

Mighty Mom 63

Chapter 63 Illegitimate Child of a Beggar

South nodded his head vigorously. Then, Camila smiled in relief. At that moment, she suddenly felt very thankful toward this man. In front of her son who lacked a father's love, he had taken on the role of a father figure. To be honest, this was something she had discussed with her son before. Perhaps there were differences in the way a father and a mother educated their children. The child might listen, but it wasn't as impactful to him when it came from her. Looking at the serious expression in her son's eyes, she knew he would definitely work hard to do well. After all, he looked up to Silas and even longed for him as a father!

Then, she glanced at Silas again. I guess the reason my son loves him isn't just that he is very handsome. Perhaps he might actually be pretty capable! If only Camila was still capable of calm and rational analysis. On the other hand, the female doctor was so emotional that she couldn't help herself. Staring at Silas with starry eyes, she exclaimed, "You are such a good father!" Camila looked at the female doctor in surprise. "He isn't the father." However, South didn't want to explain further. Thus, he stood up. "Let's go. I can't go to class in the afternoon. I need to buy a new pair of pants!" Silas said, "Okay. Your great-grandpa just called. He's worried about your injuries. Do you want to go and visit him?" In response, South nodded. "Yeah!" Then, Silas smiled. Bending down, he picked South up. "Alright; let's go get you some pants!"

South blushed shyly. Despite all sorts of twists and turns, Daddy and Mommy seem to be getting on much better than before! As soon as the three of them exited the school infirmary, they ran into Florence, her niece, and her nephew leaving the school. Florence saw that they were coming out of the school with their child in tow. Thus, she assumed that they had been expelled from the school too. If that was the case, she at least felt somewhat appeased. Turning toward her niece and her nephew, she said, "You were going on and on about how amazing they were. Look; didn't they get expelled too?" Camila was stunned. Expelled? Then, she understood what was going on almost immediately and gave Silas a dubious look. Don't tell me... When he left just now, it was for this?

In that instant, she felt a warm feeling in her heart. He's acting just like the child's father and protecting us. Silas ignored them. He walked past them without a second glance but was stopped by Florence. "Wait..." Florence had a delighted smile on her lips as she continued, "You have the surname 'Nolan', right? I don't care which family you come from, but let me give you a kind warning. Camila is not a virtuous woman; she was very wild in the past. That child of hers is the illegitimate child of a beggar! If you want to pursue a relationship with her, you better rethink your decision." Upon hearing those words, Camila immediately flew into a rage. Rushing over, she grabbed Florence by the wrist. "The only reason I didn't do anything to you is out of respect for your age! Don't you dare take advantage of your seniority again! If I ever hear you saying anything inappropriate about my son again, I'll make you regret it!" After saying that, she shoved Florence away. "Hey, woman! Why are you always so quick to act violently?!" the woman yelled as she stepped up to stop Camila. Camila's entire body exuded a layer of cold air. Shaking that woman's hand off, she snarled, "If somebody comes begging for death, what else can I do? Erica Horner, I've been respectful toward you on account of your children's presence. Don't you dare take advantage of me any more than this!" Florence felt delighted upon seeing how furious Camila was. Ignoring the fact that she had nearly fallen just now, she said to Silas again, "You have to believe what I say. Camila was trying to seduce her brother-in-law just two days ago! That is my son, Miles Ryan, of the Ryan Group. You must know of him, right? She tried to seduce him because he is such an excellent man! My son and my daughter-in-law are in a good relationship; who would be interested in sullied goods like her?! You better open your eyes wide. Don't be deceived by that appearance of hers!" Chapter 64 Officially Courting Camila Brooklyn

Silas exuded a terrifying hostility. Even South, who was being carried in his arms, clenched his little fists tightly. He was tempted to speak the truth-I'm not a beggar's son!

At that moment, Silas spoke in a bone-chilling voice, "Before you said anything, might only have considered it. But now I've made up my mind! From today onward, I'm going to officially court Camila Brooklyn! Miles Ryan, Lyla Brooklyn, and now, you. Your entire family is insolent, conceited, and full of themselves! I guess being expelled from the kindergarten was too light a punishment! From tomorrow onward, I'm going to crush the entire Ryan Group within a month!"

Upon hearing those words, everybody had the same reaction-they were shocked to the core.

Then, Erica Horner and Adam Horner glanced at each other. That man was the cause behind their children's expulsion! On the other hand, Camila was surprised by what he said. "From today onward, I'm going to officially court Camila Brooklyn'. Even if it's to provoke them, he doesn't need to go that far, right? We might have known each other for two months or so now, but we've only met a few times!

On the contrary, South was pleasantly surprised. He kept his lips tightly pressed together for fear of revealing the joyful thoughts in his heart. I did it! All my efforts were not in vain! My daddy is finally going to start wooing my mommy! Meanwhile, Florence looked disdainful. "You sure know how to boast! You're even threatening to crush the Ryan Group! Just who do you think you are?!" Silas glanced sideways at her, then said in an indifferent voice, "Try me!" Then, he added, "Oh; by the way, Camila wasn't seducing your son. He was pestering her. At the time, I happened to pass by and kicked him out! Go back and warn your son; Camila is now one of mine. He better not harass her for no reason!"

Florence was so embarrassed that she became angry, yelling, "What delusional ideas! My son and my daughter-in-law are very loving toward each other! Harass Camila? What a joke!"

Then, Camila burst out laughing. "Well, I hope they continue being so loving toward each other!" After saying that, she dragged Silas away. Arguing with that vixen in front of the school gates is an embarrassment! Soon, she heard the sounds of quarreling coming from behind her. Adam said, "He must be Silas Nolan! Otherwise, how could he be so confident? To crush the Ryan Group within a month; will the Horner Family be affected?"

Then, Erica said, "Didn't I say? How could the children have been expelled from the school without reason? It turns out that it was his fault! Aunt Florence, you've really caused trouble for us!"

Florence snorted, "Look at how he is trying to scare you. I don't believe he is capable of doing it!" On the other hand, Camila got into the car and said somewhat apologetically, "I'm sorry about just now. Thanks so much for your help!" She didn't mention what he said about courting her. After all, it was nothing more than an impulsive choice of words. Then, Silas looked at her. "It's nothing. Next time you see them trying to pick a fight with you, just ignore them." Looking at him strangely, she couldn't help smiling, "Although it was just a brief moment, I was tempted to kill her too. But, when I thought about how I'd be labeled as a murderer because of such a vicious old lady, I realized that it's just not worth it."

He glared at her; it was clear that his anger had not simmered down. "What are you afraid of? If we don't crush these types of people, are we supposed to just leave them be?"

She laughed. "Oh, I will crush them, but I'll retaliate in another way." He glanced at her. He knew that she was petty-she would seek revenge for even the smallest of grievances. Otherwise, she would not have landed him with 50 million in medical fees. Still, he liked this personality of hers.

Afterward, they bought South a new pair of pants and he changed into them immediately. Camila held up the pair of ripped pants that looked more like a skirt in its current condition. Then, she burst into laughter. No wonder he refused to move even when he was being hit. Looking at Silas, who was carrying the child, she said, "Mr. Nolan, allow me to treat you to a meal. I'm so thankful for your help today."

Upon hearing that, Silas suddenly felt happy. Thus, he nodded. "If you have to say that, I think I should be the one treating you to a meal. If it wasn't for your timely rescue, Grandpa's life might have been endangered." South looked at one, then the other. Then, he said, "Do you need to keep exchanging thanks? Can we do that after we eat?"