

The Mightiest Little Peasant Chapter 900

The prodigies were losing their minds.

They could sense that the kid's qi aura was weakening. Victory was in sight, but that kid did not fall.

"Dammit, how is he still standing?" They cursed angrily.

At that moment, Tang Hao trembled, and his qi aura became weaker. He even clutched his chest, seemingly in pain. He looked as though he was about to die at any time.

"Haha! That's the end of him!"

The prodigies were delighted.

Cheers erupted from all directions.

"Go! Kill that kid and snatch the shard. There will be great rewards!" The sect leaders shouted excitedly.

The prodigies rushed toward Tang Hao, eager to land the killing blow.

At that moment, Tang Hao suddenly lifted his head and smirked coldly. His body trembled, and he fully unleashed his qi aura. He did not look the slightest bit weak at all.

"Dammit! It's a trap!"

The prodigies were suddenly flustered.

They wanted to run away, but it was too late. Tang Hao rushed in like a tiger amid a flock of sheep and started slaughtering the people.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Bodies exploded one after another, and each of them dropped shards.

Tang Hao picked up the shards before charging at the other people again. Those people were caught unprepared.

Tang Hao broke out of the encirclement and dashed in the direction of the market.

After killing so many people, especially those prodigies, he was already at his physical limit. If he did not run away, he might die soon.

The prodigies were quite formidable. Moreover, Tang Hao would not be able to kill them as easily because they had Artifacts.

His revenge was half-complete after killing so many people. He could continue in the future.

With the Fleetfoot Stride, he managed to get away and disappear without a trace while everyone was still stunned.

They were greatly angered when they realized what happened.

“Give chase! You must stop him!” The sect leaders roared angrily.

If they let that kid run away, all their efforts today would have been in vain.

However, they could not catch up. Tang Hao managed to shake them off with the Fleetfoot Stride.

The ensuing scene was quite a sight to behold: One person ran in front while countless people chased behind him and cursed loudly.

“Don’t run, you filthy brat!”

“Argh, I can’t run anymore! How can he be so fast?”

The people involved in the chase were about half of the people in the Ninth Region.

When Tang Hao arrived at the market, he saw many of the people he had killed earlier had appeared in the Void Realm again. Their faces turned pale when they saw Tang Hao.

“Why is it you again, Qin guy!” They wailed.

Tang Hao dispatched all of them.

Standing at the exit, he counted today’s harvest from slaughtering all those people.

He realized that he could exchange for a pill-making scripture, and so he shouted at the sky.

The people caught up to him after the exchange was completed.

“Don’t tell me you exchanged that dark gold shard?”

Those people were anxious when they saw the golden light from the sky earlier.

Tang Hao took out the dark gold shard and waved it. Then, he said coldly, “That’s it for today. I’m not done with my revenge yet. I’ll come again.”

“Don’t be so arrogant, you filthy brat. The prodigies of Primeval Mountain haven’t arrived yet!”

“That’s right. Don’t think that you’re invincible. The most powerful cultivator of the Hillrazer Sect hasn’t arrived yet!”

Everyone started cursing.

Tang Hao glanced at them coldly and walked into the exit.

“Dammit! So many people died, and the brat still managed to get away!”

Everyone cursed, feeling extremely frustrated.

“Sigh! That kid is too uncanny. He wasn’t as powerful before, so what did he do to become so stupidly powerful?”

“That’s right. It’s too strange!”

Everyone exclaimed in wonderment.

They could not figure out what the kid had done, no matter how hard they tried.

“That’s... an extraordinary bone! Only a primordial beast could have so much power,” the patriarch of the Di family said.

“I think so too! Fusing with a bone is extremely risky, especially with bones of primordial beasts. That kid must be extraordinary to succeed!” The Primeval Mountain sect leader said resentfully.

He hated the kid, but he had to admit that the kid was indeed formidably strong and courageous.

Among the thousands of disciples of Primeval Mountain, probably only one person could compare to him.

There were probably only about ten such people in the entire Ninth Continent.

“Nameless Qin... Nameless Qin! I wonder where he’s from?” Everyone sighed.

They had conflicting sentiments. Other than hatred, there was also some admiration.

“Five chakras and a fused bone? Why does it sound so familiar?” Someone said suddenly.

That person was from a large faction in the southern region.

In an instant, many people turned to look at him.

“Have you forgotten what happened a while ago? Rainbringer’s skeleton and its divine bone resurfaced. It was said that some unknown prodigy snatched it.”

Hearing that, some people from the southern region were shocked.

“I’ve heard about it too. The rumors are quite shocking. It was said that the unknown prodigy used the power of the divine bone to unseal three chakras. He managed to fuse with the divine bone and killed several Golden Core cultivators.”

“What’s even more unbelievable is that after the incident, he disappeared without a trace. We could not find him even after combing through the entire southern region.”

They suddenly remembered.

That incident had shaken the entire southern region. Some of them had even tried to hunt down Rainbringer’s skeleton.

Then, they became excited.

“It’s him! I’m sure! That bone is the divine bone of the primordial Rainbringer!”

As soon as he finished speaking, everyone around gasped.

“Rainbringer? Oh my god! No wonder that kid is a freak!”

Everyone was stunned.

“Southern region?”

Their expressions changed.

From what they had heard, that kid might have left the southern region. Even so, it was worth investigating there, and they might be able to find some clues to the kid’s identity.

They left the Void Realm in a hurry.

When they returned to the real world, the major factions sent people to investigate the southern region.

“Find out who he is, even if you have to turn the entire southern region upside down! Otherwise, don’t bother coming back!”

On Broken Sword Mountain, the sect leader flipped a table and roared angrily.

“All of you, get the hell out of the mountain and find that detestable brat!”

He was furious. As the leader of a major sect, he had died in the hands of a brat in the Void Realm. It was a great humiliation.

He could not be placated until that brat was dead.

Groups of people rushed down the mountain and scattered in all directions.
