

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 2987

Tang Hao met up with the representatives again, then returned to Dragon Mountain.

He didn't continue.

He still had a lot of divine lightning and a large number of instant teleportation talismans with him. He could sell them for a while.

He sat down and started to think about the next project.

The more projects there were, the more money he could make.

He thought about it, but he didn't seem to have any good ideas.

"Let's go take a look at the medicine and the fish!"

He got up and walked around the herbal field.

In this mountain range, he had opened up many medicinal fields and planted a large number of plants, which were basically the most popular ones on the market. Watering them with a small amount of celestial water could speed up the growth cycle, and he could still make a lot of money.

Of course, it couldn't be compared to selling divine lightning and instant teleportation talismans.

These things were too common, and the profit margin for planting them was not big.

"I have to make something special!"

He began to ponder again.

As he walked, he stopped in front of a medicinal field.

Peach trees were planted all over the field, and some of them had already borne huge peaches.

"This peach ... Seems to be quite popular. The people in the immortal world seem to like peaches a lot. No matter what kind of banquet it is, they have to prepare a pot of peaches. There are many kinds of peaches, some with strong flavors, some with strong functions ..."

"If we can develop a new kind of peach that has both taste and function, it will definitely sell well."

Tang Hao's eyes glowed when he thought about that.

He was well-versed in cross-breeding and grafting techniques, so it was not difficult for him to breed a new species.

He did as he said.

He immediately entered the field and began to experiment.

---

Somewhere in the spirit Toad continent.

A woman in a blue dress was sitting in a Pavilion in the clouds. On the table in front of her, there were stacks of books.

She carefully read through each book, lifting a pen and making a tick from time to time.

After reading for a while, she put down the book in her hand and pressed between her eyebrows.

Here, the accounts of all the stores in spirit Toad continent in the previous quarter were gathered. The products sold and the amount were all recorded in detail.

But because it was too detailed, it seemed too obscure and difficult to remember.

“Miss, you’ve already been looking at it for a day. Why don’t you take a rest?”

A maidservant stood behind her and bowed.

“No need!”

She waved her hand and said, “I’ll be done soon!”

“Miss, you’re so hardworking!” The maidservant raised her head and said with some admiration.

The man in front of him was the person in charge of the heaven seeking Pavilion’s spirit Toad continent headquarters. He was in charge of thousands of shops in the continent and had a very high status in the entire heaven seeking Chamber of Commerce.

“You’re not only hardworking, but you’re also very talented. Everyone praises you and says that you’re a once-in-a-Millennium business genius!” The maidservant continued, her tone carrying a hint of flattery.

Hearing this, the woman in the blue dress laughed.

But she didn’t deny it. Instead, she felt a little proud.

With her achievements and status, it was normal to say that she was a once-in-a-thousand-years genius.

She smiled and continued to read.

“The southern sky branch!”

She took the next book and started reading.

“Business is good. There are many itinerant Immortals there, so business is good. All kinds of immortal artifacts are being sold well ...”

She looked at it for a while, then smiled, very satisfied.

“Eh? What was going on? How come you only sold a few Nine Heavens lightning?”

Suddenly, her eyes froze as she saw a line of words on the booklet. She was stunned.

It was marked that in three months, three Nine Heavens thunders had been sold. According to past sales, there should be at least ten.

This sales figure was very abnormal!

“One pill a month? That’s impossible!”

“That’s the territory of the Rogue Immortals. This item has always sold well. My heaven seeking Pavilion is also the largest Chamber of Commerce in the South Heaven city. If they want to buy divine lightning, my heaven seeking Pavilion will definitely be their first choice!”

She furrowed her brows tightly, but she sensed that something was wrong.

It was normal for the monthly sales to be cut in half due to the fluctuations in the market, but this was three months!

“Could it be that some other sect lowered their price and stole our business?”

She said to herself.

As she spoke, she suddenly paused as she recalled something.

More than two months ago, she had gone to Nantian city to check the accounts and inspect the business there. There, she happened to meet a man who was holding a self-made divine Thunder and said that he wanted to sell it to her heaven seeking Pavilion.

The next moment, she shook her head and laughed.

How could the two be related?

She had seen that guy’s divine lightning. It was made of the most inferior materials and was completely crudely made. No matter how cheap the price was, it was useless. It was trash and could not be sold at all.

She couldn’t imagine how someone could buy such a low-quality item.

“It’s just a coincidence!”

She smiled and didn’t mind.

She felt that the other stores must have given a discount, which was why they were able to steal the business.

“Eh? What’s going on? we can’t even sell instant teleportation talismans anymore. Why did we only sell nine in three months?”

She looked down and was stunned again.

Originally, this thing was a popular product. There were basically hundreds of them a month. It was very stable. But now, the sales were so miserable!

“Which family is it?”

She furrowed her brows again.

She had never encountered such a strange situation before.

If it were any other store, all their stores would be open together. It was strange that only one store was open in Nantian city!

“Miss, what’s wrong?”

The maid asked in surprise.

“It’s nothing!”

The woman in the blue dress shook her head and continued reading.

After reading it, she closed the book. Her brows were still furrowed, and her expression was still solemn.

“Go and inform the person in charge of Nantian city to come and see me!” She said after a while.

“Yes! Miss!”

The maidservant bowed and quickly left.

Two hours later, she returned with a man. It was shopkeeper li from the heaven seeking Pavilion in Nantian city.

“Miss!”

When he got close, manager li immediately bowed, somewhat reverent and fearful.

“Tell me, what’s going on? Which family is fighting with us?” The woman in the blue dress threw the book over and said coldly.

“You mean ... The nine Heavens lightning, and the instant teleportation talisman?”

Manager Li took the booklet and saw the two striking ticks on it. He immediately understood.

Then, he smiled bitterly and said, "Miss, I'm not sure! There's no one else competing with us. As far as I know, these two things can't be sold in all the shops in the city."

"What?"

The woman was stunned.

"How is that possible?"

She slammed the table and stood up, her face full of disbelief.

It was possible that one or two shops could not be sold, but it was impossible to say that all the shops in the city could not be sold!

"Miss, I know it's hard to believe, but even so, I've gone to other stores to ask, and it's all the same. No one can sell it." Manager Li smiled bitterly.

He was also very puzzled. The two things that were originally selling well, why did they suddenly not sell?
