

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 723

Although Lin Yueyao sensed that it was a pretense, Tang Min and the others believed it wholeheartedly.

Qin Jun's uncle and aunt were extremely hospitable to Su Wenqi. After everyone had left, Tang Min started asking the typical questions about her family, her parents' jobs, when they planned to get married, and their plans on having children.

The questions made Su Wenqi blushed. Although she had been through many different situations, this was something new to her.

She had no choice but to answer them accordingly.

Although Su Wenqi was a diva, she was just like a shy daughter-in-law when she arrived at Qin Jun's house.

Now that Lin Yueyao knew that they were pretense she lost interest. She turned to Qin Jun and asked "Jun, do you remember the book about home remedies that you wanted to show me?"

Qin Jun smile as he replied, "Yes, I've brought it for you."

Previously, Qin Jun had treated a few complicated and rare diseases that caught Lin Yueyao's attention. He gave no explanation but told her that the methods he used were from a book about home remedies, so Lin Yueyao was really interested and wanted to borrow it to take a look.

Qin Jun had already prepared a few prescriptions beforehand and gave them to Lin Yueyao. They contained some theories that combined with his knowledge from both Chinese and Western medicine.

When Lin Yueyao received the book, she frowned.

“Is this a manuscript? You are so stingy!”

Lin Yueyao rolled her eyes and brought the book back to her room to have a look at it.

In the evening, Su Wenqi and Qin Jun could finally let out a sigh of relief after they left the house.

“That was so draining. I didn’t expect it to be so tiring pretending to be someone’s girlfriend!”

ed Su Wenqi casually wrapped her hand around Qin Jun’s arm and acted coquettishly. He did not reject her and they leisurely strolled along the street.

“Are you still tired? I’ll make it up to you. Let me take you somewhere to try something delicious.”

“Okay, that would be nice!”

Su Wenqi and Qin Jun spent the entire afternoon walking around and eating. By then, Ms. Su’s acting skills seemed to have improved as she slung her arm over Qin Jun’s and swung it as they walked. With a pair of sunglasses on, no one had recognized her thus far.

When the two were eating, Lin Yueyao suddenly called Qin Jun. “Hello, where are you? Something happened at the hospital!”

Qin Jun frowned, “What’s wrong? Slow down and tell me more.”

It had only been a few hours since they left his aunt's house, so what could have happened at the hospital?

"I was reading the book you lent me at home but the hospital called me for an emergency so I rushed over. This patient's symptoms seemed exactly like what I had read in the book, so I followed the prescription in the book to treat him. However, he fainted and is in a coma now!"

Qin Jun frowned. He wrote the book himself and everything was written in a clear and concise manner. The symptoms and prescriptions were all accurate as well. If the symptoms were judged correctly, such a misdiagnosis would not have occurred.

"What's his diagnosis?"

"It is the first one in this book, colon disease."

Qin Jun furrowed his brows, "Alright, I will head over now."

With that, Qin Jun waved goodbye at Su Wenqi and drove to the hospital himself since the patient's life was of the priority now.

After he reached the hospital, Lin Yueyao was inside the emergency room and there were even two foreign doctors there.

"Doctor Lin, the patient's condition worsened at your hospital so you have to take full responsibility for it!"
