

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 485

Zhu Linlin furrowed her brows and felt that this was unfair. “Why don’t both of them take a look together?” she said.

However, Qin Jun smiled and said, “It’s okay. Let him go first.”

He already noticed some symptoms before even checking her pulse.

On the surface, it looked like Ouyang Yanyan had a common cold, but she was actually suffering from body heatiness.

In Traditional Chinese Medicine, there were many types of body heatiness. The most common was rapid heatiness, and people with bad tempers would usually experience this.

When “heat” overwhelmed the body rapidly, the individual would experience many serious symptoms.

However, Ouyang Yanyan wasn’t experiencing this. Her “heat” was slow. Overworking everyday and worrying over the company’s matters has built up her stress levels gradually. An accumulation of “heat” over time caused her to fall sick the way she was.

Both conditions were caused by body heatiness, but the treatment for each was different. Since Dr. Lu has full confidence with his skills, Qin Jun doesn’t mind letting him see to the Old Madam first.

Dr. Lu sat himself down, and the whole family gathered around to watch him check her pulse.

A moment later, Dr. Lu stroked his beard and shook his head.

“Nothing major, just some body heatiness and a cold. I’ll do some scrape therapy on your neck, and you should be fine after that,” he told the Old Madam.

Dr. Lu then took out a scrape therapy board and started scraping behind Ouyang Yanyan’s neck.

Qin Jun shook his head as he stood aside and watched. This “famous” doctor was clearly an amateur. In Qin Jun’s eyes, he was only at the level of an apprentice. Even Ye Wan’er’s skills were way better than his. How could he possibly treat patients with such skills and be called Beijing’s best doctor? What a joke. He was clearly a fraud from the countryside.

After ten minutes of scrape therapy, Dr. Lu’s hand grew tired.

He looked at Ouyang Yanyan and asked, “How do you feel? Better?”

Not only did the Old Madam didn’t feel any better, she felt severe pain on her neck instead. Dr. Lu’s scrape therapy technique was jerky and painful. She had clenched her teeth and tolerated the extreme pain throughout the process.

Dr. Lu only let out a suppressed laugh, saying, “It’s not too bad, right? It should get better after a while.”

Ouyang Yanyan was at a loss for words. She couldn’t feel much and didn’t have any appetite to eat. She just felt weak all over.

Zhu Ming quickly stepped in and said, “Right, it takes a longer time for traditional Chinese treatment to take effect. We definitely have to give it some time before we can see any results.”

Wang Yun scoffed, “I don’t think the scrape therapy did much for her. Why don’t we let Qin Jun take a look?”

Dr. Lu commented scornfully, "If that's the case, then you check on her too."

Qin Jun walked towards Ouyang Yanyan and checked her pulse. After almost a minute, he took down her reading.

Right after that, he took out a silver needle and pricked between her thumb and index finger. He then flicked her fingers up and down repeatedly.

A moment later, he removed the needle and said, "We're done."

Everyone was stunned. That's all?

Even Dr. Lu, the "renowned" doctor couldn't seem to understand. What was that? the acupuncture ended too quickly, and what kind of acupuncture treatment only used a single needle?

One needle can do the job? This is absurd!

"Do you know what you're doing?"

Just as everyone was questioning Qin Jun, Ouyang Yanyan suddenly felt a warm current in her stomach. She took a few sniffs and asked, "What smells so good?"

They were all startled by her question. They then turned around and looked, it was Zhu Ming's child eating some snacks and the snacks had emitted the fragrance.

Ouyang Yanyan gulped and said, "Bao, what are you eating? Let your grandma try some."