusted, and breathing the same air as him made her feel nauseous. Every breath made her feel like all her organs were burning. However, tonight, she had to attend the engagement ceremony.

Since Jordan dared to marry her, she dared to accept it. All these years, Jordan had never dared to marry any woman, because once married, it would involve the division of assets. He would never let anyone have his assets. Since he took the initiative to put this out, she would accept it! However, she couldn't face Cooper.

As for Cooper, he had already left sadly. Tonight, he would be attending the engagement ceremony of the love of his life and another man's, but he wouldn't back down. He absolutely would not let Anna face Jordan by herself. She still had him!

Right now, Tiffany was feeling very smug. Playing the role of Cooper's woman and supporting him, she said, "We will definitely attend the ceremony." With that, she quickly chased after Cooper. After she caught up with him, she took Cooper's arm tightly and pressed her chest against his arm, making it seem like they were very affectionate.

After Cooper left, Jordan, who knew exactly how Cooper was feeling, pretended to be concerned. "Is Cooper okay?"

Linus replied with a smile, "Perhaps he's tired. After all, he just finished watching a show and there will be another one in the afternoon. Also, he still has to attend your engagement ceremony tonight."

Jordan then seemed to understand and replied, "Cooper really is a busy man, but I sincerely hope that everyone can attend tonight's ceremony!"

Anna looked at Sophia and smiled. "Since I have to get ready for tonight's ceremony, I won't be able to attend your show in the afternoon. However, I will send Callum and Cade over to cheer you on."

Sophia could see that her smile was soulless and there wasn't a tinge of happiness in it. Feeling bad, she said, "You go ahead, I will definitely attend tonight's ceremony."

"Don't push yourself too hard," Anna replied warmly. Then, Jordan and Anna left, along with the four Yard brothers, Lucy and Sandra.

Following that, Sophia rushed out and chased after Cooper. When she got out, she saw that Cooper and Tiffany had already left by car, and that the others were waiting for their rides by the road.

As she thought back about what had just happened, Sophia felt very upset. Michael saw her sighing and patted her gently. "It's alright, things will eventually become better. It's just an engagement ceremony."

Sophia remained silent. She wasn't in the mood to speak at all but then a thought appeared in her mind. If the ceremony was ruined...

Jordan and Anna getting married would bring about a great impact. There must be someone who didn't want them to get married! She needed to stop tonight's engagement ceremony without anyone catching on!

"Alright, come and pose. There are photographers taking pictures on the streets!" Michael reminded her.

It was only then did Sophia realize that there were photographers taking pictures on the side, so she quickly stuck closer to Michael and did her best to pose.

The show in the morning had ended, but there were still many models and Internet celebrities wandering around the entrance, not wanting to leave. They were pretending to wait for someone but made sure to pose fashionably to make it more convenient for those who were taking pictures.

Bethany was also being photographed by a lot of photographers. She looked very chic in her tailored Ronney dress, posing at the perfect angle for the cameras and was enjoying being in the spotlight proudly. But unexpectedly, she heard a sudden commotion, and all the photographers and media went over there. It turned out that Christine was here.