Chapter 945 Dress Up Like a Boy

Benjamin sealed her lips with his, stimulating her nerves in the process. His passionate kiss caused her to have difficulty catching her breath. She patted his back and reminded him in an undertone, "Let go of me. Others will see us."

Benjamin turned her face around and kissed her again. Arissa's heart skipped a beat as his intense, masculine presence dominated her senses, causing her mind to go blank.

Benjamin wrapped his arm tightly around her waist and pulled her close, preventing her from slumping to the ground. He finally let go of her after he was satisfied.

Their hot and humid breaths tangled in the air, rendering the atmosphere ambiguous. He pressed his forehead against hers and gently exhaled in her face, sending a tingling sensation throughout her body.

Ripples formed in Arissa's heart as she lowered her head to avoid him. "We should go now." Benjamin's gaze darkened as he took in her shy demeanor.

"Are you sure you want to go now? Do you want to take some time to calm yourself down?"

Arissa felt self-conscious, looking at the teasing look on his face. "I've already composed myself!" She pushed him aside and marched toward the ward.

Staring at her slender figure from behind, Benjamin straightened his clothes and strode forward to grasp her hand.

"Aren't you going to wait for me?"

He turned his face sideways to look at her.
