

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 660

Chi Mei let out a laugh, “Medical center? As an apprentice? At least you’re one step closer to your dream. Good job, haha.”

The three of them had dreamt of getting into a medical university and eventually become nurses, but Ye Wan’er did not get to pursue her dream.

Ye Wan’er had had many suitors during her high school years. These two women hated the fact that she was always in the limelight and treated her badly.

Liu Yu snorted dismissively, “Medical center? Are the doctors there certified? Are you sure they know what they’re doing? If they don’t, how are they going to guide you?”

“That’s right, Ye Wan’er. You should get official training through the proper channel. It’s not too late for you to complete your studies at the university. The adult program might not be of the highest standards, but at least it is better than you undertaking an apprenticeship in a medical center.”

Ye Wan’er’s forehead puckered, “What’s wrong with being an apprentice? Besides, a medical center can meet professional standards too.”

Chi Mei let out a mirthless laugh, “Don’t be silly. How professional can a medical center be? Anyone with a medical license can operate a medical center, and these people basically relied on rote learning to pass their examinations. They might not even know how to handle actually clinical trials.”

Liu Yu added, “Look at us, we spent five years learning in a medical university, and every year, we still need to intern at the hospital. Even with proper guidance by professors and seniors, we’re still ordinary nurses.”

“Look at you. Instead of pursuing a proper education, you’re stuck in a medical center, learning all kinds of nonsense. How can you improve your skills?”

Ye Wan’er stood up and anger was written all over her face.

“Excuse me, what did you say?!”

Upon realizing her reaction, Chi Mei immediately nudged Liu Yu and smiled, “Wan’er, don’t be mad at us. Liu Yu is concerned about your future. I think you should just leave the medical center. Being a doctor is not easy, you know?”

Ye Wan’er rolled her eyes, “It’s none of your business.”

Chi Mei and Liu Yu just wanted to humiliate Ye Wan’er, but after noticing she did not respond to what they said, they decided to ignore her.

Ye Wan’er felt a jolt of anger, and she was utterly annoyed by these two pretentious women. So what if they had completed their education in the university? Did receiving proper education earn them the right to look down on others?

Jun had never attended high school, but he was still appointed as the head of the panel of The Chinese Medicine Forum.

Ye Wan’er might have learned under him for a short period, but she had accumulated a wealth of knowledge and experience.

In fact, Ye Wan’er had started attending to patients when Kong Fanlin was not around. She just did not want to waste her breath to argue with them.

After their dinner, it was time to get back to the television station.

Coincidentally, Chi Mei and Liu Yu also stood up and were walking out of the restaurant at the same time.

“Wan’er, where are you going?”

Ye Wan’er was tired of entertaining them, but she did not want to make more enemies.

“To the television station.”

Chi Mei paused for a moment, “Television station? What for?”

“Wan’er, you’re going to watch The Chinese Medicine Forum? Are you serious?”

Ye Wan’er looked at them, “You know about The Chinese Medicine Forum?”

Chi Mei grinned, “We’re from the healthcare industry, so of course, we know about it. Whether it’s Chinese or Western medicine, we’re keen to learn. We have two tickets to the show. Do you have one?”

Liu Yu smiled, “Come on, Chi Mei. She’s just an apprentice in a medical center. How on earth is she going to get a ticket to the show? So sorry, Wan’er, we only have two tickets here. I guess you can still watch the live telecast from outside the studio.”
