

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 921

Sophia really wanted to know when did she suddenly have a best friend that she grew up with. Her name, Lucile Michel, was a name that Cooper had come up with when they were returning to Cethos. This meant that she appeared out of nowhere and before her appearance, Cooper had always been bachelor with no children and no wives.

Even the Michel Family only knew about Cooper's daughter and few have ever seen her.

How can Abby be lucky enough to have grown up with me?

"You probably don't know this, but Abbie was brought up by the Michel Family and she is Miss Lucile's best friend!" Sandra deliberately raised her voice, afraid that Sophia couldn't hear her. She was a living example of a b*tch who relied on the power of others.

Sophia glanced at Abbie and noticed that she didn't look guilty at all. Instead, she looked rather confident, as if she had really grown up with Lucile and was her best friend.

She has pretty good acting skills.

Sophia's eyes looked around as she tried to guess at Abbie's intentions.

Abby is definitely a liar. I don't even know when I suddenly had a best friend. Is Sandra being deceived by her, or are they working together to blackmail people? If it's the latter, their courage is admirable but if it's the former, then it's interesting... However, no matter what, this house belongs to me and it's my name on the title. How can I let these two take away what's mine?

"Well, I've met her now. People who can grow up together with Miss Lucile sure are extraordinary. Dimon, see them off."

With that, Sophia carefully stepped on the green stones in the courtyard with the new fur boots that she had just bought and walked toward the house.

“Stop right there!”

Sandra suddenly grabbed at Sophia and she said in a serious tone, “Sophia, didn’t you hear what I just said? Abbie fell in love with this house. If you don’t give this house up, the Mitchell Family, and even Cethos, will suffer! The power that the Michel Family has is beyond your imagination!”

Sophia wanted to laugh. Even Cethos will have to suffer? I know a lot about the Michel Family’s power. Although they have power overseas, they don’t have much influence in Cethos. In the past, Cooper had no intentions of developing the power of the Michel Family, and only began to gradually develop the company in Cethos a few days ago. Even if the Michel Family has great development in Cethos, they are just a family. How would they dare to go against the world’s most populous country?

Sophia clasped Sandra’s hand that was holding her arm tightly and pushed it away. Then, she said, “I know that the Michel Family is powerful, but this is Cethos. If I don’t agree to give up this house, is the Michel Family going to send an army to forcefully take it from me?”

The left corner of Sophia’s lips curled upwards as she continued, “If you really want to lead an army to take over this place, please notify me beforehand. I’ll obediently move out.”

Even though Sophia wasn’t sure whether Abbie and Sandra were partners or Sandra was being fooled, she was too lazy to expose them. She just watched as the two of them continued to lie.

Sooner or later, I’ll settle these accounts and punish them for their crimes together!

After pushing away Sandra’s hand, Sophia walked toward the main building. All of sudden, she remembered something and without looking back, she announced, “By the way, I have already dealt with the matter. Sandra, you’ll be receiving the court’s subpoena soon!”

When Sophia walked past Abbie, she saw Abbie’s eyes glaring at her with resentment, contempt and anger, much like a superior staring at a lowly servant. Her makeup was really thick and the blue in her contact lenses was exaggerated. Staring at Sophia, Abbie said nothing.

Sophia merely glanced at her for a moment before she looked away and rolled her eyes. Seeing this, Abbie glared at her with her thick brows raised, which made her look a little fierce.

However, Sophia only took two steps forward before she heard Sandra give an order, "There's no need to talk nonsense. Guards, drive everyone in this house out of here!"

Sandra was determined to take over the house that day. After all, Abbie liked the house and as her pet, Sandra had to do everything she could to please her. After kicking Sophia and Cooper out of the house, Abbie would be pleased and no one would hold her accountable.

To go against the Michel Family is to die!

The dozen men that Sandra brought over immediately rushed forward and headed to the main building. However, Dimon, Roger and the others stood still and folded their arms as they waited for a show to happen. Meanwhile, Sophia continued to walk slowly toward the main building. She was wearing a cotton bodycon dress that showed off her slender figure. Then, she slowly raised four fingers and said, "Siri, they brought four cars so just let four of them go. Take care of the rest."

As soon as she finished speaking, it was as if the air was compressed and the atmosphere became tense. The people from the Mitchell Family all felt a great sense of danger but they didn't know where it was coming from. Suddenly, the dozens of bodyguards dressed in black that Sandra brought over fell to the ground silently.

