

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 885

“Rainbringer’s divine bone?”

Everyone cried out in shock. The revelation had made them more excited.

They were not sure what a divine bone was, but they knew about Rainbringer. It was one of the true dragons that existed in primordial times.

Something that belonged to Rainbringer must be an extremely rare treasure.

“Hmph! What makes you think you deserve the divine bone? You overestimate yourself. The divine bone belongs to us rakshas!”

The monkey roared and pounced at the divine bone.

“Stop him!”

Several Perfected Masters shouted and moved into action.

It was too late. The monkey was very fast, and in the blink of an eye, he had arrived in front of the divine bone. He stretched out his hand and grabbed at it.

However, at that moment, the divine bone trembled lightly, and a translucent ripple suddenly spread out.

“Ahh!”

The monkey yelped and suddenly fell face down on the ground.

As the ripple spread rapidly in all directions, the cultivators let out muffled groans and fell to the ground.

Tang Hao was no exception. He fell down with a plop.

At that instant, he felt something as heavy as a mountain pressing onto his chest. He lost all strength and was almost unable to breathe, and his entire body was covered in cold sweat.

'Is this... the might of Rainbringer?' Tang Hao was shocked.

The pressure came suddenly, but it also dissipated quickly.

Everyone slowly got to their feet while groaning in pain. They seemed to be afraid.

"What happened just now? Eh? Where's my cultivation?"

"Mine is gone too! What happened?"

The crowd was in an uproar. They were shouting in panic.

Tang Hao got to his feet too. He felt as though the qi in his body was frozen, and he could not wield it at all.

His expression immediately changed. Cultivation was the foundation of a cultivator. Without cultivation, a cultivator would only be slightly stronger than an ordinary person.

“F*ck! My cultivation is gone too!”

The monkey jumped up and also cursed loudly.

Soon after that, he became happy. If no one could wield their qi, he would be the physically strongest figure there. After all, he was a raksha, and that made him stronger than humans.

“Hahaha! My raksha ancestors are protecting me!”

Rainbringer, the distant ancestor of the rakshas, must have left behind that trap so that the divine bone did not fall into the hands of humans.

Everyone also realized this problem, and their expressions changed.

“Kill that damned monkey first! Kill anyone who isn’t a human!”

At that moment, Tang Hao shouted loudly.

When everyone heard that, they all looked at the monkey with hostile expressions.

That made sense! The monkey was the greatest threat, and he was a raksha and was being so arrogant. That made him an easy target!

Everyone exchanged glances at each other and moved in action at the same time.

“Kill the monkey!”

They shouted loudly. Some unsheathed their swords and blades while others attacked with their bare hands.

“All of you are trash!”

The monkey grunted disdainfully. He did not bother dodging or running away but instead charged directly toward the crowd.

A chaotic battle instantly erupted. From time to time, people would scream miserably as they were sent flying.

The monkey was extremely proficient in close combat. As a raksha, he was far stronger than human cultivators without their cultivation bases.

Tang Hao picked up a sharp knife and charged forward. He had to kill that monkey to have a chance at snatching the treasure.

Besieged in all directions, the monkey swung his limbs, smashing the cultivators one by one until they vomited blood and flew backward. No one could stop him.

Everyone would be in awe if he were a human, but he was a monkey, and the people became angrier and angrier as they fought.

Several other people were hiding at the side, waiting for the right opportunity to strike. Among them were the people from the Ye Kingdom.

“Fool, all of them!”

The crown prince of the Ye Kingdom stood with his hands behind his back. He looked at the fight and laughed mockingly.

Following that, he turned his head and looked at the divine bone.

“This divine bone must belong to me. Only I am worthy of it!” He muttered. His eyes glinted with greed.

“Ahh!” “Ahh!”

Several more people were sent flying.

The monkey threw his head back and howled, seemingly exhilarated. “Come on! Let me fight to my heart’s content today! I’ll destroy all of you!”

As soon as he finished speaking, he felt a gust of wind coming from behind him.

It was too fast!

Before he could react, he felt something sharp piercing into his sphincter, followed by agonizing pain.

His face contorted from the pain, then he roared and glared around him.

That was too painful!

Then, that thing twisted a little, and his delicate sphincter ruptured.

The monkey let out a blood-curdling scream, covered his behind, and jumped up. "My butt! It's splitting apart!" He ran in circles and screamed.

Everyone was dumbfounded. They subconsciously reached behind to cover their butts.

"That's too tragic!"

They felt a chill coursing down their spines.

"Who is it? You'd better own up!" The monkey was going crazy from anger!

It was a great humiliation to be poked in the butt!

No one owned up. On the ground, there was a sharp knife stained with blood. It was a terrifying sight.

Everyone was puzzled. The attack happened so suddenly that no one saw it clearly.

"Everyone, take the chance to kill that monkey!"

No one knew who shouted that, but the crowd rose and charged forward again.

The monkey was not as ferocious as before. Seeing that things were going south, he hurriedly rushed toward the divine bone.

"Get lost!"

After sending more than ten people flying, he approached the divine bone and stretched out his hand to grab it.

“Hmph!”

At that moment, the people from the Ye Kingdom made their move. The two old men pounced and attacked the monkey.

The monkey had just grabbed the divine bone and was about to swallow it, but the two old men intercepted him, and the divine bone was sent flying.

“Haha! The divine bone is mine!”

The Crown Prince of the Ye Kingdom laughed loudly, leaped up, and stretched toward the divine bone. He laughed smugly as if the divine bone was already in his possession.

All that happened in the blink of an eye. When everyone realized what happened, the crown prince was about to catch the divine bone.

“F*ck! How shameless!”

Everyone cursed angrily.

They noticed the three of them hiding at the side.

Amid the crowd, Tang Hao narrowed his eyes and stomped his feet. He leaped above the crown prince and struck out his palm toward the crown prince’s face.

His palm covered the crown prince's face like blocking a basketball.

Bang!

The crown prince fell heavily onto the ground. Tang Hao reached out and grabbed the divine bone.

Everyone was stunned. They turned their heads and looked at the figure in the air who was grabbing the divine bone.

"Who... is he?"

That was the question that appeared in everyone's minds.