

Chapter 1373

"No dust should be enter Spirit-controlling realm?"

Henry was in a state of confusion. Did the dust refer to a person, or the earth?

Gardiner said, "Do you know what Martial Emperor and others have been doing all the time?"

Henry nodded and said, "I've heard a little about it. Is it related to the evil spirits?"

Before in Kunlun Mountain, Sanford had told Henry what he had done.

"That's right."

Gardiner nodded. "They're suppressing the evil spirits. It's not that they don't want to kill these evil spirits, it's that they can't. They need these evil spirits to suppress their own strength. Spirit-controlling is a very mysterious realm. Even if it's a thousand miles away, a master of the Spirit- controlling realm can still feel the heroic spirit. Thus, Martial Emperor and the others don't dare to display their own heroic spirit. They're worried."

Henry frowned and guessed, "Are they worried about being discovered by the Core?"

"That's right."

Gardiner continued, "Spirit-control is a very mysterious thing. When a new heroic spirit appears, it will be noticed immediately. This is just like online games. There are only a few old players and they have already known each other. Suddenly, there is a rumour in the system. One no-name player has joined the game, and his account is at the highest level. Do you think these old players should pay attention to it?"

"No matter what they think, they all want to have a look. Once they have a look, I'm afraid that the existence on the surface will be exposed."

Henry felt a little strange and said, "You mean, we know about the Core, but why doesn't the Core know about our existence?"

"It's a very simple principle."

Gardiner snapped his fingers. "When you see a person riding a bicycle, you won't think where his bicycle came from. And when you see a person sitting on the street with a transformer, you will surely want to know where his transformer came from. For the Core, we are just a group of people riding on bikes. Even if occasionally there are some traces, they won't care. And as for the Core, even if it only appears briefly, it will leave a heavy mark on the civilization. Adding the existence of the character in your jade pendant, the news that he came from the heart of the earth, the Core, has been spread out long ago. However, the Core has never been recognized."

Henry touched his head and found that his thoughts, in some aspects, were really limited. What Gardiner said was actually a very shallow truth, but he did not think of it.

Gardiner seemed to have seen through what Henry was thinking and said, "The reason why you didn't think of this is that you're thinking too highly of the Core. You think that this unknown civilization will overpower us in all aspects, but in fact, it's far less terrifying than what we're expecting. If it's really that terrifying, it wouldn't be unable to discover us or be trapped in the center of the earth. In fact, they're also human, but they've only inherited for a longer time. The development of civilization doesn't simply speed up a bit. For example, the sports car we're driving now. If you make your car run a hundred kilometers in two seconds, this is a breakthrough. However, each second shorter, you'll need more time to study than you've never needed to go through the process of creating a car."

Henry smiled and said, "Well, I finally know why you are here. Are you comforting me?"

"It's not much of a comfort."

Gardiner stubbed out the cigarette in his hand and said, "I just want to keep a common sense. You can stand at this position from the bottom. Even if you go to the Core, you can definitely stand at the top."

"That's enough."

Henry patted Gardiner on the shoulder and said, "You don't have to give me any more encouragement. I am not a child. Some things are solved. You go back to sleep first. I will go to meet some old friends, and then come back for the fat man."

After saying that, Henry strode away.

Looking at Henry's back, Gardiner lit up another cigarette and murmured, "If I hadn't been entangled with such a pile of bad things to deal with, I would like to go with you to see what the so-called Core really is like. I'm really curious. Boy, good luck."

Henry left World Hotel and went to look for Milan. She was on a business trip on behalf of Lins Group. She stayed here. When she knew that Henry was here, she took him out for a drink. When it was dawn, Henry took the drunk Milan back to her residence and then left.

Henry didn't know how to describe his relationship with Milan. When he was a child, he told her as a joke that he would marry her, but he didn't expect to meet her now. It happened that she was Sylvia's best friend. Sometimes, fate was so wonderful.

After seeing Milan, Henry went to see Alvin, Peze, Felix, Wilbur, and so on. After seeing these people, it was almost the same as running around the world.

Wilbur had recovered well, and Lila was not running around now. She stayed with Wilbur every day. Felix seemed to be a little depressed. The disappearance of Radiant Island was a big blow to him. Henry had done a lot of ideological work for him. Peze was very open-minded. He found a village in the countryside and lived there.

As for Alvin, he didn't react much. The dagger that piercing through Sloane, in his heart, was a hurdle that he couldn't get through. He still remembered it.

Henry did not comfort Alvin, nor did he enlighten him. These things had to be figured out by Alvin himself. No matter what other people said, it was useless. It was better for the two of them to deal with the emotional matters on their own.

After meeting all the people he wanted to see, Henry decided to visit Sackcloth Visitor.

When the Martial Emperor had removed all his Qi, he went into hiding. Although he did not tell Henry where he had gone, it was not difficult for Henry to find traces of Sackcloth Visitor with his current power. After all, Sackcloth Visitor was just an ordinary person.

Henry took the plane and arrived in He Province. It was the heartland of the Nine Provinces. The ten provinces were connected to each other and were located in the center of Yan Xia. The location of Sackcloth Visitor was in an unimpressive town in He Province. The house price in this town was less than 3,000 yuan, which showed how cheap the place was.

This small town was called Onarith District. The town was not big. According to locals, you can get from one end of town to the other with just a taxi within a couple of minutes.

Henry knew that Sackcloth Visitor rented a small stall and started some vegetable business. In fact, for Sackcloth Visitor, business was not important. He just wanted a simple life.

"Old thing, how many times have I told you that if I want you to continue following me, will you stop?

"Is there something wrong with your brain? Even if you prove that you are my grandfather, so what?"

"Do I have to take care of you?"