There was no sound, no resistance, and no struggle as they fell straight to the ground. Everything happened in one second. After taking a closer look, there were needle marks on their necks. The dozen of men fell to the ground in an instant and only Sandra, Abbie, and two other bodyguards were left standing. The people from Sophia's side were all watching the excitement, none of them harmed.

It was a precise strike and was extremely accurate. The Siri system was a residential defense system that Cooper installed. When someone uninvited broke into the house, the system would intelligently identify the person before carrying out a precise attack.

This was something Cooper installed after being provoked when Carmen was captured by Celine.

After the attack, Sandra and Abbie were shocked and they stood there stunned as they glanced at the dozen men that had suddenly fallen to the ground. The other two bodyguards that were standing also turned pale and they hurriedly escorted Sandra and Abby toward the door.

Sophia looked back and glanced at the group of men on the ground. Then, she looked at the two bodyguards standing there but didn't say a thing. All of a sudden, two huskies rushed out of the building and greeted her enthusiastically. And so, Sophia petted the two dogs and went into the main building.

Only the four people who were dumbfounded were left at the scene. Sophia was kind enough to leave them with four people, and two of them were bodyguards that could drag the others into the car.

Abbie trembled in fear as she opened the door and quickly ran out. When Sandra came back to her senses, her first reaction was joy.

"Sophia, you're in big trouble now! Big trouble!"

Sophia's alpaca spit on Abbie's head the last time, but Abbie may let her go for the sake of the house. However, this time, not only did she not get the house, she was even humiliated by Sophia. Abbie will definitely make her pay for the consequences.

With that, Sandra ran away with Abbie. She was waiting for the violent storm to come because she knew that the Michel Family would definitely punish Sophia.

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 922

There were only two of Sandra's bodyguards left at the scene and they didn't know what to do. It wasn't right for them to leave or stay. If they left, they couldn't just leave their other companions on the ground; they didn't look dead and it was as if they were in deep sleep. However, if they stayed, it was possible that they may be the ones who fall next.

Fortunately for them, Dimon was kind enough to tell them what to do. After all, he used to work for Sandra's side of the Mitchell Family. He told the two bodyguards to drive the car to the back door and one by one, they carried the bodyguards on the ground into the car. Moreover, he even warned them to never come back because they couldn't afford to offend this family.

In the end, they drove away in two different cars filled with bodyguards who were sound asleep.

They are horrifying! As expected, Alex is no match for Cooper!

After this incident, a group of people who used to side with Alex chose to side with Cooper one after another. Cooper started from scratch after he returned to Cethos but now, he gradually became equals with Alex.

After Sophia entered the house, she went into the living room and saw that Michael and Sean had returned. After they left the police station, they went shopping for a while before they came home via the garage. However, when Sophia heard that Sandra was here again, she hurried to go in through the front door to watch the excitement and have a look at Abbie, who claimed that she grew up with her.

Cooper was also in the living room, getting ready for dinner. Carmen was in her father's arms and Judge—who had a head full of braids—sat beside her, looking at Michael sincerely.

Then, Carmen asked, "Daddy, does Judge look like a wolf?"

Michael frowned and glanced at Judge, who had braids all over his head, before he gave an honest reply. "No."

Hearing this, Carmen pouted and said, "You're lying, Daddy. Grandpa said that Judge is a Siberian sled wolf!"

Michael stole a glance at Cooper, wondering what trick Carmen had up her sleeve. However, since Cooper already said that Judge looked like a wolf, he couldn't say otherwise. Hence, Michael hurriedly nodded and replied, "Yes; Grandpa is right."

Upon hearing that, Carmen was overjoyed. "Then can Judge play the role of a wolf in the movie?"

Michael had a sudden realization. So that's what she wants.

There are some dramas which like to mock the audience by using Samoyeds to play the role of a fox and huskies to play the role of a wolf. However, my movie naturally won't be such an eyesore so the director decided to use real wolves and special effects... If Judge enters the set, he might be shredded to pieces!

In a serious tone, Michael said, "I'm afraid it is not suitable for Judge to act as a wolf!"

Carmen continued to pout her lips and argued, "But Grandpa said yes! Are you questioning Grandpa's judgement?"

Michael quickly glanced at Cooper, only to find Cooper glaring at him sternly. Seeing this, Michael hurriedly looked away.

This little girl is getting good at playing tricks! She knows that I won't agree so she asked Cooper to back her up! Cooper already said that Judge is a wolf, so how can I refuse? Of course I can't!

