

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 759

The woman screamed in horror when she carried her child and felt for his pulse.

“He’s dead! You killed him!”

The expression on Chen Yuan’s face changed drastically when she looked around and discovered that a few passengers were recording the scene.

She tried to remain calm. “Madam, please don’t spout nonsense. Let me have a look!”

As she held the child’s wrists and felt his heart, she turned pale. The woman was right; the child was dead.

Her mind went blank from the shock. It had only been three minutes when she checked the child’s condition and did CPR on him. Three minutes, and he’s dead!

She knew she was not responsible for the child’s death, but there were people recording and witnessing the whole scene.

It certainly looked like a medical malpractice to the passengers.

“You murderer! He was fine before I gave him to you! If not for you, he wouldn’t have died. Someone call the police!”

“Yes, call the police! She will get a death sentence for murdering a child!”

“Even if she’s not sentenced for murder, she’ll be under charges of medical malpractice. That will guarantee her a serious sentence. Foolish doctors are no different from murderers!”

“We can all be witnesses and put her in jail!”

Facing the onslaught attack by the passengers, Chen Yuan turned pale. She did not expect her kindness to end her up in such a desperate situation.

She did not know what to do with the angry mob in front of her.

As the mother started sobbing, a man beside her sighed, “The lady is just trying to help. Don’t you think it’s too much to call the police? I say it’s better if she compensates the child’s mother for her mistake.”

“Yes, I agree with you. We are no longer living in the past when ‘an eye for an eye’ works. What’s done cannot be undone.”

Chen Yuan’s face was filled with worry as she asked carefully, “How much should I pay?”

The woman wiped off her tears and retorted, “How much do you think a life is worth?”

Chen Yuan stammered, “I... I’m afraid I don’t know.”

“I say my son’s life is worth two million.”

“What?”

How on earth was she going to get two million? Even if the situation were really a medical malpractice, the compensation imposed on Chen Yuan would not be as outrageous as the woman's suggestion. She was merely helping out of kindness and fulfilling her duty as a doctor.

The woman scoffed coldly, "Unless you think that my son's life is not worth two million, you shall transfer the money to me in an hour. Otherwise, I will report this to the police!"

Chen Yuan stood rooted to the ground expressionlessly and helplessly when a chuckle came behind her.

"Haha."

Although the voice was soft, it was audible to everyone as it was an inappropriate reaction given the solemn situation.

As the passengers looked toward the source of the laugh, Qin Jun spoke to Chen Yuan mockingly, "Didn't I tell you not to butt in?"

She bit her lower lip in regret. Had she known that things were going to turn out that badly, she would have listened to his advice.

He laughed again. "The child was dead before you went to him. This is all staged."

Extremely appalled, she cried, "You mean the mother killed her child to swindle my money?"