"Also, that house is mine now. It has nothing to do with you. Do you understand?"

When a gentle sound started, Henry subconsciously followed the sound and saw a woman over 40 kick a vegetable stall.

The person sitting behind the stall was Sackcloth Visitor!

Chapter 1374

Henry saw that Sackcloth Visitor's face covered with scars was calm, but there were many complicated emotions in the bottom of his eyes.

The food stall in front of the pockmark was kicked over. The woman turned her head and strode away. A fifteen-or-sixteen-year-old girl was dragged away by the woman.

After the woman left, another three young men staggering to the stall. They squatted down and looked at the leaves scattered all over the ground. One of them in a vest, sneered and said, "Old thing, aren't your vegetables fresh? Are you here to ruin my reputation? How can I survive in the future? Hurry up and compensate me with two or three thousand yuan, or get out of here."

Sackcloth Visitor looked at the vegetables on the ground and said calmly, "My vegetables are very good. They just fell to the ground and..."

Pa!

Before the Sackcloth Visitor could finish his words, the young man suddenly slapped him on the face.

Sackcloth Visitor was now just an ordinary person. He fell to the ground after being slapped by the strong young man.

"Pah!" The young man spat out a mouthful of saliva. "Old thing, if I say your food is bad, then it is bad. Give me the money. Do you hear me?"

Sackcloth Visitor shook his head slightly. "There's no problem with my vegetables."

"You are still being stubborn?" The young man raised his eyebrows, waved his arms, and once again slapped toward Sackcloth Visitor.

"That's enough. You can't lay your hands on an old man like that."

Henry's voice sounded. He grabbed the young man's wrist and threw out three thousand yuan. "Here is the money. Don't make trouble. Go away."

The young man was going to swear, but as soon as he saw Henry throwing the money, he didn't say a word, picked up the money, and left.

Henry was too lazy to argue with these young people. There was one more thing. If he had dealt with these young people now, what would happen after he left? The one who was unlucky was Sackcloth Visitor.

When Sackcloth Visitor saw Henry, his expression did not change much.

Henry bent down and helped Sackcloth Visitor to clean up the mess.

"Why did you come to see me?" Sackcloth Visitor was not surprised that Henry would look for him. He was just an ordinary person now. It could be said that if Henry wanted to find him, his every move could not escape Henry's eyes.

"I'm going to a place, and I may not be able to come back. I drop by to see you." Henry lifted the vegetable shelf, which had been kicked over and then said, "It seems that you don't have a good time. Let's find a place to have a talk."

"Okay, but I have to clean up the stall first." Sackcloth Visitor replied.

Half an hour later, Henry pushed a little cart with vegetables on it and came to a simple mud house. This type of house appeared twenty years ago. Now, it was rare to see such a house. The house was small, and there was no electricity inside, so people had to use kerosene lamps. A bed made of wood occupied most of the space. The bamboo hat of Sackcloth Visitor was placed on the bedside.

Although the house was small and worn out, it was clean and spotless.

Sackcloth Visitor carefully locked the door, even though this door could not prevent people from entering. "Let's go. You can buy me a drink. I don't have much spare money."

"Okay." Henry shrugged his shoulders.

Henry and Sackcloth Visitor went to an ordinary stall and asked for two bottles of white wine.

"Although it's not as good as yours, just drink it." Henry poured the wine for Sackcloth Visitor.

Sackcloth Visitor showed a smile that was uglier than crying, and then raised his glass.

After the two of them clinked their glasses, they drank it off.

"Did you say that you were going to a place?" Sackcloth Visitor looked at Henry in confusion.

"Yes." Henry nodded. "It has something to do with the thing that Martial Uncle is guarding."

Sackcloth Visitor's body shook. "You mean..."

Sackcloth Visitor had followed Sanford for so many years. He knew something.

"My wife is there. I have to go," Henry replied.

"Do you know how to go?"

"The Alvin League knows."

"These bastards!" Sackcloth Visitor slapped on the table, furious beyond belief.

The people around the table all laid their eyes on them.

Sackcloth Visitor realized that he had lost his composure. He adjusted his mood and said in a low voice, "It turns out that those people's purpose is to go there!"

"It's understandable." Henry poured the wine again. "Those who are capable have different ideals from ordinary people. Compared with them, you and I are just little ants. Let's talk about you. For so many years, although you didn't deliberately make money, you are probably not that poor that you have to sell vegetables. You should not live there. This should not be your hobby."

Sackcloth Visitor laughed at himself. "Even if there is a normal house for living, I don't want to live there. But, hey, don't say, don't say, let's drink."

Sackcloth Visitor shook his head and raised his glass.

Henry saw that Sackcloth Visitor didn't want to say anything more, so he didn't ask in detail.

Just as the two of them clinked their glasses, they heard a voice coming from the side.

"Mom, look, it's the grandpa."

Henry noticed that the expression of Sackcloth Visitor had a great change at the moment he heard the voice.

Henry looked in the direction of the sound and saw the same middle-aged woman walking with a 15-or-16-year-old girl. It was the girl who had just spoken.

The woman's face was full of disgust when she saw Sackcloth Visitor. She turned around and walked away with the young girl.

When Sackcloth Visitor saw this, he subconsciously wanted to catch up with her.

"All right." Henry grabbed him. "With the attitude of the other party towards you now, it's useless for you to go after her. Tell me, what's going on? Don't hide it in your heart. Maybe I can help you. You know, I don't have many friends. I may not be able to come back this time. If I don't help you now, maybe I won't be able to help you ever again."

Sackcloth Visitor was stunned for a few seconds and then sat down again. He showed a bitter smile to Henry and then slowly said, "I had a daughter a long time ago."