Which was why Michael had no choice but to agree. "Alright then. I'll be heading to the set the day after tomorrow and I'll bring Judge. I'll let him be a wolf in the movie!"

A glint instantly appeared in Carmen's eyes and she said, "Then, can I get Judge's pay first?"

Michael frowned. This girl... She is doing all of this for money, isn't she?

He pulled out 200 from his pocket and said, "Here's Judge's pay. Carmen, you'll have to help me pay it to Judge!"

With that, Carmen happily took the money and left with the dog.

After she walked out of the door, she stuffed a 100 into her pocket and gave Judge the other 100.

“Judgey, the other 100 is my referral fee.”

With his tongue out, Judge licked his bill happily and carried it to his piggy bank in his cage.

Meanwhile in the living room. Michael commented, “I will take Judge to the set but I can’t let that silly dog play the role of a wolf. It will ruin the movie.”

Cooper silently agreed.

Raising a granddaughter is giving me a headache. In order to earn 200 from Michael, she was willing to drag me into this. The reason she wants Judge to play the role of a wolf is definitely because of the money. Knowing her, at least half of the 200 will enter her pocket. What a corrupt and shrewd capitalist!

Cooper untied the braids on his head and put the colorful little rubber bands on his wrists. However, a few seconds after Michael finished speaking, he suddenly heard a long howl filled with grief coming from the doghouse. Truth was, it was as ferocious as a wolf’s howl. Michael was so shocked that he hurriedly covered his mouth.

Oh no! I forgot Cooper installed Judge’s ears and his hearing is so good, he can hear people snacking on the third floor all the way from the first floor.

Judge probably heard Michael speak ill of him and he barked non stop as he rushed over, as if he was scolding Michael.

Who are you calling silly? You’re the silly one! Your whole family is silly! How dare you call me a silly dog? I’ll bite your wife as revenge!

Sophia just happened to finish changing into comfy clothes. As soon as she entered the room, Judge rushed over and bit the bottom of her pants.

“What are you doing, silly dog?”

Seeing this, Michael and Cooper stood up almost at the same time, rushing over to capture Judge. Although they were really noisy, the family looked harmonious. Judge ran around, as if he wanted to demolish the 5 million house. After chasing him for a while, they finally locked him in a cage. In the end, Sophia, Michael, and Cooper were covered in dog fur. They glanced at each other, feeling speechless.

Michael continued to stay in the house that day. After all, Cooper's attention was focused on finding his son and had no time to care about him at all, so he could boldly eat and stay in the house.

The next day, Sophia and Michael jointly held a press conference and many reporters came.

Flash lights shone on them from time to time and camera shutters echoed throughout the room. The cameras captured Michael dressed handsomely in a suit and leather shoes, and Sophia, who had made the effort to dress up. The two of them looked like a great match and they even had their wedding rings on their fingers.

As soon as the press conference started, Michael began to make a few statements about the recent events.

“For starters, Miss Sophia Edwards and I are not divorced. We have a harmonious relationship and a daughter. We even plan to have a second child. As for the speculation of Sophia's identity, I hereby announce that Miss Edwards is also Scarlett Mitchell, the daughter of Cooper Mitchell, chairman of Mitchell Energy and Technology. Three years ago, she and I were injured from being trampled by a group of crazy fans. Later on, she went abroad to find her biological father, Mr. Mitchell, and changed her name. Because of what happened back then, I retired from the entertainment industry and didn't make any statement on this matter, ignoring the widespread news on the internet that Miss Edwards and I were killed.”

Back then, news about his death was reported everywhere, but he ignored all of them. Instead, he searched the world for his wife and had no time to deal with the fake reports.

As soon as Michael finished his statement, there was an instant uproar. Even though there were rumors about Sophia and Scarlett being the same person circling around Bayside City since a long time ago, it was just a wild guess. However, at that moment, Sophia had admitted it herself. The reporters were agitated.

Then, Michael began his second statement. “As for Miss Sandra's irresponsible remarks, I will hold her accountable! Miss Sandra Mitchell is a former world champion. I cannot imagine that she would make such remarks. Not only did she spread rumors about my divorce, she even insulted my wife in public and colluded with underworld forces to go to our house in Riverdale and insult my wife for no reason! As Sophia's husband, I'm infuriated by Miss Sandra's actions and I have great doubts about her character!"

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 923

Meanwhile in the Mitchell Residence, Sandra was watching the news and when she heard what Michael said, she was so furious she flung the remote control to the ground.

