

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 374

Tang Hao flicked his wrist again, and a fireball shot out, burning the body into ashes.

He turned around and killed the helicopter pilot with one bullet.

Now that the leader of the group was dead, Miki Group was as good as finished.

Tang Hao was not going to spare the other people. He leaped down the skyscraper, took out his guns, and started killing from the entrance.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Gunfire resounded in Miki Plaza. There were screams of panic and agony, and also screams that were abruptly cut short.

Every time the gun fired, someone died. Tang Hao lost count of how many people he killed.

He went up floor by floor and eventually reached the top.

The final few members of Miki Group were cowering in the office. Their lives were not spared.

“Phew!” Tang Hao breathed a sigh of relief. He turned around and prepared to leave.

He suddenly thought of something. His eyes sparkled with excitement.

As Miki Group's headquarters, Miki Plaza was lavishly decorated with many antiques and works of art. Especially Goro Miki's office, which was filled with rare and expensive items.

"Might as well take them!" Tang Hao mumbled to himself and started looting the place. He took everything that was of value. Secret vaults and safes could not stop him.

He found almost one billion American dollars in banknotes hidden in a secret vault. That must be Miki Group's cash reserves.

"What a haul!" Tang Hao was excited.

He left the building, went to the Miki clan estate, and killed everyone there. Then, he looted everything inside.

He exited the house and burned it down with fire.

Finally, his mission was complete.

Anyone important in Miki Group was dead. After tonight, there would be no more Miki Group in this world.

He returned to the hotel at about three o'clock in the morning. He rested for three hours, then checked out and prepared to head to the airport.

Once he was out of the hotel, he noticed a black car parked next to the road. The car window rolled down, and a head peeked out. That perfect oval face, cherry lips, and fox-like eyes were extremely charming.

She was none other than Tamamo.

She smiled seductively and threw him a kiss. “We meet again, my good Little Brother!” She said with a cloying voice.

Tang Hao was not in the mood to appreciate her advances. He immediately put up his guard.

He did not expect to be discovered by someone he knew.

However, he immediately. Even though his passport was forged, the photograph on it was his real face. It was possible that she could track him down.

“What do you want?” Tang Hao asked grimly.

Tamamo gave him a side-eye and said disapprovingly, “Why, can’t I look for you just for fun? Are you trying to hide from me after taking advantage of me? That’s why they say all men are trash.”

Tang Hao nearly did a spit take when he heard that.

Her tone of voice was too intimate.

However, he could not remember what he did to the woman though?

“Why, have you forgotten, that night...” She stuck out her chest seductively when she said that.

Tang Hao’s facial muscles twitched. ‘She’s a fox spirit,’ he cursed in his heart. (TN: In Chinese, a seductress is also called a ‘fox spirit’.)

His expression turned serious. "What do you want from me? Don't tell me you are seeking revenge for Miki Group?"

Tamamo chuckled. "That's ridiculous. I'm not related to Miki Group. I'm only here to say hi to you, and I can send you to the airport too.

"Why, don't tell me you're too chicken to ride in my car?"

She looked at Tang Hao with equal parts of provocation and seductiveness.

Tang Hao discerned that there was nothing dangerous about the car. "I'm not scared!" He said.

"Get on then!"

Tamamo winked, then she opened the door and extended her legs.

'Oh heavens, deliver me from sin!' Tang Hao muttered in his heart a few times and managed to keep him calm. He kept a serious face as he opened the car door and sat inside.

Tamamo was visibly surprised.

'Is this kid a block of wood? How did he withstand my charms?'

For a brief moment, she doubted her abilities.

"Start the car. To the airport, now!" Tang Hao told the driver brusquely.

The driver hesitated, but eventually started the car and started driving anyway.

Tamamo came to her senses. She smiled once more and leaned closer to Tang Hao.

Tang Hao immediately shifted away from her.

Tamamo was stunned again. Her smile froze on her face.

'F*ck me, what the hell is wrong with this kid? How dare he reject my advances and move away? This is such a big blow to my confidence.'

Tamamo was getting flustered.

She was not ready to give up just yet. She did not believe that she could not seduce the kid.

"My good Little Brother..." She smiled. Her voice was so sweet and cloying it could cause diabetes.

"Who's your little brother? Just say whatever you want to say!" Tang Hao said coldly. He flicked his wrist and brandished a dragon tooth dagger.

He did not want to let his guard down against that Dongying woman.

Tamamo's smile froze on her face again.

She was flustered once more when she saw the dagger.

Any other man would have fallen for her charms. However, the kid had actively ignored her and even brandished a dagger at her.

She stopped smiling and looked sheepish.

“I’ll speak then. I’m here to find out how many people you brought with you this time. Also, I’ll have to thank you for wiping out Amaterasu Shrine for us.”

Tang Hao glanced at her. “Just myself!” He said coldly.

“Oh, just you alone! W- What? Just... Just you alone?” Tamamo stammered. Her eyes were wide open.

She was at a loss for words.

She thought that the Taoist masters from Mao Mountain had stormed the building last night, but she did not expect that the kid had come alone.

How did one person manage to defeat so many people?

Moreover, there was someone among the grandmasters who was almost as powerful as her.

She was thoroughly dumbfounded by the boy sitting next to her.