"I didn't hear you mention it." Henry drank the wine in his cup.

After a few glasses, he continued, "I haven't seen her very often. To be exact, I haven't dated the woman who gave birth to my child. She and I just met several times. At that time, she was very poor and didn't have a place to live. She said that as long as I gave her money, she could do anything I wanted. I agreed. I gave her all the money, which was a huge sum of money at the beginning. I helped her find a place to live. My request was to have a baby."

Henry did not say anything but quietly listened to what Sackcloth Visitor said.

"I had no emotional foundation with her. After knowing that she was pregnant, I left. On the day when the child was born, I went to see her. It was a girl. I left her an address and she would occasionally update me on a child's life. I almost never saw her. Eight years ago, she passed away. On the day when she left, I didn't show up. However, she abided by the agreement and told our child about my existence."

Chapter 1375

When Henry heard this, he didn't make any statement. From a father's point of view, what Sackcloth Visitor did was wrong. He just had the child and didn't care anymore. To put it bluntly, he didn't deserve to be a father.

But Henry could also understand that Sackcloth Visitor's work at that time indeed made it impossible for him to fulfill the responsibility of a father. The enemies he faced were beyond the imagination of ordinary people. If someone knew that he had a family, then his family would probably live in great pain.

From the perspective of the public, since Sackcloth Visitor chose such a life, he should not have wanted a child.

However, if a man wanted a descendant, who could say that he was wrong?

Sackcloth Visitor continued to talk while Henry listened quietly for more than 20 minutes. After Sackcloth Visitor finished, Henry also understood the situation.

The woman in her forties was the granddaughter of Sackcloth Visitor, and the little girl led by the woman was his great-granddaughter.

When he had found Henry that day, Sackcloth Visitor removed his Qi. All that remained in his heart was his family, and he wanted to come back to see them. Originally, Sackcloth Visitor decided to just look at his family from a distance. He had lost all his strength and would turn into bones in few years.

However, when Sackcloth Visitor saw his granddaughter, he couldn't help but tell her his identity.

As for the other side, she obviously knew about his existence. She also knew how irresponsible he was. He had never seen her mother before, and he had just disappeared. Now he suddenly appeared, which made people not know what he wanted to do.

Worth noticing was that the house where the granddaughter of Sackcloth Visitor was living was actually a demolition of the old house, and the old house, traced back to the source, belonged to Sackcloth Visitor.

His granddaughter worried that Sackcloth Visitor came for the house. This kind of thinking was natural. Anyone who saw a man who had never appeared suddenly standing in front of him would doubt the purpose of the other party.

Sackcloth Visitor could understand what the other person was thinking. No matter what it was for, a person's life could not escape the vulgarity of money.

Sackcloth Visitor knew that he owed. He wanted to give all his property to his descendants, but he found that his property had already been mortgaged. He had lived in other houses. And his own deposit bank account was also told to be invalid.

Nowadays, Sackcloth Visitor was not the invincible Sackcloth Visitor. He was just an ordinary old man. He had found a relevant department, but no one paid attention to him.

It was a local bank that mortgaged Sackcloth Visitor's house, which was not under the official administration. When the house was found, it was taken by the other party. Otherwise, with so many years of accumulated experience, he would not be able to escape from the rich and powerful.

But now Sackcloth Visitor was not associated with the rich and the expensive.

When Henry heard all this, he couldn't help sighing. At that time, Sackcloth Visitor was famous all over the world. There were few opponents in this world. Those powerful people with high status would tremble when they heard the sound of his flute, but now, it was like this.

As for the situation of Sackcloth Visitor, Henry understood what the local bank was thinking about. People like Sackcloth Visitor, who had not appeared for a long time, were likely to be listed on the death list by the local government. The deposit money that no one claimed would disappear on its own. The property under their name would also be multiplied and divided in another way. This kind of house had no real estate certificate, but the price was cheap. There were still a lot of people rushing to buy it.

Henry said, "With your current status and state, it's hard for your descendants to accept you. You need my help."

"I..." Sackcloth Visitor was about to say something.

"Don't hurry to refuse me." Henry spoke in advance and interrupted him. "This is a very realistic society. If you blindly pursue your goal, it will take a lot of effort. Moreover, to be honest, you are not a responsible elder. You have no reason to ask them to forgive you. I have had no relatives since I was a child. I know this kind of feeling. You can't imagine how desperate they will feel when they are helpless. Since they can't forgive you, they can only slowly accept you. In this society, the fastest way to accept you is to use money. As long as you become rich, more possibilities will appear. They can't even compare with your existence. How can they forgive you? You are not a perfectionist, are you?"

Sackcloth Visitor shook his head. "Of course not."

"That's right. If you've done something wrong, you should compensate them. Although using material means is questionable, it's the best choice. I think their lives are not easy." Henry poured some wine. "If it's material stuff, it's easy to do. From today on, you're the richest man in this Onarith District. I'll take care of the rest."

"You...." A look of gratitude appeared in Sackcloth Visitor's eyes. It could be seen that his mentality had truly changed completely. In the past, no matter how much substance there was, it would not cause his heart to ripple.

Sackcloth Visitor, in his current state, was just an old man, so ordinary that he could not be any more ordinary.

"Come on, after eating these things, we will go to action. I will find a way to get your real estate back. I will help you with everything." Henry picked up his chopsticks.

Only now did Sackcloth Visitor have an appetite. After picking up the chopsticks, he began to eat in large mouthfuls.

Sackcloth Visitor's granddaughter's name was Terilyn Zhang, a very ordinary female name. Her daughter's name was Renier, and Terilyn's husband was a worker. He worked outside most of the time and rarely came home. Terilyn lived with her daughter alone.

