

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 524

The next month passed in the blink of an eye.

In that month, Tang Hao made pills, crafted talismans, and took care of his businesses at his leisure. It was quite relaxing.

He sold many more talismans to Mao Mountain and the suckers from Dragon Tiger Mountain. He made a lot of money.

Grandpa Shunde's health was failing. Tang Hao went to visit several times.

Very soon, the new semester at Z University started.

That morning, Tang Hao had breakfast together with Qin Xiangyi.

After breakfast, she went into her room to dress up.

She soon came out, dressed in a long black dress.

"How do I look?" She turned around and presented herself to Tang Hao.

The hem of her dress fluttered and her long and slender legs underneath were revealed.

"Wow!" Tang Hao exclaimed, "You look amazing!"

She looked at her watch and exclaimed in surprise, "It's almost ten o'clock!" She also looked at Tang Hao resentfully.

Tang Hao smiled sheepishly.

"Let's go quickly! I have a lot of work in the factory!" Qin Xiangyi straightened her clothes and wore her high heels at the entrance.

She took her handbag and prepared to get out of the house.

She turned around abruptly, as though she just remembered something, then leaned close and pecked Tang Hao on the cheek.

"Remember, come home more often! You can go now!"

She smiled brilliantly at Tang Hao before she turned around, rode in her sports car, and left for her factory.

After Tang Hao saw her off, he returned to his house and packed his belongings.

He rode in his car and drove to Dragonrock Village.

Yan'er and her family had been waiting for him.

Yan'er was dressed in a delicate yet elegant black pleated skirt. Her hair fell naturally on her shoulders. She looked like a princess.

She wore a pink backpack. Next to her was a huge luggage bag.

"I leave my daughter in your hands now, Lil Hao. That girl has never gone out of Westridge, and she'll need a lot of help in the big city. Please take good care of her," Shi Xuefeng told Tang Hao.

Meanwhile, Zhang Hongfang was whispering into Yan'er's ear. She glanced at Tang Hao occasionally.

Yan'er was blushing as she listened to her mother.

"Don't worry, I'll take good care of her," Tang Hao said with a smile.

"That's good. Alright, get going, my daughter!" Shi Xuefeng said, "Remember, you'll have to study hard when you're there. Don't only think of partying, understand?"

"Yes, Dad!"

Yan'er replied to her father and sat in the car.

After leaving Dragonrock Village, Tang Hao went to the company to pick up Han Yutong.

"Big Sis Han!" Yan'er greeted Han Yutong sweetly.

She had met Brother Hao's assistant several times and knew who she was.

Three hours later, they arrived at Provincial City. He first sent Han Yutong to her house, then drove to Z University.

Enrollment Day was a momentous event at Z University. A dazzling array of banners adorned the front gate. Cars were overflowing from the parking lot, and people were everywhere. Some of them were students, but more of them were parents.

A long row of tables was placed next to the entrance. There were students wearing name tags sitting behind them. They were volunteers to help the new students.

Students and parents crowded the other side of the tables.

It was an incredibly lively scene.

“Wow!” Yan’er exclaimed when she saw that.

Tang Hao looked around in front of them. “You can go out of the car first, Yan’er, you should know where to go. I’ll go park the car and come look for you.”

“Don’t worry. It’s just reporting in, right? That’s easy!” Yan’er said smugly.

Tang Hao stopped the car, and Yan’er got out. She waved at Tang Hao, then walked forward with her backpack.

A group of people sat in a row not far away.

Their eyes were wide open and scanning the crowd with perverted expressions on their faces.

Similar groups of people were situated throughout the campus. They were on the hunt for beautiful freshmen girls.

They were extremely excited every Enrollment Day. Every cohort of new students meant that there were new girls for them to flirt with.

“Ah, junior sisters! My fresh, innocent junior sisters! Where are you? Your senior brother is looking for you!”

They mumbled to themselves while wandering amid the crowd.

“Look at her. She’s not bad, right? Wow, those legs are fair and long!”

Someone pointed at a girl and shouted.

The people looked at where he was pointing and exclaimed in surprise.

“That’s a six, just by the legs alone!”

“She’s more than a six, maybe a seven.”

They discussed among each other.

“How crass!”

Fang Qiming was behind them. He was cursing while dragging a cigarette.

“There’s nothing good about this batch. They’re all crass and tacky!” He spoke softly.

“Ah, your standards are too high, Council President. We’re happy with fives!” Someone turned around and said.

“Yes, you shouldn’t lower yourself to our standards!” Tang Bowen said.

They turned to look at the crowd again.

“No, I can’t take it anymore! Why are the girls so well-fed nowadays?”

“Wow, another pair of long legs! F*ck, her face though! I can only look at her from the back!”

They were very excited as they continued to look at the freshmen.

At that moment, a figure walked into view.

Her slender body, pure face, and waterfall-like hair that danced in the wind were breath-taking.

As she walked among the crowd, the people around her turned to stare. She carried a pure and gentle air. It was like a drug like no male could resist.

The group of perverted male students trembled violently, as though they were struck by lightning.

They were dumbfounded. Then, they subconsciously stood up.

Fang Qiming’s eyes went round and wide when he saw her. His jaw dropped, and the cigarette in his mouth fell out.