I didn't expect the two of them to work together to deceive the public! It was clear that they were divorced. Are they trying to get back together?

After giving it some thought, Sandra called Abbie. After all, Abbie was a member of the Michel Family. The Michel Family's power used to be focused abroad but now, it was gradually seeping into Bayside City.

Nobody in Bayside City will dare to disobey Abbie. As long as she gives the order, we'll definitely find proof of Sophia and Michael's divorce...

At the press conference, the agitated reporters asked numerous questions about their children, Sophia, and about Sandra, but Michael didn't answer any of them and left in a hurry.

After the press conference, Sophia and Michael came out of the parking garage. Michael pulled the door open for Sophia and there was a shining ring on his ring finger that was part of a matching set with the ring on Sophia's ring finger, as if they were destined to be together.

After they got in the car, Michael looked at the ring and said, "The rumors are still spreading and Sandra will definitely find a way to get proof of our divorce, so don't take your ring off for the time being."

Sophia nodded and lowered her head to admire her ring. This ring suits me very well. Michael and I must've spent a lot of effort in choosing our wedding rings back then!

Now that they had divorced, not only did they have to pay attention to Carmen's feelings, they had to protect Michael's public image, which was why they couldn't disclose their divorce.

I wonder how Sandra found out about it. From now on, we must pay attention to not let the news leak out.

After admiring the ring, Sophia said, "I will follow up with the lawsuit so you can be rest assured to go to the set and shoot the movie."

Michael nodded in response and the two of them drove home.

Cooper wasn't home because he was out looking for his son. According to Michael's subordinate's report, they were investigating couples who emigrated out of Riverdale twenty-seven years ago, which was quite a wide range of people.

Michael planned to create some obstacles for Cooper and then appear when Cooper was at his most anxious and give some clues, effectively showing Michael's importance...

However, this plan was extremely dangerous. Michael was dipping his toes in the water and he was at risk of being chopped into pieces. If Cooper found out about this, Michael would be shredded and be made into minced meat!

After dinner, Michael went back to the guest room when he received a call from Harry.

"Hey, hurry up and come to the set. You're the male lead. If you don't come back, the whole crew will be a mess!"

Harry already knew that Michael was up to no good and he was right. Michael was eating and living in Cooper's house like a shameless person again!

I'm sure Cooper is dying to get rid of him!

"I'll be back tomorrow," Michael replied. "You'll have to help me handle the situation first."

After he hung up, Michael logged onto his Messenger to chat with Sophia. Coincidentally, as soon as he opened the application, he saw that Sophia had sent him a message.

'Didn't you say that you would make an announcement about bringing Carmen on a reality show? Why didn't you?'

Michael typed out a response, 'I won't announce it for the time being. Carmen is young and inexperienced, so I'm afraid that she won't get used to it. If she doesn't like it, they will delete our scenes during post production. It's written in the contract that I signed.'

Sophia sent him a red heart emoji as a reply.

Seeing this, Michael sent another text. 'Furthermore, the goal of this press conference is to sue Sandra. If we make an announcement about Carmen, the attention of the reporters will inevitably shift to her.'

The two chatted and they sent voice messages, texts, and even video called each other, talking about Carmen and Sandra.

Sandra's behavior this time truly offended Michael. People thought that he had abandoned his wife and there were even some small papers that spread rumors Sophia had a chaotic life, saying that she had an affair and was kicked out of the house. In the end, Sandra couldn't stand it so she came forward to criticize them.

However, Sophia felt that it was not the right time to take revenge on Sandra yet. She wanted Sandra to be completely humiliated, just like how she treated Natasha back then! Sophia wanted to make her feel ashamed and ruin her father's reputation again and again!

After Sandra came to Cooper's house and made a scene yesterday, there were some people from Alex's side who secretly came over to side with Cooper.

Cooper will be the one to crush them upfront and I'll be the one who will trick them behind the scenes!

Sophia had hired someone to investigate Abbie and found out that she had been really active in Bayside City lately.

Sandra is probably tricked by her. In order to please Abby, she has already spent a lot of money. I have a hunch that she will do something foolish soon!

The two of them chatted until ten o'clock when Sophia said, "Carmen is asleep. I should go to sleep now."

Hearing this, Michael hurriedly said, "I'm leaving tomorrow. I want to see you."

There was a long silence, as if she was putting on a facial mask. Finally, she typed out a response, 'I don't think that's a good idea. It's my time of the month today.'

Time of the month...