It was the beginning of the new school year. Every day, Terilyn was worried about Renier's studies expense. Renier was in the third year of junior high school this year. For it, Terilyn went to many places and spent a lot of money, but it was not enough.

Renier was in a public school, but in the small county, school bullying happened a lot. The county was so small, and the learning atmosphere was not great. It was glory for many students to fight with others. They were extremely proud when they talked about their fighting experiences.

Almost every student would go through this phase, and Renier was currently in that phase.

Fighting was not only limited to the boys, but also to the girls. Renier was usually well-behaved and would not quarrel with others. Such a character made her become a punching bag in the class.

Before the end of the second semester of the second year of junior high school, the news that Renier was bullied spread to Terilyn. Terilyn immediately started the transferring procedure for Renier. But if someone wanted to enter other schools, she should have had connections and money, which was exactly what Terilyn didn't have.

Chapter 1376

Terilyn had asked all the people she could and had spent a lot of money on trying to transfer her daughter to a better school. However, she failed to solve the problem of Renier's schooling. The biggest reason was not that the policy did not support it. Terilyn also informed the media after knowing that Renier had been bullied in the original school, which made the leader of the school extremely embarrassed. In such a small county, those people also had some friendships with each other, which made it particularly difficult for Renier to get to another school.

Terilyn had tried all the schools, but there was nothing she could do. And the school year was about to start. Terilyn was anxious. Studying was the most important thing for children. With the appearance of the old man recently, Terilyn was particularly annoyed. It seemed that all the bad things were piled up together.

At this time, Terilyn received a phone call from a friend she asked someone to call. The friend had some power in the county.

"Terilyn, I found a way to get the kid to go to school. The school is good. It's called Great Oak High School. Have you heard of it?"

It was a man who called.

"Great Oak High School?"

Terilyn was stunned for a moment when she heard the name, and then replied, "Of course I know, but it's a private..." "Of course it's private, otherwise who can accept your daughter?"

The other side said matter-of-factly, "You've already visited all the schools. Have you completed the school entry procedure?"

"If you have, I'll just turn them down."

"No, no, no."

Terilyn replied in a hurry, "It's fine if it's private. It's fine if it's private. I'll pay for it."

"If that's the case, transfer three thousand to me. I'll arrange for you to meet the head of the school administration department."

The person on the other end of the line said and hung up the phone directly.

Three thousand yuan... Terilyn listened to the busy tone on the phone. For her, three thousand yuan were the living expenses of at least three months, and even four to five months if she used the money economically. Terilyn's family was very ordinary. Her salary for a month was only one thousand yuan. Her husband could only send the money back at the end of each year. Three thousand was not a small amount. Moreover, if she really wanted her daughter to go to a private school, the tuition was also a very scary number for Terilyn.

After thinking for a long time, Terilyn still transferred the money to the other side. After all, school was the most important for children.

Terilyn originally thought that the other side would arrange for her to meet the director of the school affairs. Unexpectedly, the other side only sent a location, saying that the other side would take part in a private party tomorrow night, and she could meet the director there.

Terilyn's first reaction was that she had been cheated. She called, but the other party answered. Terilyn asked her why they would meet in this way.

The other party replied with a question, "How do you want to meet?"

"To make a special appointment with the school administrator?"

"Did you think 3000 would be enough?"

"If you want to make an appointment, you can prepare ten thousand, and you can book a table in a nice restaurant. Others may give you this face. Telling you the time and place is enough from me. You want me to drop your daughter off at Great Oak High School only for three thousand?"

"What are you thinking about?"

The person on the other end of the phone said a lot and hung up the phone without hesitation.

Terilyn felt a little regretful in her heart, but there was nothing she could do. The money had been transferred, and it would be difficult for her to get it back. The only thing she could do now was to try her luck tomorrow night.

Terilyn went home with the child and selected some food to cook. She wanted to take the child out to eat today, but she was not in the mood because of seeing Sackcloth Visitor and what had happened just now.

After Sackcloth Visitor and Henry finished their meal, several top luxury cars had stopped in front of the food stall. There were Rolls-Royce, Bentley, Maybach, and all kinds of top-notch business cars.

In this small county, a Porsche would attract people's attention at ordinary times. At this time, so many top luxury cars suddenly appeared, which attracted a lot of people to watch and watch. Moreover, these cars did not have license plates and all of them were brand new. People couldn't help guessing which local tyrant had bought such a batch of treasures.

"What are..." Sackcloth Visitor looked at the luxury car in front of him.

"As the richest man, you have to have your own special car. They will get the license plates tomorrow morning."

Henry smiled, "By the way, I have arranged people to discuss the purchase of the biggest business buildings in Onarith District. You should also choose a decoration style for your company. Also, the personal clothing designer has been in place, and he will customize several clothes for you, including the background information of the company you are going to take over. I have arranged six top managers, and they will appear in front of you soon. As for the businesses in Onarith District, most of them are already in the process of acquisition. And Great Oak High School, which is very famous here, has been bought. Although you are a hands-off boss, you should know what you need to know."

Sackcloth Visitor opened his mouth wide. "So fast?"

"Since we have decided to do it, why should we wait?"

Henry shrugged his shoulders and said, "There's a private party tomorrow night in Onarith District. I've already arranged for you to attend. Let's go and settle our current affairs."

A driver in a suit and white gloves walked to the door of the Rolls-Royce and opened the door for Henry and Sackcloth Visitor.

Sackcloth Visitor looked at the luxury car in front of him and was stunned for a few seconds. Then he smiled and said, "Kid, you are interesting."

After Sackcloth Visitor finished, he walked into the car without any pressure. He was a man who had stood at the top of the world. These material things would not make too many waves in his heart. It was only because of the involvement of his family that Sackcloth Visitor had to be careful.

