

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 220

"This is outrageous!" Dean Wu was livid.

He regretted that he had supported Gao Wenqiang earlier. Who knew that Gao Wenqiang was a despicable, perverted, and spiteful person?

The messages on the phone were absolutely wretched!

"You disappoint me, Gao Wenqiang. What would your father think about you?" Dean Wu chided at him sternly.

"Don't believe her, Dean!" Gao Wenqiang grasped at straws. "She's trying to frame me."

"That's enough!" Dean Wu roared. "Aren't these messages proof enough that you're harassing her? The first few messages alone are enough to bring this case to the police. Do you want to get the police involved?"

"You are suspended with immediate effect, Gao Wenqiang. We will give you an official notice about any further disciplinary actions."

Gao Wenqiang trembled and his face turned pale as a sheet.

He knew that he was utterly ruined.

He was called out publicly, and he knew that he would lose his job.

He stumbled a few steps backward and nearly fell sitting. It was as though his soul had left his body.

Then, a seed of hatred sprouted in his heart and grew wildly.

'It's that whore and the filthy kid! If not for them, this wouldn't have happened to me!'

He had blamed everything that happened to him on the two people.

"Class is dismissed! I will find a suitable replacement teacher soon!" Dean Wu told the students.

Then, he left the classroom with the other administrators and teachers. The classroom soon erupted noisily again.

"I didn't think he was a pervert!"

"Harassing Teacher Jiang? Teacher Gao is pure human scum!"

Everyone's gaze toward Gao Wenqiang was full of disgust and disrespect.

Then, they stood one by one and went to the classroom door, where Teacher Jiang was standing.

"Are you OK, Teacher Jiang? Did he do anything to you?" The students asked Jiang Wanying as they crowded around her.

"I'm fine! It's all thanks to Tang Hao!" Jiang Wanying said as she looked at Tang Hao gratefully.

Tang Hao picked up his backpack. Ignoring Gao Wenqiang, he left the classroom.

He had another class later in the morning. After class, Tang Hao went to the cafeteria with his classmates.

Z University's cafeteria was huge. It could fit more than a thousand students at the same time.

The cafeteria was incredibly crowded at lunchtime. The students entered the cafeteria like the incoming tide and formed long queues. Tang Hao felt like he was back in high school.

Tang Hao finally bought his food after queueing for a while.

The taste of the food was average, though Tang Hao did not mind it too much.

Tang Hao eventually found an empty spot.

While he was eating, he heard a commotion at the entrance to the cafeteria.

"The beauty queen is here!" Someone shouted.

The commotion spread across the entire cafeteria like a wave.

The boys had excited and eager expressions on their faces. They either lifted their heads or stretched their necks toward the entrance. Some even stood on their seats.

Only one girl could have caused such a huge commotion in Z University. That person was none other than Liu Bingyao, the freshman beauty queen!

She had caused a huge uproar and even a massive traffic jam on enrollment day. Her beauty had surpassed all the beauty queens before her and had become the girl of dreams for many boys.

A wave of excitement swept past the entire cafeteria.

The boys sitting next to Tang Hao looked toward the entrance with eager faces.

“Liu the Beauty Queen is here!” They shouted excitedly.

Tang Hao was shocked. “Is it... her?” He lifted his head and looked toward the entrance.

He could see through the gaps in the mass of bodies that a beautiful figure had appeared at the cafeteria entrance.

That tall and slender body had all the appropriate curves. Her legs which were straight and long had caught the attention of many people.

Her face could launch a thousand ships.

As she walked, her jet-black hair bobbed like flowing water, and they reflected sunlight as though she was a fairy descended from the heavens, or a girl who had walked out of a dream.

The commotion ceased once she entered the cafeteria. All eyes were focused on her.

There were hints of passion and excitement in those gazes.

She paused at the entrance and scanned the entire cafeteria. She looked neutral as though she was used to such occurrences. Then, she walked toward the food line.

She received her food soon, then she turned around and surveyed the area.

It was the peak of the lunch hour, and there were no empty tables. She had to share a table with someone else.

Many boys displayed faces of eager hospitality. They hoped that they would be the lucky one that afternoon.

“She’s looking at me!”

“Oh my god, she’s walking in this direction!”

Liu Bingyao walked over carrying her plate. She looked left and right to find an appropriate seat.

However, she could not find one without a boy drooling next to her.

“Over here, Bingyao!” Someone shouted.

Everyone turned to look at who he was. Then, they exclaimed in surprise.

“It’s the Adonis of the Art Faculty!”

The Adonis of the Art Faculty stood up from his seat and waved at Liu Bingyao. On his sculpted face was a charming, confident smile.

Liu Bingyao glanced at him, then looked elsewhere.

The Adonis of the Art Faculty was stunned.

Then, mocking laughter broke out all around him.

“Sit over here, Bingyao!” A few more boys found the courage to speak up, though none caught the beauty queen’s attention.

Soon, no one dared to make a sound at her.

Just when everyone had given up, a voice was heard from one corner of the cafeteria. “Bingyao!”

Everyone was stunned. Then, their faces displayed expressions of mockery as usual.

‘Wouldn’t that guy be humiliating himself?’

Then, they turned to look at who it was.

He was a somewhat good-looking boy in a white button-down shirt.

They looked even more mocking than ever.

They had not seen that guy before, which meant that he was a nobody. He must be dreaming to think that he could attract the beauty queen’s attention!

That boy was none other than Tang Hao.

He lifted his arm and waved it at Liu Bingyao.

Several of his classmates sat near him. They looked at him incredulously.

'Didn't he just join the university yesterday? He shouldn't know who the beauty queen is, but he's giving it a shot! He must be crazy! Doesn't he know what he's worth?'

The boys all displayed expressions of mockery.

"He's mad! I can't wait to see him embarrass himself!" Zhuo Hang's face was full of mockery.

However, Cao Fei seemed awkward. He knew that Liu Bingyao, like Tang Hao, was from First High.

Then, he chuckled and displayed a look of disdain.

Even if Tang Hao was from First High, he was an expelled student, while the other was the school beauty queen. It was impossible that they knew each other.

Suddenly, Liu Bingyao seemed to have noticed the person calling her name.

She thought that the voice sounded familiar.

She turned to see who it was.

Then, her beautiful eyes slowly enlarged and displayed a look of happiness and incredulity.

She quickly walked in that direction.