

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 703

Glancing at the discussion in the chat, a mocking and disdainful smirk appeared on Tian Lu's face.

She thought that he was a powerful man. In the end, he simply rented a car. It was pointless for him to pretend.

They reached the karaoke bar quickly. Yu Qiang had already reserved a suite for them. The karaoke bar was the most luxurious bar in Donghai. It was completely different from the mass karaoke chains. Business karaoke bars like this were very expensive.

A normal suite like this cost at least a few thousand. With such a large group like Yu Qiang's, the total spending would naturally amount to more than ten thousand.

However, ten thousand was nothing to Yu Qiang. After all, he still wanted to show-off in front of his classmates.

After reaching the karaoke bar, everyone sang and played games as usual. Many of the classmates started sitting together and chatting. As it was a class reunion, they still wanted to reminisce about old times.

Some wanted to make up for the regrets they had when they were younger, while others were not doing well in life now. Hence, a lot of the female classmates started making their moves.

Naturally, Yu Qiang was everyone's first target. However, as Yu Qiang was a couple with Ai Ling, they did not dare to act too obviously. Hence, they secretly chatted with Yu Qiang on their phones and flirted with him, waiting to ask him out on a date in the future.

Yu Qiang was elated about this too. Holding his phone, he flirted back with them while hiding in a corner of the room.

When Yu Qiang was in the toilet, a girl suddenly said, “We can drink all the alcohol we want here, right?”

The suite looked extremely luxurious. There was a wine cabinet on the wall, with some imported alcohol displayed there.

“Probably. The minimum spending here is very high. If we just drink beer, we might not even be able to reach it.”

“Okay! Let’s open a few bottles of imported wine and drink it.”

After speaking, a few girls went to open the bottles of wine.

They regretted it a lot when they were at the Japanese restaurant. As they did not manage to drink the sake, they felt like they had missed out on it.

As this was only imported wine, it was probably alright for them to drink it.

When Yu Qiang returned, a few girls asked sweetly, “Yu Qiang, we opened a few bottles of imported wine. You don’t have any problem with it, right?”

Yu Qiang smiled and said, “Of course not! Go ahead and drink.”

As Yu Qiang was the one paying the bill, they had to ask him first.

However, he was unbothered. Having frequented this place, he knew that the alcohol in the karaoke bar was not too expensive. Even the imported wines only cost five hundred a bottle at most. The most expensive wine cost eight hundred, and those were already considered the high-end ones.

Since the minimum spending was ten thousand, they could drink to their heart's content.

Yu Qiang chose a song and started singing too.

Suddenly, a waiter walked over to add some ice cubes for them. When he saw that they had opened the bottles of wine in the display cabinet, his expression changed instantly.

"Hello, Ma'am. The wines in the wine cabinet are all vintage wines. Normally, we just keep them for decorative purposes. They are not for sale."

A woman frowned. "But we've already opened them."

"If you've opened them, you'll need to compensate according to market value."

Everyone exchanged glances. "They probably won't cost a lot, right?"

The waiter smiled awkwardly. "I'm sorry but these bottles are Remin Martins from the 1970s. Each bottle cost more than ten thousand. You've drunk a total of... thirteen bottles. At the very least, they cost a total of one and a half million."