

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 764

Ye Wan'er's face was filled with disdain every time Momo brought up the other cousin.

As an easy-going and shy person, she rarely fought with anyone. It was rare for her to despise someone so much.

Qin Jun asked, "You really hate this cousin, don't you?"

Su Momo chuckled. "It's obvious, isn't it? Ting and Wan'er never see eye to eye with each other. They are always fighting and competing with one another!"

Ye Wan'er scoffed, "That's not true. She's the one who keeps competing with me!"

Qu Ting was Ye Wan'er's and Su Momo's older cousin. They were connected through their mother's family. When they were kids, they always played together during festivals when their families gathered together.

Coincidentally, Ye Wan'er and Qu Ting were born on the same day. The latter was born a few minutes earlier than the former, thus making her the elder cousin.

Other than having the same birthday, they were also as tall as each other. The only difference was Qu Ting was not as pretty and smart as Ye Wan'er. Everyone used to compare them and praise the latter.

The adults' remarks made a lasting impression on Qu Ting. She hated Ye Wan'er so much that she compared herself to the latter about everything. She would get angry when Ye Wan'er was better than her at something; and when it was the opposite, she would be a showoff continuously.

Alas, Ye Wan'er's family became so poor that she could no longer afford to attend school.

Qu Ting was thrilled by the news. She had been wanting to mock her cousin about it, but she didn't have the chance to meet her.

I bet she's going to be such a pain in the ass when I meet her later. Ye Wan'er sighed at the thought. However, she had no choice other than to meet her cousin if she still wanted to take part in the contest.

Soon, they reached Qu Ting's house.

A tall woman who was watching television in the living room turned around and smiled at Wan'er mockingly.

"Isn't this Wan'er? We haven't met in years! Why haven't you dropped by all this time?"

"Haha, I'm busy with my work!"

Qu Ting chuckled. "Yeah, I keep forgetting that you never went to college! Well, I suppose that's fine. College isn't a big deal. Anyway, you get to join society earlier than me. I don't actually get much from college, well, if you don't count the experience I had, the connections I made, and the proper techniques that I learned from the professors. I think that's quite the same with you working hard from scratch for the past ten years."

Her arrogance made it apparent that the seemingly casual conversation was designated to mock Ye Wan'er.

Ah... Fate is always unforeseen and unpredictable. Who would have thought that her family would become bankrupt and destroy her superiority suddenly?

Qu Ting put on a sorry face for her cousin mockingly.

Ye Wan'er had never felt that speechless in her entire life. She rolled her eyes and kept quiet as Qu Ting kept on with her acting.