When Henry saw that Sackcloth Visitor had figured it out, he also smiled and got into the car. The luxury motorcade quickly disappeared at the end of the road.

In the eyes of ordinary people in Onarith District, today was just an ordinary day, but in the whole top of the business circle of Onarith District, including the officials, today, there was a shocking day. A mysterious consortium suddenly appeared in Onarith District and with extremely strong means, it occupied more than half of the commercial territory of Onarith District. Someone probed into the bottom of this mysterious consortium, and finally got the answer: unfathomable! No one knew why this mysterious consortium suddenly appeared. The only thing on everyone's mind now was to present themselves in the best light. When they heard that the other party would attend the private party tomorrow, all the leaders in Onarith District started preparing.

The night passed and the next day arrived. Almost all the bosses had put down what they were doing and were preparing for the private dinner.

Chapter 1377

The day seemed long to some, but to others, it passed quickly. For Sackcloth Visitor, the day was a cramped experience.

He did not care that he was wearing formal clothes to attend a certain occasion, nor did he care what kind of bosses he would meet, what he cared about was that he would have to face his descendants in this identity from today on.

"Henry, don't you think that my sleeves are a little long?"

"Is my clothes wrinkled on the back?"

"Do you think that I look good?"

The problems of Sackcloth Visitor came one after another.

Henry thought of the time when he saw Sackcloth Visitor that year. The man wore a bamboo hat and stood on the boat. His reticent appearance made a sharp contrast with the current situation.

Henry could not help but laugh. "Your clothes are made by designers to a millimeter. There is absolutely no problem. Your clothes are also made of the best material. They won't wrinkle easily."

Henry patted the shoulders of Sackcloth Visitor. Sure enough, everyone had a piece of him in their hearts.

Hearing Henry's comfort, Sackcloth Visitor breathed a sigh of relief, but soon, he became nervous again. "Do you think we should go over after the party? Will we disturb them?"

"Also, would they agree to see me?"

"All right, all right. Let me arrange it. All right?"

Henry clapped his hands and said, "All right, Sackcloth Visitor, hurry up and go to the party. From today on, you are the richest person here, and you should compensate for your descendants."

"Well... Don't tell them what I used to do, just say..." "Okay, okay, you've been doing business all the time. I remember."

Henry pushed Sackcloth Visitor out of the door and got into the Rolls-Royce parked at the door.

At seven o'clock in the evening, there was a private party in a private club in Onarith District, which was just a party for the small circle. But because of the mysterious consortium's appearance, this party was abruptly changed into an evening banquet.

When one arrived at the private club, one could see that the cars parked here were all luxurious cars worth more than one million yuan. In this district, cars worth more than one million yuan were rarely seen. But now, they were lining up here.

The middle parking space in front of the clubhouse had always been empty. Everyone knew that this parking space would be left to the protagonist of this evening party.

The people who came to the club in advance gathered to chat, but they were somewhat absent-minded. From time to time, they looked outside the club, waiting for someone's arrival.

When a Rolls-Royce with expensive license plates drove up, all the people came out of the club to greet it.

This club was built in a manor. Inside the manor, every tree was carefully cut by people. This proved how high-end this manor was so that ordinary people would find it difficult to enter the gate of the manor.

Terilyn stood outside the gate of the manor, looking at cars driving into the manor one after another. She stood there nervously. When she learned that the school affairs director of Great Oak High School would appear in a private club, she also prepared a speech for the other party. But now, she couldn't even enter the manor gate. After several times, the security guards at the entrance of the manor stared at her like staring at a thief.

Terilyn could only wait until it was dark, and then she would figure out a way.

Two hours later, at nine o'clock in the evening, the sky was completely dark. The dim light in the manor shone on the lawn, showing a strange sense of beauty.

Over these two hours, Terilyn found a wall to climb over. While the security guard was not paying attention, she climbed over the wall.

For a housewife in her forties, her age and life had already restricted the activity of her limbs. This wall, which was difficult for ordinary young people to climb, was even more difficult for her. Although she was covered with dust, she didn't care. Now her main purpose was to find the director of the school. Terilyn had already remembered the photo of the other person deeply in her mind.

Terilyn came to the front of the club. The resplendent door made Terilyn feel inferior. She knew that this place would never belong to people like her, but she did not ask for too much. She only hoped to live a simple life.

Terilyn plucked up her courage, opened the door of the club, and walked in.

As soon as they entered the club, she could see people in suits, leather shoes, and long dresses. Terilyn, dressed like a simple housewife, instantly became an alien in the club. Many people looked at Terilyn with confusion and doubt in their eyes, and also a lot of ridicule. It seemed that they were wondering what such a person was doing at today's party?

Terilyn could feel the strange looks around her, which made her extremely nervous. She even had the urge to turn around and run away. However, the child's ambition to go to school was still depending on her. She looked around and searched for the director of the school's administrative department.

Terilyn's eyes suddenly fell on a person, the school affairs director she was looking for. He was a man in his forties, in a suit and tie, with a glass of red wine in his hand. He was also looking at her, but he looked at her with more ridicule.

Terilyn took a deep breath and walked toward him.

The head of the school affairs saw Terilyn walking toward him, and there was a little astonishment in his eyes. He didn't remember this person. The friends around him were all high-ranking officials and dignitaries. Even the students and their parents, who had strong backgrounds, wouldn't come to him.

"Hello, Director Wei. My name is Terilyn Zhang."

Terilyn came to the director of the school affairs.

When he heard what she said, he raised his eyebrows and thought, "Did she really come to look for me?"

He frowned, looked at Terilyn, and said, "Who are you?"

