

Chapter 1319

Princess Anna had entertained the thought that Henry was bluffing. She wasn't foolish. The fact that she had been successfully running the operation in the mountain without raising unnecessary suspicion showed that Princess Anna was rather shrewd.

However, Princess Anna didn't want to take risks. There were things that could not be seen by Henry. Princess Anna would rather destroy everything than take a risk.

After pressing the button, she went toward the nearest exit without looking back. That's the route she had prepared for herself.

The self-destruction mechanism didn't leave too much time after the button was pressed.

Thirty seconds after the press of the button, the mountain started to shake slightly.

Henry and the other two also felt the shaking while fighting against the experimental creatures. They knew what had happened immediately.

"F*ck!" Gardiner swore, "It's getting serious. That b*tch is crazy. She wants to destroy this place."

Although they were in a stand-alone structure within the mountain, when the mountain collapse, they also couldn't survive due to the lack of oxygen.

"Why are you still fighting? Run for your life!" Gardiner kicked away the creature in front of him and got himself a window to run away.

There was no time to think. One second of delay could cost people's life.

Henry and the man didn't want to stay in the fight, either. They also got away soon.

"There's no way over there. Here." The man called out.

On his way, Gardiner suddenly changed his direction after hearing the shout. He ran toward Henry and the man.

The creatures weren't strong enough to stop them from escaping. They could only slow the three of them down at most.

The man seemed to be familiar with the place. He led the way for Henry and Gardiner.

The mountain shook more volatile. It had become hard for people to stand still. All the experimental creatures were scared, too. They stopped chasing Henry, Gardiner, and the man and ran for their lives.

Without the interference of the experimental creatures, the three of them sped up and ran into a hall.

There were a lot of devices here. Some of them had a shape like a coffin and were made of steel.

The man jumped into one of the coffin-shaped devices. He tapped a few times on the inner wall of the device he lied in, and a glass cover slowly closed above the device.

Before the glass cover totally closed, he shouted.

"Get in one of them. The life-pod should be strong enough."

The glass cover shut, and no voice could be heard anymore.

"Should?" Gardiner complained, "You don't know for sure?"

"Stop complaining. It's going to collapse!" Henry roared. He followed the man and jumped into another life-pod.

The shake was getting worse. Some steel structures of the base started to deform. The self-destruction mechanism was implemented to destroy everything, and that included the destruction of the steel structures.

"Hail Mary full of grace...God bless..." Gardiner prayed and jumped into another life-pod. While the glass cover was closing, he shouted, "Henry, if I come out of this alive, don't forget my Rolls-Royce..."

Kaboom!

An explosion sound drowned out Gardiner's voice.

The mountain was collapsing.

Under the night sky, the rumbling sound shook the town in the distance.

Everyone could see the collapse of the Mountain of the Gods, which had been standing for thousands of years. Smoke and dust billowed into the sky, and the ground was shaking.

In the hotel room, the silver-haired woman was watching the Mountain of the Gods going down. She swirled the wineglass in her hand and smiled, "Someone is shaken pretty bad. It seems that you are really scared of letting Henry find out about your secret. You even destroy the whole base. I guess you're going crazy right now. Alvin League, you just destroy one of your most important projects."

In the town nearby, people knelt on the ground and cried. They were praying for the Gods to ease their anger.

They thought the collapse of the Mountain of the Gods was a manifestation of the Gods' anger toward the human race.

A long time had passed until the area of the Mountain of the Gods finally went quiet.

During the time Henry was in the life-pod, he felt waves of commotion rocking the life-pod back and forth. It took a long while for his life-pod to stop moving.

The reinforced steel container of the life-pod had been deformed, and the bullet-proof glass cover had cracked.

The life-pods of Gardiner and the man were nowhere to be found.

A huge rock was suspended a few centimeters above the glass cover of Henry's life-pod, and it could fall at any time.

Henry waited for a few minutes. He started to move after making sure that nothing would happen unexpectedly. He tried to open the glass cover. It was luck that the control of the glass cover was still functioning.

Henry tried to nudge the rock above his head. He was relieved to find out that it was movable. Henry could make a way out of here as long as there was enough space for him to work his power.

Henry was also very relieved to find out that he could cultivate Qi again.

He moved the rock above his head away easily. He then found out there was nothing above the rock.

