

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 667

To remain so unperturbed after being interrogated by a master, he must either be tough and shameless, or very confident.

Evidently, Qin Jun was the latter.

As there were no more queries from the audience, Qin Jun continued the diagnosis.

“You drink regularly, right?”

The old man laughed. “I drink, but not a lot. It’s only around two glasses. I’m getting old, and it’s good for my body to drink a bit of white wine. It can help to make my blood vessels less stiff.”

Qin Jun smiled and questioned, “Are there air bubbles, and an odor in your urine?”

The assistant directors frowned and told the director, “Director Gao, this is a livestream. Is it too crass to talk about pooping and peeing?”

However, Director Gao was not concerned. “This is a medical diagnosis, not a talent show. After eating, humans must naturally poop and pee. What’s so crass about that? Don’t you poop?”

After hearing what he said, the assistant director blushed and remained silent.

The old man said, “There are bubbles and it has a strong smell.”

Qin Jun nodded. Whipping out a piece of paper and a pen, he scribbled down a prescription and said, "If you want to cure your illness, you must stop drinking. Can you do that?"

The old man was stunned. "Does my illness have anything to do with drinking? But I don't drink a lot."

Qin Jun said, "Taking this opportunity, I'd like to dispel a myth. You said that drinking a small amount of alcohol is good for your health and can make your blood vessels less stiff. It's just a rumor."

"Alcohol is still alcohol. It has no benefits to the human body. You'll harm your body even if you take one sip. Evidently, this rumor is spread by people who like to drink so that they have an excuse to do so."

When Qin Jun said that, the audience burst out laughing.

They did not expect Master Qin to be so humorous. Initially thinking that the Chinese Medicine Forum would be a very serious academic program, they were surprised to find it quite funny and light-hearted.

A lot of the netizens watching the livestream were laughing too, and a barrage of comments started streaming in.

"Master Qin is simply too blunt!"

"I'm going to warn Master Qin that you have been kicked out of the family group chat."

"This program is so interesting. Master Qin is going to be my idol in the future. Isn't it much more interesting to fangirl over a master like him than an idol?"

When the old man heard Qin Jun, he laughed bitterly too. "If the pain is because of the alcohol, I'll just stop drinking."

Naturally, his health had to come first. The old man had experienced the torment of gout, so he did not mind quitting drinking.

Qin Jun said, "I have written two prescriptions for you. Artemisiae Scopariae and Poriae Powder, as well as the Bai Hu Soup. Drink them for ten days each. Don't eat food that is high in purine. You'll see the effects three days later and within a month, you'll be cured."

The old man nodded. "Thank you! Thank you, doctor!"

Sun Changhai was a bit curious. "Can you show us the prescription?"

Qin Jun nodded and raised his hand, signaling that they could see it.

The old man passed the prescription over. The experts in the audience stood up immediately and crowded around it. Inspecting it, they nodded.

The prescription was quite good. The medicinal properties were gentle but effective. Qin Jun even added distillers grains to help the old man quit his alcohol addiction without harming his body. This was a prescription tailored to him.

To be able to write such a prescription so quickly, this young man lived up to his name as a master.