"Director Wei, I think Kevin Lee should have told you before, my child..." Mr. Li was the one who took in Terilyn's three thousand yuan.

"Oh, I see."

When Director Wei heard this, he immediately understood. Old Li told him that there was someone who wanted to get her child in the school and hoped that he could see her. If she fit, he could accept her. If she didn't meet his requirements, then nothing would happen. Kevin also said that the person would come to see him today.

Director Wei originally thought that the person who would look for him on this occasion was more or less capable. But he didn't expect such a person to want her child to enter Great Oak High School.

"Are you kidding me?"

Director Wei said directly, "Our Great Oak High School has always been responsible for teaching and education. As long as one student has the will to progress in school, he can enter the university. However, all our teaching staff uses high-level equipment. Therefore, the parents of students need to pay part of the sponsorship fee, 40,000 yuan for a semester, and 8,000 yuan for tuition per semester. In order to enhance the friendship between classmates, outdoor activities are held every year, which is also necessary to participate in, twice a year, 30,000 yuan per time. If you can accept that, I will be responsible for your child's enrollment procedures."

Chapter 1378

The sky-high price made Terilyn stare blankly.

For a family like Terilyn's, she couldn't save much money every year. Not to mention that the sponsorship fee was already 40,000 yuan. This was only for one semester, which was not something she could afford.

In fact, not all students in Great Oak High School would pay such a high price. Director Wei said the highest standard to Terilyn. It was very simple. He didn't want to communicate too much with a person dressed like that on such an occasion. It was good to send her away as soon as possible. It was said that the president had been changed last night. Today when he showed up, he would have to leave a good impression in front of the president of the school.

Terilyn stood there in shock. She thought that the price of this kind of private school would be much higher than that of public school, but she didn't expect such a sky-high price. How could she pay for that?

"Hey, there are so many people every year trying to find a way to provide a good learning environment for their children without knowing their strength."

"Yes, I have met some people. Ah, forget it, never mind."

"Sometimes it's actually very simple. As long as you have the ability, you can do as much as you want. I find that the children now go to school, go to the tutoring classes, spend a lot of money, and become the capital to be shown off by some parents. That's why they want their kids to go to private schools so much."

"How to explain this kind of thing? I can't."

The whispers came to Terilyn's ears one after another.

Terilyn became extremely depressed. She lowered her head, turned around, and was about to leave. Just as she turned around, she saw a figure in front of her. Terilyn raised her head subconsciously and saw the face that made her extremely disgusted. However, he was not dressed in ragged clothes but in a decent suit, surrounded by countless people.

"Why didn't you tell me about the child? I can help you." Sackcloth Visitor said softly. Just now when talking to those rich entrepreneurs, Sackcloth Visitor's face did not change at all, but now, he spoke cautiously, afraid that he would make a mistake.

Terilyn had wanted to ignore the old man. After all, after what he had done, he was not worthy of being called an elder. However, when she saw Sackcloth Visitor in front of her and the people attached to him, she felt overwhelmed by the reality, so she answered the question.

"Do you think you can help?"

"Of course." Sackcloth Visitor nodded, "Great Oak High School, you can allow Renier to sign up for the start of this semester."

Sackcloth Visitor narrowed his eyes. Henry had sent people to investigate the background about Terilyn and Renier. Two hours ago, Henry received the news that Terilyn might come to Renier's school, so he asked Sackcloth Visitor to get ready to show up when Terilyn was completely out of hope. Although he was somewhat scheming, it would be better to break Terilyn's psychological defense in this way.

"Accept Renier to the school."

Hearing this, Terilyn's eyes widened.

"You don't have to doubt our President Shi's words. President Shi is the president of Great Oak High School." Henry, who was acting as a younger brother beside Sackcloth Visitor, said. He only learned what Sackcloth Visitor's surname was last night. This was the result after Sackcloth Visitor thought hard for a long time, because even Sackcloth Visitor himself almost forgot his own name. He had only used the surname Shi for more than 20 years, and the name of Sackcloth Visitor had been used for many years.

"He is the president of the Great Oak High School." Terilyn was even more stunned.

Although Director Wei didn't know the relationship between Sackcloth Visitor and Terilyn, he was naturally not stunned by Sackcloth Visitor's attitude. A moment ago, he couldn't wait to drive Terilyn away, but now he quickly said, "Ms. Zhang, since President Shi has spoken, I will immediately handle the enrollment procedures for your child, and I will arrange someone to go to your home to collect the information."

When Director Wei spoke, he had already used the most polite sentences.

"Director Wei, arrange someone to go to my place to get information." Sackcloth Visitor waved his hand. "From today on, my granddaughter will move to my place."

Granddaughter.

His words made everyone present stunned. The person who was looking at Terilyn with a disgusted look now looked at Terilyn with burning eyes. She turned out to be the granddaughter of the leader of the financial group.

Terilyn was already in her forties. Everyone naturally regarded her as the daughter of Sackcloth Visitor. As for Sackcloth Visitor's granddaughter, they assumed he was talking about Terilyn's child. They didn't think the old man standing in front of them was more than a hundred years old.

Sackcloth Visitor didn't know what others thought, nor did he care. Now his eyes were fixed on Terilyn. He was nervous, and he didn't know if Terilyn would accept his kindness.

Obviously, his consideration was redundant. Terilyn, who had been overwhelmed by life, had no extra choice, although she could not accept Sackcloth Visitor from the bottom of her heart. The reality told her that accepting Sackcloth Visitor was the best choice.

Terilyn nodded to Director Wei and said, "Director Wei, I'll have to trouble you."

This sentence represented Terilyn's agreement.