Seeing this, Michael instantly felt enthusiastic and a glint appeared in his eyes. He hurriedly stood up and typed on his phone with one hand while he put on his clothes with the other.

'It's okay; I'll be careful and I won't take things too far.'

Sophia replied to him with a shy emoji and sent him a text. 'The doors are already closed.'

Although she seems to be refusing me, I have a feeling that she secretly wants me there. Michael was so happy, he was on cloud nine. He hurriedly put on a pair of sneakers and walked out briskly as he typed, 'No problem. Turn off Siri; I'll be there soon.'

After a while, Sophia replied, 'I've already turned it off. It will take ten minutes for the system to restart. Come over.'

Michael almost flew out of the living room and went outside to sneak around. It seems like no one is around. The Siri system covers the whole house and it'll notice even if a mouse appears in the corner, let alone a human.

However, ten minutes was all Michael needed.

When he arrived outside the mistress' residence where Sophia lived, he looked over the wall and saw faint light shining in a small room.

That's where Sophia is!

Unfortunately, the door was locked. Michael touched the cold door and glanced at the high wall.

It was too late to ask someone to pick the lock, so the only option was to jump over the wall. Michael estimated the height of the wall and calculated the best distance for a run-up. He took a few steps back, sprinted, and jumped onto the wall in a few steps. His new sneakers didn't even leave any footprints on the wall.

Then, he silently stood on the wall and looked around the Edwards residence under the moonlight. Michael was familiar with every corner of this house because he often came here to shoot movies and have a holiday. Later, he sneakily jumped to the ground, climbed up to the second floor from the outside of the building, and went to the small room with the light on.

Standing outside on the balcony, Michael straightened his clothes and knocked gently on the door. Soon, he saw a figure moving from inside the room and he even heard some laughter.

Michael turned around and glanced at the wall that he had just leaped over, feeling pleased with himself.

Fortunately, I have had some training so walls of this height aren't hard for me to jump over! Hmm... Come to think of it, jumping over a wall to meet a beautiful woman is pretty heroic and artistic!

Sophia soon came and opened the door. Even though the Siri system was turned off, the surveillance cameras were still on. From the surveillance, she saw Michael jump and climb the wall and she was moved.

I won't take things too far...

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 924

It was November and it had started to snow in Bayside City, with snowflakes falling from the sky all day long. When Michael climbed over the wall, he was covered in snow. As soon as Sophia opened the door, a gush of warm air blew toward him, taking the chills away from him.

After they closed the door and went into the room, it felt warm and cozy. Then, he reached out and pulled her soft, warm body into his arms. This was the first time they had intimate contact since that incident happened to Carmen.

He hugged that small warm body tightly, as if it was his entire world. Then, he gently kissed her face and her forehead, feeling her skin on his lips. At last, he gave her red lips a kiss before gradually deepening the kiss.

Feeling that long-lost warmth, he felt that he was a wayward traveller who suddenly found his home.

It was only after a long kiss that Sophia said, "Keep it down..."

Michael looked around her small room, which was decorated quaintly while an incense was burning. Meanwhile, Carmen was sleeping next door. She had her own room and would sleep with her nanny at night. Sometimes, she would come over and sleep with Sophia.

Sophia had taken a shower and changed her clothes and was waiting for him.

Seeing that, Michael didn't hold back and threw her fragrant body over his shoulder. Then, he laid her on the bed and gently used his weight to press her down, as if she was a precious gem.

It was midnight when Cooper's voice suddenly rang from downstairs.

"Darling, why aren't you asleep?"

At the second floor in Sophia's room, Sophia suddenly tensed up and she tightened her arms around Michael out of reflex, who was on top of her. He had been rubbing against her but she had resisted letting him in. Taking that opportunity, Michael rushed in and invaded, startling Sophia and causing her to moan softly. However, she quickly held herself back the next moment, because she was afraid that Cooper would notice someone was in her room.

That being said, she still had to answer so she raised her voice and replied, "I'm going to sleep now."

Then, she turned off the night light, allowing darkness to devour the room. It was only then that Cooper's footsteps receded downstairs.

Listening to the fading footsteps, Michael was finally bold enough to continue his business without scruples, whereas Sophia had her heart in her mouth for the whole night.

The next day before the sun rose, Michael crept out of the room. On the other hand, Sophia was paralysed on the bed like a puddle of melted snow after a whole night of vigorous exercise, trying to recover. The maid even had to send breakfast to her room. When Cooper asked about that, Sophia used the weather change and snow as an excuse, claiming that she didn't feel well and needed some rest.