Henry leaped into the space above the rock and found out the space was huge. After a moment of observation, Henry was sure that the space was below the original location of the Mountain of the Gods where the Antiquity Country's inheritance was supposed to be at.

Henry saw two smashed statues of six-winged archangels. He could only imagine what they looked like before the collapse of the mountain.

Standing in front of Henry was a huge gate. On it, there were strange symbols. Henry recognized the symbols to be Antiquity Country's oldest words. It meant the doorway to Heaven.

The bottom half of the gate was buried in rocks, and Henry was standing on top of them. He remembered the image of this gate from the surveillance video feed. He guessed that the gate should be twenty meters in height. At this moment, there were only five meters of the gate showing above the rocks. Henry felt lucky that he wasn't found himself on the bottom end of the fifteen meters of rocks. If so, he couldn't get out easily even if he used Qi.

Not far from Henry, a rock was moved away. The man crawled out.

"It seems that we're lucky," The man grinned when he saw Henry. He then moved his eyes toward the gate, and his eyes were full of excitement.

Chapter 1320

"The inheritance of Antiquity Country is on the other side of this gate," The man said, "No one knows what is inside, and no one ever opened the gate before. But it seems that if we want to get out, opening this gate is the only option."

The man looked up. They were hundreds of meters below the surface. Above the ground, there were hundreds of meters high of the ruin of the mountain. Within hundreds of meters of rocks and gravels, there was this mysterious metal that could make people unable to use Qi. Without Qi, people would die of hunger or thirst before they could dig themselves out of the ruin.

While Henry and the man were observing the gate, they heard a sound coming from the ruin.

A couple of rocks were moved, and Gardiner crawled out, covering in the dust. He was panting.

"I'm exhausted." Gardiner crawled out and sat on the ground, panting. He put a cigarette in his mouth but didn't light it.

Henry looked at Gardiner and asked, "Why are you in such a mess?"

"Shut up," Gardiner rolled his eyes, "I'm at the bottom. You know how many rocks I just moved?"

"Why didn't you just use Qi?" Henry asked.

"Qi?" Gardiner was surprised. The corner of his mouth twitched, "I...I can use Qi now?"

"Of course," Henry rolled his eyes.

Gardiner sat on the ground in silence, pouting. He looked toward the doorway to Heaven.

The man walked toward and gate. He cut a strange symbol on his palm. The man then used Qi to dry the blood. He pushed the hand onto the gate.

The blood-red symbol appeared on the gate.

"Boom!"

With a huge noise, the gate started to shake.

The man said, "My clan has studied the gate for hundreds of years. We wouldn't stop trying until we find the way."

Looking at the gate shaking, the man was excited, "I have to succeed this time. I have the blood of many different clans, and some of my ancestors are the descendent of gods. I can definitely open this gate and help my clan regain its glory!"

The man was confident, but the gate didn't open as he wished. After a wave of volatile shaking, the gate went back motionless.

"Why?" The man's eyes widened. He pushed his bloodied hand again.

Nothing happened to the gate except the shaking.

"It's impossible! It's impossible!" The man was panicked, "Why? It's impossible!"

"You just knocked. Are you waiting for someone to open the gate for you? Can you open it yourself?" Gardiner complained. He walked over and pushed the gate casually.

"Creak," The doorway of Heaven was pushed open by Gardiner.

Gardiner was shocked, so did Henry and the man.

"It's... " Looking at the opened gate, Gardiner wasn't sure what he just did.

Henry patted Gardiner on the shoulder and said

teasingly, "It seems that you are the kid chosen by God."

"F*ck off," Gardiner said grumpily, "I don't care if I'm the chosen one or not. I just wanna know why the creaking sound. It's like this is the gate of a haunted house."

"Maybe God thinks that you are not a decent person," Henry said. He peeked inside but didn't enter.

The man's body was shaken out of excitement. He walked inside.

"Come on, let's go in," Gardiner said.

Henry thought for a moment. He still remembered Silas' warning. Silas told Henry that since there was something special about Henry, he'd better stay away from certain places.

They heard nothing after the man entered.

Henry stood still and did not move.

Gardiner was in a dilemma. He looked at Henry and then at the opened gate. He said, "I'm going in."

Gardiner entered the gate.

After twenty seconds.

"What the f*ck!"

Gardiner's voice was heard.

Then Gardiner walked out of the gate. He asked, "Where is the man?"