Henry had already expected such a result. It was human nature and easy to understand. As for what to do next, it was up to Sackcloth Visitor. Henry had already paved the way for him.

Director Wei quickly shook his head at Terilyn and said, "No trouble, no trouble at all."

"Well, everyone, Director Shi has something else to do today. If you have anything else, you can talk to Director Shi when he has time." Henry waved his hand to disperse the people in front of him and left with Sackcloth Visitor and Terilyn.

The Rolls-Royce parked at the door once again impacted Terilyn. In her heart, she didn't even know the basic price range of this car, because, in her cognition, these things had nothing to do with her. She didn't expect that she would be able to get in it one day, and the owner of this car was her grandfather.

When the car drove out of the manor gate, the security guard at the gate saluted respectfully, which once again hit Terilyn's heart. Two hours ago, these people drove her away as if she were a thief, but now they stood outside the car and saluted her. Terilyn could see clearly the envy in their eyes.

"Okay, let's stop." Henry said after the car drove out of the manor, and then opened the door to get off. He knew that he had to leave space for Sackcloth Visitor and Terilyn. With an outsider like himself, it was hard for them to talk.

After telling Sackcloth Visitor that he would appear again tomorrow, Henry left.

Henry booked a ticket for tomorrow's flight back to Yinzhou City. It was time to meet the people he should meet. Next, there was one last thing to solve, that was, Jenny's nightmare.

Chapter 1379

In the beginning, Henry did not know the meaning of Qi. Because of helping him, Jenny was involved in the matter of Li's Village and even put in a cage by the other party, like a wild animal.

Henry's memories of that scene were still fresh. That was Jenny's inner demon, as well as his inner demon. Henry wanted to tear that group of people from Li's Village apart. Their actions were tyrannical and not worthy of sympathy at all.

But the more he came into contact with the Li Clan, the more Henry understood how powerful they were, so that he could not attack Li's Village.

But now, he had to take action. Henry didn't know what had happened in this world, but from Ranulfo's arrogant attitude, he could tell that Martial Emperor and the others had been pinned down by some matters. Even if they weren't pinned down, with Silas as a backer, he was not afraid.

What's more, Henry had strong confidence after coming out of Loulan, that now, as a Spirit-controller, he might not necessarily be able to win, but he was able to fight!

It was time for the old feud to be over.

Henry returned to his residence, but he didn't get to sleep for the whole night. Li's Village had already appeared on his kill list.

"It's been a long time since I did anything big." Henry smiled slightly. "Before I leave, I'll make a big move."

There was a faint excitement in Henry's heart.

At dawn the next day, Henry found Sackcloth Visitor.

Sackcloth Visitor had already been arranged a big villa, which could be said to be the most luxurious house in Onarith District.

Looking at the happy face of him, Henry knew that in the relationship handling, Sackcloth Visitor had already reached the effect he wanted. Although the content was material, the first step had been successfully taken, hadn't it?

"You are going to leave now." Sackcloth Visitor saw Henry, and that was the first sentence he said.

"Mmm." Henry nodded and said, "There is no place to hide. I want to come back alive, and I'll come to see you again."

"You will." Sackcloth Visitor touched his clothes. He wanted to give Henry some things to protect himself, but he found that he couldn't take out anything now. And Henry didn't need him. His growth was much faster than he thought.

"Thank you. By the way, I bought your ancestral home for you. If you want to, you can move back, but it needs to be repaired." Henry threw a key to Sackcloth Visitor.

Confusion filled Sackcloth Visitor's face. "How did you do it?"

Henry shrugged his shoulders and said, "With money."

However, Sackcloth Visitor said, "I also offered money, but the other party didn't allow me to redeem it. How did you manage to do it?"

Sackcloth Visitor had an old house in Onarith District. In order to make a living, his daughter had to mortgage the old house. After all, at that time, it was difficult to live on one salary. Yesterday, Sackcloth Visitor went to the bank. When the bank knew that the owner of the old house was Sackcloth Visitor, they didn't know what to do. They said that unless he paid three times the current market price, they would never give in. Although Sackcloth Visitor was rich, he would not let a villain achieve his goal. Naturally, he didn't agree.

Henry stretched out a finger.

Sackcloth Visitor opened his mouth wide and said, "So much money for buying a house."

"No." Henry slightly shook his finger. "I bought the bank. The person who secretly mortgaged your house has been found out. You can deal with him. The information of the people who bullied your great-granddaughter is also on your desk. Anyway, you can deal with these things by yourself. If there is anything you need help with, just tell the people around you. This is the last thing I can help you with. Bye."

Sackcloth Visitor swallowed a mouthful of saliva. He had seen a lot of rich people. He didn't have much idea about money, but he had seen Henry buy the bank. He couldn't say much about such a person.

Henry laughed, patted the shoulder of Sackcloth Visitor, and then turned to leave.

Looking at the back of Henry, he murmured, "Boy, do you know that I am not worried about your safety at all. I am worried about the changes that will happen in that Core, because of your appearance. Staying in one place will only limit your development. Back then, you killed seven members of that family, only because you suspected that they had forced your mother. At that time, you knew that your mother's case was false, so you killed that doctor, cut him into four parts, and buried him in four different corners of Yinzhou City. At that time, how old were you? It was a pending case that had caused a sensation in Yinzhou. No one could have imagined that you were only a child about ten years old and had done so many things, but you showed nothing that was worthy of suspicion. Henry, although I don't believe in destiny, your life is really destined." 3

At this time, Henry had boarded the plane to go back to Yinzhou. He sat on the first-class seat and changed into slippers. He quietly lay there and closed his eyes to rest. A flight attendant thought that Henry had slept lightly. She would never think that in this handsome young man's mind, there was a village-slaughter plan.