That day, Carmen woke up early and went to the dining room to have her breakfast. In the dining room, Michael and Cooper were staring at each other.

If Carmen wasn't around, Cooper would have chased Michael off.

Carmen wore a pink cotton-padded jacket and a cute kitty hat, all the while sucking milk from a bottle, enjoyment written on her face. Noticing that Cooper was glaring at Michael with his huge eyes, she pouted her lips and asked, "Grandpa, are you hating on my daddy again?"

Cooper immediately tried to clarify the situation. "Of course not. Your daddy is my son-in-law, which is equivalent to my son. Why would I dislike my own son?"

Listening to Cooper's words that were gritted out from clenched teeth, Michael suddenly felt that he was taken advantage of. Yet, there was nothing he could do about it, so Cooper took advantage of that opportunity.

Michael could only bow his head and eat quietly while holding Carmen in his lap.

Snow was falling and it was the right time to shoot the scene in the snowy mountain. Therefore, he had to grab the opportunity to finish filming before the new year so that he could go home.

Once he thought about spending two or three months without meeting his cutie-pie and darling, his heart felt bitter.

His baby was the most adorable being in the world. Every part of her was bursting with cuteness and even her breath sparkled with pink bubbles, tempting him to hold her in his arms for the whole day, giving her kisses and lifting her up in the air.

Michael hugged Carmen and stroked her head. At the same time, he kissed her cheeks and couldn't help but graze his chin against her face.

At the side, Cooper watched them in jealousy while Michael hugged Carmen for more than ten minutes. When it seemed like he wasn't going to stop soon, Cooper couldn't stand it anymore and muttered, "Enough. You can hand me Carmen and leave now!"

He then reached out and snatched Carmen over, causing Michael to mouth some curse words at him. After finishing his meal, Michael finally left.

On the other hand, Linus was trying to suppress his laughter the whole time, amused by how childish these two were.

After Michael packed all his things, the car was ready as well. Walking out of the guest room, he glanced at the mistress' residence. Sophia must still be asleep since she almost got wounded from last night's activities, so she probably wouldn't send him off. Anyway, he didn't want his farewell to be too saddening, so he left dejectedly by car.

In the car, Michael somehow had an intuition that he had forgotten to bring something.

It was snowing again today and the yard was covered with a thin layer of snow. Since Cooper was still in the midst of an important mission to search for his son, he went out after bringing Carmen for a stroll around the yard.

Coincidentally, Linus was going to pass by Carmen's new kindergarten when he went to work, so he dropped her off on the way.

Only Sophia slept all the way to noon. When she woke up and pulled the curtains apart to look outside, it was still snowing. She then got down from the bed on her two aching legs that she couldn't keep closed. Not only that, she had to walk carefully with her butt perked.

Even worse, it was torture to put on her pants as everything was burning in pain.

After she got up and had some food, she realized that everyone had left home and she felt empty.

But when she finished her meal, she suddenly heard a few grievous howls of a wolf.

The next second, Judge rushed in wearing a flowery dress while howling unhappily at Sophia.

"Oh—haven't you left? Why are you still here?"

Sophia patted his head. Last night, Michael promised to take him to shoot a movie. By right, Judge should be with him now since he had left, so why was Judge still here?

Could it be that Michael had forgotten about him?

Well... It might be a good thing that Michael had forgotten. She couldn't imagine how ridiculous the film would be once it was aired, showing a husky among a pack of wolves. After all, that was a serious, heroic film so it shouldn't be degraded by Judge's dumbness.

"Alright, alright. He's gone and will be on the plane by now. I'm afraid you won't make it this time. How about next time? Next time, you'll surely be cast in a movie as a wolf."

Sophia comforted the dog by patting its head and saying, "I won't work today. Instead, I'll make a video of you and post it on Twitter so you'll be famous, alright?"

Feeling indignant, Judge howled at Sophia and gobbled up a huge bowl of dog food at noon. Sophia thought that he was stuffing himself out of sadness but to her astonishment, he was filling himself with energy to later destroy the house.

Knowing that he was abandoned, Judge went berserk and started to tear apart furniture at home after his lunch. He not only ripped the table, stool, sofa and carpet, he even chewed Sophia's shoes, shirt, dog and alpaca, causing Bubbles to whine and the alpaca to flee around the house. He was so mad that he even attacked his own sons, chasing them around the house and biting them. As a result of the dogs' fight, the floor was covered with fur. Not only that, Judge even attacked his beloved kitten, Chrysanthemum, and almost pulled all its fur out.