"Why do you ask me? He walked in," Henry looked at Gardiner confused.

"He's not there," Gardiner made a grumpy face, "There is a small room of about ten square meters big. It's even smaller than your bathroom. There are stones all around. I didn't find any trap doors. I don't know where the man is."

"Only ten square meters big?" Henry was confused,

"How do you know the size of my bathroom?"

"I need to do my business. So I borrowed your bathroom when you are not at home. But that's beside the point. You are more observant than I am. Come and check if he ran out through a trap door."

Gardiner dragged Henry into the gate.

Just as Gardiner described, there was only a tiny room on the other side of the gate. After passing a five meters tall hallway, there was a two meters tall doorway, which led to the room. The room had stone walls. Henry probed with Qi and found nothing.

"What the hell is this? Where did that guy go?" Gardiner picked up a small rock on the ground. He then got down on the ground and shouted downward, "Old man, are you there?"

Henry frowned. How did the man disappear in the thin air? Henry knocked around on the stone walls and found nothing still.

Somewhere near the original set of the Mountain of the Gods, Dougal Li stood on the ruin of the mountain, frowning.

"How is it? Is there anything wrong?" Sacred Lord, who was wearing a white mask, floated in the air.

"No," Dougal shook his head, "They can't get out at this moment. They are still in their real world. But a crack just happened, and someone fell in. I don't know who it was. If it was Henry who fell, we are going to have troubles."

"I would rather hope that Section Nine person fell. Gardiner might be able to break the deadlock for us because of his personality," Sacred Lord said. 2

"Who knows?" Dougal shook his head, "The crack is closed. There's nothing to worry about. I'll take my leave."

"Let's leave together."

The two disappeared all of a sudden. Then a large group of people arrived at the ruin of the Mountain of the Gods.

"Dig! The emperor is still inside. We need to save him or get his body."

The leader of the group commended. They were here for the ruler of Antiquity Country.

 Watch Ads to Get 15 Vouchers

Chapter 1321

Underneath the surface, Henry and Gardiner stood in the tiny room on the other side of the gate, confused.

They had no idea of how a man could disappear in the thin air. This made them flustered.

Time passing by, they still had no clue.

"I give up," Gardiner's patience ran out, "Let's just leave it here. It doesn't matter to us if we figure it out or not. If the reason is going to be important, the answer will come to us sooner or later. Let's focus on getting out of here."

Gardiner then walked out of the room.

Henry shook his head and walked out with him.

They came out of the doorway of Heaven and looked up. Their overhead had been blocked by the ruins.

"Come on. There's a bigger project waiting for us," Gardiner lit a cigarette and said, "I'm in a managing position. I shouldn't be out there for the field job."

"A good leader should always learn to get their hands dirty," Henry rolled his eyes.

"Psst," Gardiner pouted. Although he kept complaining, he never slowed down.

Henry and Gardiner cultivated Qi, and two gigantic hands appeared. They started to move the rocks.

Ten hours had passed.

When they finally dug themselves out from the underground, it was already dusk.

In fact, while they were digging from underneath, there were numerous heavy-duty machines sent by the emperor of Antiquity Country also digging from above the ground.

Seeing Henry crawled out in one piece, the emperor of Antiquity Country let out a long sigh of relief. He didn't know that Radiant Island had ceased to exist, nor did he know about his daughter, Princess Anna. He only knew that if something happened to the King of Hell in his territory, he would never have one day of peace.

Henry and Gardiner did not stay in Antiquity Country for long. After Gardiner failed to contact the rest of Section Nine people, he realized that all the people who came with him had betrayed him.

On their flight back, Gardiner looked depressed.

"What kind of brainwash technics did Noble Berserkers gave to my people? Why did they all turn?"

"You ask me?" Henry glanced at Gardiner.

Gardiner suddenly realized something, "I'm so sorry. They also turned your Cesia and Ailsa. They are really good at stealing people."

Henry said grumpily, "Are you trying to feel good about yourself by humiliating me? No liquor for you anymore."

"Buddy, I'm sorry," Gardiner said cheekily.

Although Henry was exhausted, he didn't sleep a wink for the rest of his flight. Henry lied in his luxurious airplane bed, wide awake and worried. He didn't solve anything on the trip to Antiquity Country. On the contrary, he added one more worry to his list. Sylvia had woken the power of her blood.

