

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 794

All the elders of Kongtong lowered their heads in shame.

They had looked down on the people from the Land of the Gods in the past and mocked them for being primitive natives. But now, the situation was completely reversed.

At the same time, they were also extremely puzzled.

Logically speaking, the qi in the Land of the Gods had become thinner over the ages. Moreover, so many ancient sects had secluded themselves and did not leave their legacies behind. The Land of the Gods should have been in a declined state.

But now, it was clearly at its peak.

“We must join the Union, Sect Leader!”

“Yes, yes! We have to join even if we have to beg them.”

The elders pulled their sect leader over and said excitedly.

When Tang Hao and the others heard that, they were all happy.

“You’ll enjoy additional benefits if you join now! Look, this is the starter pack of pills and elixirs!”

Tang Hao took out a gift bag wrapped in a festive manner and showed it to them.

Gulp!

The cultivators of Kongtong swallowed their saliva and stared at the gift bag. Their eyes were sparkling.

“We’ll join! We’ll join! Allow me to bow to you, Clan Leader!”

They bowed respectfully, then rushed up and surrounded Tang Hao, calling him “Clan Leader” with incomparable enthusiasm.

Tang Hao smiled and said, “Welcome! From now on, we’ll create glory together!”

As he spoke, he extended his hand and shook hands with the sect leader.

He was in a very happy mood.

Now that Kongtong joined them, the strength of the Union had increased by a lot.

Then, the people went to the main hall and held a grand initiation ceremony. After that, they drank divine liquor. The people from Kongtong had never drunk such fine liquor before, and they were instantly shocked.

“What liquor is this? It’s so delicious!”

They were extremely excited and drank to their fill.

They were so drunk that they spilled half the contents of their cups.

“President, as far as we know, Shu Mountain is trying to form an alliance with the other sects to fight us, and many of them have agreed.”

Lang Yazhi, the sect master of Kongtong, took a sip of liquor and said to Tang Hao.

Tang Hao nodded. He had some understanding of the situation and knew that Shu Mountain had contacted the other major sects.

That was why General Bai had come up with the idea of a propaganda war.

“How shameless. Now that they can’t beat us, they’re trying to form their own faction!” Taoist Master Qian Ji cursed angrily.

“Do you know how many sects have joined?” Tang Hao asked.

“Well... I’m not too sure. There should be many,” Lang Yazhi replied.

“That’s a little troublesome!” Tang Hao said.

Shu Mountain themselves were not a big deal, nor would an alliance of three or four sects. However, if five or more sects joined forces, it would be very troublesome.

General Bai took a sip of liquor and said calmly, “That’s simple! As the saying goes, if you want to defeat the enemy, you must first break their beliefs and destroy their will.”

Tang Hao was stunned and looked at him in confusion.

“To put it simply, you have to corrupt them with temptations!” General Bai said with a smile.

“All those people are country bumpkins who have never seen the world. They grew up in a demi-world and have never been influenced by earthly desires. It’s too easy to tempt them.”

“How?” Tang Hao asked.

“There are so many ways. First, let’s make a promotional film with Hua Mountain and Kongtong as the lead actors. We can publicize our good deeds and make them envy those who joined us.

“We want to show them that the difference between them and us is like heaven and earth.

“Also! Do you know those kinds of magazines and novels? We’ll send a few truckloads of them over. Oh, right, we should show them Western women. It will definitely have a great impact on them.”

The more General Bai spoke, the more excited he became. His face was flushed.

Tang Hao and the others all had strange expressions on their faces.

“F*ck! Why are you looking at me like that? Don’t misunderstand. I’m not that kind of person. I’m very serious,” General Bai hurriedly explained.

Tang Hao smiled and flashed an expression that said, “Stop explaining. We all understand.”

As for the people of Kongtong, they all gulped and swallowed their saliva.

“See? Even those people can’t resist the temptation!” General Bai glanced at them and said.

“Of course, there are many temptations from Dongying as well. We’ll throw in all sorts of unmentionable VR games.

“That’s right, we want them to be addicted so that they will eventually become weak-willed bums.”

As he said that, General Bai slammed the table excitedly.

His eyes were sparkling.

Lang Yazhi, who was sitting in front of him, immediately felt a chill down his spine.

‘F*ck! That guy is too terrifying! He’s a devil!’

Fortunately, Kongtong had joined the Union. Otherwise, they would be corrupted too.

When he thought of that situation, he could not help but shudder.

Tang Hao thought about it and realized that it was feasible.

Those people from Hua Mountain were good examples!

“Let’s do it!” Tang Hao nodded in agreement.

Soon, the Agency took action.

First, they made a promotional short film. In the film, the people from Hua Mountain and Kongtong changed into luxurious robes. Their pockets were stuffed with jade talismans, and they held bottles of elixirs.

Gleaming jade pendants hung from their waists. They were all Artifacts.

The opulence was astounding.

They began to brag about the advantages of joining the Union. They talked about how each person would be given pills and Artifacts, and the number of jade talismans they received was shocking. In short, they were in paradise.

Behind them were several voluptuous women and stacks upon stacks of gold bars.

“Are you tempted? Then quickly join us. If you join now, there will be a bonus!”

Tang Hao covered his face after watching the short film.

That was too shameful!

However, it would have a big impact on those simple-minded people.

Artifacts, pills, beautiful women, and money. They were all huge temptations.

Those promo films were copied into tablets and phones. Then, they were loaded onto cargo planes.