Sophia knew that she was at fault but Michael had already left, and she couldn't possibly ask him to come back because of Judge. Therefore, she locked Judge in his cage to calm him down.

Unexpectedly, he managed to chew through the cage bars and escape. He was like a ferocious wolf that ran out of the mountain, digging a hole through the door with its claw that was as strong as titanium. There were holes everywhere, as if a groundhog was let loose in the house. Judge even rushed into the living room and scooped out Cooper's old tortoise from the huge fish tank in the living room and threw it into the pond outside.

Sophia started to panic and immediately asked someone to scoop the tortoise from the pool. However, the pond was about one or two meters deep and once the tortoise was thrown in it, it couldn't be found.

That caused fear to take over Sophia since the tortoise was Cooper's darling, which he had taken care of for many years!

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 925

That tortoise was brought back by Cooper during a camping trip with the other Fletchers when he was young, and he had since secretly kept it in the Fletcher Residence. Later on when he left, he didn't bring that tortoise with him and left it and his cat with Mark, of which Mark took care of them for years on his behalf. The cat then bore a litter of kittens, whereas that tortoise was still that tortoise. After that, Sophia inherited that tortoise and took care of it for a few years. When she was captured by Phantom Wolf, Michael took over the responsibility and pampered it for another few years.

Now that Cooper had returned, he had taken back the tortoise.

It was a tortoise that had experienced all vicissitudes of life and was even older than Sophia!

Since the tortoise lived in the house, it never hibernated but now that it was out in the snow, it must have decided to hibernate and there was no trace of it. To make things more difficult, the water in the pond wasn't stagnant and it was so cold that it could cut through the bone. In addition, it had almost frozen to ice.

This was bad. Once Cooper found that his precious darling was gone when he came home, he would surely make Judge into a stew.

Judge had lost his mind and tried to commit suicide by jumping into the pond, creating huge splashes of water. Everyone worked together to scoop him out of the water but as soon as he was out, he dashed into Sophia's room like a bullet.

He even jumped up onto the bed, rolled under the blanket and shook out his fur in the room!

Words couldn't describe how frustrated Sophia was.

After half a day of work, they managed to finally scoop out the tortoise and bathe the dog. They even cleaned the room and bed, as well as reignited the incense. After giving Judge a bath, he was locked in his dog house, whining and crying because Sophia couldn't hold it in and smacked his butt. Judge was so upset that no one could cheer him up, not even his beloved kitten.

Worn out both physically and mentally, Sophia called Michael.

“Michael, where are you now?”

She thought that he must have reached the set by now but to her surprise, Michael muttered, “I was stuck in a massive traffic jam on the way to the airport once I left the city. When I finally reached the airport, I found out that flights are restricted today due to the snow, so our plane is not allowed to take off. Therefore, I’m now stuck in the traffic again, on my way back to the city. There are a few accidents along the way so the road is congested.”

Sophia gasped in astonishment and asked, “What will you do? Won’t it delay the shooting?”

Michael sighed. “The route that the plane applied for is banned so it’s impossible to take off today. Even the flights in the airport are restricted so most of them can’t depart. I’ve applied for leave from the film crew and they understand the situation. Besides, Celie is doing great lately, so everything’s fine.”

“If that’s the case, you should come back,” Sophia advised. “Judge made a ruckus at home because you forgot about him.”

Michael paused for a while before he murmured, “If I come back, will you allow me to have some fun? I promise I won’t take things too far!”

Instantly, Sophia’s face flushed bright red.

Damn it! He was flirting with her over a call.

Talking with Michael on the phone was like listening to the handsome male lead in a drama, his voice so magnetic it was rousing her desire.

“I hate you!”

Sophia hung up the phone immediately.

On the other end of the line, Michael ended the call with his face glowing radiantly. Looking at his phone’s wallpaper, he couldn’t help but smile.

Meanwhile, Daniel, who was sitting opposite him, was speechless.

In reality, Michael didn't go to the airport. Instead, he went to Reverie Mountain.

The mountain was covered in a vast expanse of white snow and opposite him sat Daniel, whom Michael hadn't met for a long time.

One third of a year, Daniel would be in Bayside City while another one third of a year, he would be travelling around the world. As for the remaining four months, he would stay on Reverie Mountain. When he heard that Cooper came back last year, he packed all his things and fled overnight.

