

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 798

“You’re in Huaxia?” Tang Hao asked.

“Yes!” Tamamo smiled. “And I’m in your house, too! My love sushi will be ready soon. You can eat it as soon as you come back.”

Tang Hao was stunned. “You’re already at my house!”

“Yeah! Why? Are you afraid that someone might see me?” Tamamo smiled mischievously. “Oh, right, you’re a big celebrity now!”

Tang Hao laughed awkwardly.

“Don’t worry! No one saw me. I’ve drawn the curtains tightly. That’s all for now. Come back quickly!”

After saying that, she ended the call.

When he returned home and opened the door, he saw that familiar face.

“You’re back!”

She stood at the door, dressed in a plain white kimono that wrapped around her graceful and enchanting figure. She gave him a bright smile, and she was as beautiful and moving as ever.

“Do you miss me, my dear little brother?”

She walked up with a smile and wrapped her delicate arms around Tang Hao's neck.

As she giggled, her eyes curved into beautiful crescent shapes.

Without waiting for Tang Hao's reply, she kissed him.

The kiss was incomparably passionate, and the two were almost out of breath.

"Mmm! I love the taste! Come, give me another kiss!" She licked her lips and kissed him again until their passions started to flare.

"My dear little brother, you say that you don't miss me, but your body says otherwise! I have already cleaned myself up. You can do whatever you want!"

Tamamo giggled, grabbed Tang Hao's collar, and rolled onto the couch.

After a long time, everything was calm again.

She curled up on the couch with a lazy and satisfied expression.

After lying down for a while, she seemed to have remembered something. She exclaimed and sat up.
"My love sushi!"

Then, she hurriedly pulled Tang Hao to the kitchen.

"I'm here to remind you about something," she said while feeding Tang Hao the sushi.

“What’s wrong?” Tang Hao was stunned.

“Things have been a little rough over there recently. The Ministry of Defense is investigating you in private to confirm your identity. I think they will find out soon,” Tamamo said.

Tang Hao immediately frowned. If the Dongyingese really wanted to find out who he was, there was no way of stopping them.

Last time, when he found out about Project Dragon Slayer, he took the initiative to attack three out of the four major forces of the Dongying cultivation world to intimidate them.

He did not expect that trouble would arise again.

Why would they be confident that they would pin him down though?

“Recently, there have been a lot of unfamiliar cultivators in Dongying. I saw them once when I went to the Ministry of Defense. They are quite powerful!” Tamamo frowned with a serious expression on her face.

“Unfamiliar cultivators?” Tang Hao was surprised.

The situation was similar to what happened in Huaxia.

Could it be that Dongying had hidden sects too?

Tang Hao thought about it and realized that it was quite possible. However, why did they all return at the same time?

Tang Hao had thought about the question for a long time. He had asked the people of Hua Mountain and Kongtong before, but they could not explain it clearly. All they knew was that it was an instruction left behind by their ancestral teachers.

Tang Hao vaguely felt that there must be some mystery behind it.

“In any case, you have to be careful!” Tamamo said.

“Thank you!” Tang Hao said.

“What are you thanking me for? If you want to thank me, then serve me well tonight!” She winked at him flirtatiously and giggled.

Then, she picked up a piece of sushi with her pearly white teeth and brought it to Tang Hao’s mouth.

It was a long night.

At about five o’clock in the morning, when the sky was still dark, she left.

“I’m leaving, my dear little brother. You have to miss me! Don’t worry, I will protect myself!”

She sent him a flying kiss and waved her hand. Then, she turned around and flew out of the balcony.

Tang Hao sat down and studied formations for a while before going to class.

At noon, he received a call from General Bai.

“Comrade Tang Hao, come here quickly!”

General Bai sounded excited.

“What’s up?” Tang Hao asked.

“It’s good news! Come here quickly!”

“Where are you?”

“The Capital!”

When he arrived at the Capital and arrived at the Agency, General Bai threw him a stack of photos.

“What’s this?”

Tang Hao picked them up and took a look. On them were a few guys dressed like farmers. Upon closer inspection, he realized that they were the sect leader and the elders of Shu Mountain.

The unlucky guy that he knocked out was also there.

Looking at the background, it seemed like they were in the outskirts of an urban area.

“What are they doing? Are they causing trouble?” Tang Hao asked in puzzlement.

“Causing trouble? They’re searching for treasures!” General Bai said excitedly.

“We eavesdropped on their cell phones and learned that they are searching for treasures. Their ancestral teachers left them some records of rare treasures, and they are going to dig for them.”

“Searching for treasures?” Tang Hao’s eyes suddenly lit up. He was excited too.

“Where are they?” He asked hurriedly.

“Don’t worry. We’ve been tailing them!” General Bai laughed.

“Let’s go!” Tang Hao slammed the table and stood up. “All the treasures are ours! We won’t leave anything for them.” His eyes were sparkling.

S Province, Huaxia.

A minivan was driving on a muddy mountain road. It was the famous Wuling Hongguang.

The driver was none other than the sect leader of Shu Mountain.

A group of people was squeezed in the back seat, being jolted about as the vehicle drove over the bumpy road.

“We’re here!”

After the vehicle stopped, the people rushed out and started throwing up.

Their legs were weak, and they felt as though they were floating.

“I can’t take it anymore. I’m going to die!”

“I’m so dizzy I can’t walk anymore!”

The group of people sat on the ground.

“Pull yourselves together. We’re almost there. This time, we’ll definitely gain something,” the sect leader encouraged them.

However, he did not sound too confident. They had gone to several places, dug deep holes, but did not find anything. Even he was getting discouraged.

“All of you have to cheer up! Think about those damn natives, especially that bastard who deserves a death by a thousand cuts. Think about the humiliation they brought us. Are you just going to take it lying down?”

The people received a boost of morale and quickly jumped to their feet. They gritted their teeth, and their eyes were burning with fighting spirit.

“If I don’t kill those natives and skin that bastard alive, I, Duan Shaolong, am not human!”

Duan Shaolong clenched his fists and swore to the heavens.

His eyes were wide open and burning with raging anger.

Every time he thought of that bastard, he could not suppress his anger. Even his head was faintly aching.

“Very good! That’s the spirit! Let’s go!”

The sect leader turned around and led his people into the mountains.

The group of people walked across mountains and ridges. Finally, they arrived at the place marked on the map.

After searching for a while, they found the entrance to an underground catacomb.

It was filled with traps and dungeons. After going through multiple difficult obstacles, they opened the last door and finally arrived at the actual tomb.