As for what that meant, Henry still had no idea. Up to then, he only knew that anything associated with it turned out to be a terror.

Henry asked Gardiner about what it meant by waking the blood power, but Gardiner knew no more than Henry did.

In contrast to Henry, Gardiner was very light-hearted during his whole trip. He just briefly mentioned being betrayed by his people, then he spent the whole trip drinking and chatting up the female flight attendants. He promised them to take them for a ride in his new Rolls-Royce.

Just like that, Henry and Gardiner were flying back to Yinzhou.

It was noon when they landed.

Gardiner left the airplane drunk. He wanted to drive the rental car back to the rental company right after. So Henry called the police, and they arrested Gardiner before he could get in the car. Gardiner left Henry with a resentful glance. 1

Henry ignored Gardiner. He went straight back home. When he got there, Henry found out that the door of his house was wide open.

Henry was stunned by this, "Sylvia is back?"

But he rejected his speculation immediately. There was a strong smell of smoke that came from inside of the house, and Sylvia hated the smell of smoking.

Henry walked in and found out there were more than a dozen strangers in his house. Among them, there were men, women, young and old. They were lying around the house. And take-out leftovers were on the table.

Henry was furious upon seeing this scene. This is the home of Sylvia and himself. They had been carefully taken care of this place. But at this moment, a bunch of strangers just invited themselves in and ravaged the place. They walked around the house in their dirty shoes and filled the house with the smoke that Sylvia hated the most. Henry and Sylvia's wedding photo almost fell off the wall. It was only hanging by one corner.

"What are you doing here?" Henry walked in and locked the door. It was clear that he didn't intend to let anyone walk out of his house alive.

Everyone looked at Henry.

They asked, "Who are you?"

They acted as if they were the owner of the house.

Henry pointed at the wedding photo.

"Oh? So you're that b*tch's husband." The strangers surrounded Henry, "Tell us then. Where is that b*tch? Where did you hide the stuff?"

Henry shook his head and said, "I don't understand what you are talking about."

"I suggest you stop playing dumb in front of us," A woman in her forties sneered, "You will not leave this place until you give us that b*tch."

"I think you are mistaken," Henry smiled, "I haven't finished speaking."

"Oh? We're listening. Let's see what excuses you can give us," The woman said with her arms folded in front of her chest.

"What I was going to say was," Henry glanced at everyone and said, "You should clean my house and straighten our wedding photo. Then you will break your own legs. Maybe I can consider letting you all live."

The room was silent after Henry's words. And then the strangers burst into laughter.

"Letting us live. Do you know what you're talking about? Do you know who we are?"

"Does it even matter?" Henry flexed his wrists and said, "I'm not joking with you. I'll give you three seconds. Three."

"We didn't joke with you either. Tell me, where is that b*tch?" The middle-aged woman asked again.

"Two," Henry raised his arm.

"Kid, you..."

"One. I'm sorry, you ran out of time," Henry grinned. He waved his arm, and the woman stood there frozen.

Two seconds later, the blood spurted out. Henry ripped her mouth out of her face.

"I don't like the way you talk," Henry's grin got more evil.

 Watch Ads to Get 15 Vouchers

Chapter 1322

No one expected Henry would do anything extreme. Seeing blood spurred out from the woman's face, everyone was stunned.

While they were dazed out, Henry formed a purple Qi blade around his hand. He moved about everyone swiftly.

In less than ten seconds, Henry stopped, and the purple Qi blade in his hand dissipated.

No one moved after that. After a few seconds, they all fell backward, and blood spread all over the floor.

"Come in and clean up."

Henry opened the door and went out.

Several people walked in silently. They started to clean up.

Henry walked to the backyard. He picked up a pair of shears and started to trim the plants. It seemed that the massacre didn't affect him one bit.

"You son of a b*tch!"

Along with the wails, came Gardiner. He ran toward Henry, "Do you really think that I will be drunk-driving?"

"I am a boss, and I know better! Wait.

No, something is not right!"

Gardiner got closer to the fence and sniffed. "The smell of blood! Did they come for you?"

"It seems that you know something. Let's talk."

Henry spoke, and the backyard gate opened.

As advanced in Qi as Henry did, Telekinesis was an easy task.

Gardiner walked in. He said, "I rushed over right after I got the information. It's a pity I'm still too late. Did they go too far?"

Henry smiled and replied, "They were worse than you."

"So they deserved it."