Recently, there was a rumor that Cooper liked to chop up humans into minced meat to make eggplant with minced meat. That further forced Daniel to hide in fear. Lately, he felt that the incident was blown over so he finally had the guts to secretly appear. Even so, he only dared to hide himself in Reverie Mountain.

His master passed away last year, so he had come back to take over Reverie Mountain's business and recently, the business was reopened secretly.

Yet, he didn't dare to open it publicly and had his heart in his mouth the whole time, afraid that Cooper would rush up the mountain and chop him up into a thousand strips of meat.

Today, Michael purposely traveled up the mountain to meet him and explained his objective.

"My friend, it's not that I don't want to help you but this is not an easy task!"

It turned out that Michael, that jerk, asked him to go down the mountain and fool Cooper into marrying her daughter to him!

He was already hated by Cooper for his whole life by selling his daughter for 80 thousand. Therefore, showing up in front of him would be equivalent to digging his own grave!

Taking a sip of the fragrant tea, Michael said, "I noticed that Cooper placed a statue of God of Wealth at home recently and he even burns incense every day. I think that he still believes in god and spirits. You're great at this and you have the highest prestige in this matter. Besides, there's history between the Levine Family and Cooper so if you take this matter into your hands, you'll get twice the result for half the effort."

Back when Cooper was born, he actually had a twin but that baby died prematurely. Afraid that the other baby wouldn't survive, Woody went up the mountain overnight to find Daniel's grandfather and requested for a safety amulet. He followed Old Master Levine's instructions and found Cooper a godfather that could protect his life, which turned out to be Mark.

The ancestors of the Levine Family were distinguished people. During the former feudal era, they were the teachers of the states and imperial astronomers. Even after the former dynasty ended, they were still extraordinary people; even the founding ceremony date was set by Old Master Levine.

The Levine Family also peacefully weathered through the few superstition abolishing activities in Cethos.

If Daniel took charge of the matter, it was impossible for him to become a dish of eggplant and minced meat. After all, Cooper wore the amulet from the Levine Family in the past and he attached great importance to these superstitious matters now. Therefore, he wouldn't harm Daniel.

However, Daniel rejected his request without even giving it a thought. "No way. I'm scared!"

Hence, Michael had to resort to both coercion and bribery. "I'll renovate your temple. Plus, I'll shoot my next movie here and advertise this place for free. I'll also build another two cable cars up the mountain for you."

Unfortunately, money wasn't tempting to Daniel because he had countless sponsors for his temple. In fact, all the wealthy tycoons in Bayside City would kneel and beg him to accept their money.

In the end, Michael took out his phone and opened Judge's Twitter. Then, he showed Daniel the video where Judge was ripping apart the house that was posted by Sophia.

Good gracious! That dog bit everything that was in its way and even chewed through the steel cage. He was so strong when he went berserk that even a few muscular men couldn't control him. Everything in Sophia's house was broken and torn to pieces. As expected from a husky, it was like a demolishing machine.

While Sophia was recording it, Judge destroyed another steel cage.

Michael threatened, "If you don't agree, this dog will appear in your temple tomorrow."

Daniel was speechless as he looked at his wooden temple, which would definitely not withstand Judge's destruction, and agreed reluctantly.

After receiving Daniel's answer, Michael left the mountain and headed toward the city center.

From the very beginning, he had come up with a bunch of excuses to go back and spend the night. Apparently, luck was on his side so he had a solid reason to go and spend the night, because he needed to get the dog.

After going down the mountain, he went back to Riverdale and spent some time at the company. As soon as he was done checking his endorsement progress, he went to fetch Carmen from the kindergarten and by the time he got home, it was just in time for dinner.

When he reached home, Judge howled and rushed up to him. As soon as Judge pounced on him, he whined as if he suffered from great indignation. Seeing that Michael was here again, Cooper knitted his eyebrows and asked, "Mr. Fletcher, why are you here again?"

Hugging Judge, Michael smiled politely and replied, "Sophia asked me to get the dog. Besides, my flight is restricted today so I can't take off, hence my presence."

Cooper threw an icy look at that stupid whining dog. He knew that Michael did that on purpose just to have an excuse to come back again!

Michael could leave his dog behind today and tomorrow, he would forget his ID card, wallet or even himself! Regardless of anything, he wouldn't leave.

When it was dinner, Michael rolled his eyes and asked calmly, "Mr. Mitchell, how is the progress of finding your son?"

Before Cooper could answer, Carmen, who was in Linus' arms, corrected him sternly, "Why are you calling him Mr. Mitchell? You should call him Daddy!"
