

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 1089

After passing through the crack, they found themselves in a plaza.

It was dark all around them. Upon closer inspection, they saw that the sky above the plaza was shrouded in fog.

The plaza was very big, as though there was no end to it.

“What’s this place?”

“This is strange. Where’s the palace?”

Everyone looked around and felt puzzled.

Many people flew around. Some flew upward in an attempt to break through the fog. However, when they reached a certain height, they encountered an invisible barrier.

Soon, the people who flew around also encountered a barrier at the edge of the plaza.

Clearly, the entire plaza was enveloped by that barrier.

Boom! Boom!

Some impetuous people began to bombard the barrier. However, the barrier was extremely sturdy.

“Heh! It’s useless! The barrier is made by an Immortal cultivator. Ten thousand years might have passed, but mere Nascent Souls won’t be able to break it,” some people mocked.

Eventually, the people stopped trying.

Gradually, the humans moved to the left while the primordial scions gathered on the right.

No one made a move. Both parties were studying the place.

Other than the yellow dragon patterns on the floor tiles, they found nothing else.

People continued to pour in from the crack in the entrance.

An hour passed, and both sides were getting impatient.

“Is that Qin guy here? Show yourself and let me kill you!”

The golden lion swept through the crowd and roared.

That Qin guy had not only killed his fellow primordial scions but also ate them. That was an unforgivable sin. He would kill that guy to avenge his fellow tribesmen.

The other descendants' expressions changed as well. They scanned through the crowd with penetrating gazes.

They were all very interested in finding that Qin guy.

"Get out here! I'll smack you to death with my rod!"

A white monkey carrying an iron rod was crouching on the back of a tortoise. His eyes emitted a bright golden light as he looked around.

"King Qin? He's only the strongest among the pests. If he dares to show himself, I will make sure he dies before he knows what hit him."

A young golden-winged roc said arrogantly.

Among the primordial scions, the golden-winged roc was the strongest tribe. In every new generation, young golden-winged rocs were the elites of the primordial scions.

Tang Hao could not help but glance at that bird.

Golden-winged rocs were amazingly powerful, almost on par with pure-blooded dragons. Back in the Myriad Beasts abode, he had swallowed a drop of roc blood.

However, after taking a closer look, Tang Hao could tell that it was not a pure-blooded roc. Its power was nowhere close to the primordial roc.

"It must be delicious!"

Tang Hao rubbed his chin and muttered.

"Hmph, how arrogant! You primordial scions are the real pests. I alone can deal with all of you!" Ji Wu shouted coldly.

"How dare you, Ji! Even your sect leader doesn't dare to say that. You must have a death wish! I'd like to see what you're capable of."

The young roc's tone became menacing.

The other primordial scions also seemed hostile.

"Bring it on!"

Ji Wu stepped into the air. The vertical eye between his eyebrows blinked and emitted a dazzling brilliance.

"Very well!"

The young roc screeched, spread his wings, and soared into the sky.

Boom! An intense battle instantly erupted.

The roc flapped its wings, stirring up a terrifying gale.

At the same time, the golden wings released a dazzling light. As the wings flapped, the golden light poured down like raindrops.

Ji Wu, on the other hand, summoned a ruler and unfurled layers of light barriers. His defense was impenetrable.

Everyone raised their heads and looked at the fierce battle in the air.

Suddenly, someone in the crowd shouted, "What are you waiting for? Attack! Kill those b*stards! Anyone who isn't a human must die!"

Everyone was stunned.

"Have you forgotten how those b*stards bullied us humans? They even eat us as food. Can we allow that to happen?"

The voice sounded indignant and agitated.

Everyone looked embarrassed.

They had often heard about how primordial scions ate humans, but no one dared to fight back.

That was the humiliation of humans!

"We can't allow that to happen! Kill those b*stards!"

The people there were young, full of vigor, and easily angered.

Moreover, the situation was different from usual. It was a confrontation between humans and primordial scions. It was not surprising if a few primordial scions were killed.

"Attack! Kill them all!"

The Path-Chosen were the most agitated and were the first to charge.

Everyone received a morale boost. They all shouted and took out their Artifacts.

In an instant, a great battle erupted.

"I'll slap you all to death, you pests!"

"Hmph! You're the one who's going to die!"

The primordial scions were not willing to be outdone either. They charged into the crowd.

For a moment, the shouts of killing echoed in the sky.

In a single exchange, many people were slapped to death and devoured by the huge beasts. That only made the crowd even angrier.

Although the primordial scions were individually strong, they were few in number. There were only a few thousand primordial scions in total, compared to several ten thousand humans. The humans ganged up on the primordial scions.

In a short while, many of them were killed.

“F*ck! F*ck those beasts!”

Someone sneaked around among the crowd, shouting slogans while looking around. When he saw a primordial scion about to be defeated, he would rush over, shoot a beam of red light, and kill the primordial scion.

Following that, under the stunned gazes of those people, he swiftly stashed the corpse away.

“I can make savory snake soup now!”

“One roast bird, coming right up!”

“Stir-fried tiger meat is what’s for dinner tonight!”

He kept on muttering while stashing away the corpses. At the same time, his entire body was trembling, not of fear but excitement.

His eyes were sparkling.

“Who... who is he?”

Everyone was extremely shocked.

Someone who could kill a primordial scion with a wave of his hand was shockingly strong.

However, that person moved very quickly, and they could only see his back.

Everyone was moved when they heard his slogans.

“Ah! He’s really a good person! He must be a chivalrous hero who abhors evil!”

“How moving!”

Everyone received a morale boost.

When one of them heard what Tang Hao was mumbling, he was instantly stunned.

“Whole... whole cow banquet?”

He could not believe what he heard.

Not only did that guy kill the primordial scions, but he wanted to eat them too? How cruel!

Then, he came to a realization.

‘Dammit! That’s not any random hero, he’s King Qin!’