Gardiner nodded and said, "But... "

"What's wrong? Did they have a strong background?" Asked Henry.

"In the past, yes. Their background was too powerful for you. But you don't need to care about it now. Since now, you've got a much more powerful background, and no one in the world dares to touch you. By the way, they are all from the clans."

Gardiner picked a leaf from the tree and blew it as a musical instrument. He then continued, "You have met many people from the clans, but the ones you met were from some less influential clans. But because of Sylvia, all the powerful clans have come out. The ones here were from the Wang Clan of Langya, the Xie Clan of Chen Commandery, the Yang Clan of Hongnong, the Qian Clan of Wuyue, and the Li Clan of Longxi. The Wang Clan of Langyu used to be rank number one among the five clans, but since Dougal Li became the Martial Emperor, the Li Clan of Longxi has become the new number one, and the Wang Clan of Langya is the second. The other three clans are ranked in a tie. The other less powerful clans follow their command."

"What's going on with Sylvia?"

Henry put down the shears.

Gardiner took a deep breath and said, "The news I got was that to wake the power of blood, Sylvia forced the inheritance of Su Clan to open. Ages ago, your Shifu separated Qi and the army and forced all the organizations to sign the agreement. He wanted to stop the clans from participating in secular battles and to seal off their inheritance. All the clans are tightly connected, and the open of one inheritance would lead to the opens of all. In a way, Sylvia has started a new era of Guwu. From now on, the clans will enter the secular battles of the era of Guwu."

"It's not a big deal."

Henry said, "Clans will come out sooner or later. I would come for them if they weren't coming out. Sylvia just rushed the time a little bit."

"It's not that simple."

Gardiner shook his head, "I wouldn't rush here if things are that simple. They say that Sylvia took something away, and that thing matters to the inheritance of all the clans. Now, everyone is looking for her, even Martial Emperor himself, but no one has any lead of her whereabouts. It's almost like she's never existed. Do you know anything about where she is?"

Henry frowned. He shook his head and said, "No, I know nothing."

"Forget it."

Gardiner shrugged, "You'll tell me if you want to. Go pack your bag. We'll go to the ancestral land of the Su Clan. People are demanding you to make your appearance there. If you really don't know where Sylvia is, you might be able to find some clues there. By the way, Alvin Tsu will be there too. He has Peze, and he wants you to trade Peze with the information about Sylvia. Do you want to take a rest or leave right away?"

"Right away."

Henry said casually.

"In fact, I think you'd better take care of one thing first."

Gardiner suggested.

"What is it?"

"My Rolls-Royce."

The Su Clan of Krerton City had its own reputation in Krerton City. Its ancestral land was located in the city.

Around Krerton City, many historical sites served as tourist attractions. But those sites were, in fact, held not much value. The historical sites that held the real value were owned by individuals, and they were not open to the public.

Owners of those land usually installed signal blockers, so cell phones were useless around the area. Moreover, those sites were usually disguised as tombs. In Yan Xia, people stayed away from other peoples' graveyards, but no one knew that underneath the graves, greater secrets were hidden there.

The ancestral land of the Su Clan was located thirty kilometers away from Krerton City. It was called the Graveyard of the Su Clan.

In fact, it was a huge manor that was disguised as a graveyard. The ancestral land of the Su Clan was located in it.

At this moment, there was a huge pit in the center of the manor of the Su Clan. It was dug up recently. Because the inheritance of the Su Clan was broken open, people from every organization gathered here.

People from the five most powerful Clans were also there. There were wearing long robes and looked arrogantly. In Yan Xia, their reputation and power bestowed their prestige to be arrogant. The five clans sent seven Divine Realm masters, among them, two from the Zhao Clan, two from the Wang Clan, and the other three clans sent out one each. They came for one thing, finding Sylvia!

As the representative of Alvin League, Alvin Tsu also came. He came with Sloane Reynolds. The reason that Alvin dared to show his face was that he was supported by Alvin League, and he also held Peze as a hostage.

Cleve Chai was the representative of Recluse Association. He was very quiet that day.

The representative of the Noble Berserkers was Cesia.

Standing beside the pit with a diameter of ten meters and a depth of more than seventy meters, Cesia said, "No wonder Henry falls head over heels for you. It turns out you will do anything for your goals. Well done. You earned my respect."

 Watch Ads to Get 15 Vouchers