"Boy, you are very ruthless. I always thought that your mood is guided by me, but now I can see that you don't need me to guide you at all. Your violent mood has reached a terrible level," Heretic God's voice sounded in Henry's ears.

Henry did not pay attention to the Heretic God.

At four o'clock in the afternoon, the plane landed at Yinzhou Airport.

Henry got off the plane and looked at the sky.

"There should be some clouds tonight." Henry murmured, with a smile on his face. "I like this kind of night. Let's do this."

Henry adjusted his mood and put away the impulse to kill in his heart. He went to buy a lot of toys and snacks and went straight to the welfare home.

With the help of the Lins Group, the welfare home was obviously different from before. In such an environment, the children lived happier. Jenny was not in the welfare home. The old Dean Cui looked at the children. Although she had abandoned the dean's work, she still liked to look at the children every day.

Seeing Henry's arrival, the children were very happy.

"Dad." Lisa shouted and threw herself into Henry's arms.

Henry looked at the girl's change. He hadn't seen the children for a long time. Although Lisa was adopted, he didn't fulfill his responsibilities. Fortunately, Jenny was with her. Now it was not bad. He didn't know how long it would take for him to come back. If Lisa really relied on him, it would not be a good thing.

In Yinzhou. At a park in the outskirts of a city.

Gardiner wore slippers and casually swayed in the park. One man met Gardiner.

"Let everyone get ready. Tonight, something big is going to happen."

Gardiner said slightly.

Chapter 1380

In the southern suburb park, many idle people who seemed to be taking a walk stopped in their tracks, listening to Gardiner's voice in their headphones.

"Boss, did that person come back?" One of them asked.

"Yes." Gardiner answered, "He has a conflict with Li's Village. According to my understanding of him, he will not let Li's Village go. Tonight, people are banned from going close to Li's Village. Everyone, be ready to clean up the mess."

Gardiner sat on a wooden chair as he spoke.

"Boss, I don't understand." A confused voice rang out. "Since we know that the person wants to attack Li's Village, why don't we stop him?"

"Stop him?" Gardiner smiled and lit a cigarette for himself. "Now, in the whole world, no one can stop him. You must always remember that he is the King of Hell. Although he looks harmless on the surface, it is clear that you have not stood against him. Otherwise, you will know how horrible this person is."

Gardiner's words caused a period of silence. Indeed, as Gardiner said, many of them thought of Henry simply, because they had never faced the King of Hell face to face.

"Boss, I have one more question."

"Say it."

"Why did we choose to stay in the park on the outskirts of the city?"

Gardiner took a drag of the cigarette, narrowed his eyes, and looked ahead. In his eyes, the wise light flashed. Gardiner opened his mouth and slowly said the words, "It's cheap!"

The crowd fell silent again.

At six o'clock in the afternoon, Henry appeared in front of the Hengyuan Group. Dean Cui told Henry that Jenny was in the company. Although Jenny had basically handed over Hengyuan to others to take care of, there were some things that needed to be decided by her.

When Henry stood downstairs, he found at least three young men waiting for her. When Jenny appeared, they immediately walked up to her.

An excellent woman would never be short of pursuers around her, let alone a woman like Jenny, who was beautiful, gentle, kind, and rich. Whether it was her own personality charm or money charm, it would attract a large group of people. Naturally, there would be people showing their love downstairs. These three young men were very confident. They were confident in their height, their appearance, and their personal charm.

Jenny, who was surrounded by three people, saw Henry standing outside the building immediately. Although Henry didn't dress up like the three people, nor did he deliberately show off himself, in Jenny's eyes, except Henry, there was no one else in the room.

A faint smile appeared on the corner of Jenny's mouth. This expression made the three young men feel that nothing else was important. Just as they thought that Jenny was smiling at them because of their appearance, Jenny ignored them and walked straight out.

She wore a white dress and a pair of simple canvas shoes. She came to Henry, who was quietly standing there, and looked at him.

Henry also smiled.

Jenny raised her head slightly. "When did you come?"

"Just arrived. It's time for dinner. What would you like to eat?" Henry asked, showing his white teeth.

Although they hadn't seen each other for a long time, they weren't unfamiliar with each other at all, as if everything was so natural.

Jenny tilted her head and thought for a moment. "Have some porridge?"

"Okay, it's up to you." Henry turned around and walked forward.

Jenny followed behind Henry. The two of them walked into the distance as if they were still young and inexperienced.

The three people stared at Jenny walking away with wide eyes. They couldn't understand why Jenny went with this kid? And they went back on foot? They had come driving a Benz!

Henry and Jenny chose a very ordinary restaurant to have dinner.

"Anything important today?" Henry picked up a tissue and wiped his mouth.

"No." Jenny was stunned. "What's wrong?"

"Come with me to a place." Henry picked up a piece of tissue again and helped Jenny wipe off the stains on the corner of her mouth. "Li's Village."

"Li's Village..." When Jenny heard these words, her eyes became lifeless. To her, that place was a nightmare that she could not get rid of. Even though so much time had already passed, she would still think back to that time. This caused her to unconsciously tremble all over, "There's nothing to go there for..."

Before Jenny could finish her words, Henry interrupted her, "Kill people."

Jenny dropped the chopsticks in her hands to the ground with a "Pa-pa" sound. She was stunned for a long time.

"Let's go." Henry stood up and took the initiative to grab Jenny's little hand that was on the table. Then, he pulled her out of the diner. The two did not take a taxi. They just walked slowly and quietly toward Li's Village. They did not say a word along the way.

Henry took Jenny's hand in order to make her feel at ease. He did not speak because he wanted to give Jenny enough private time.

In Yinzhou City, there were many people who didn't know of Li's Village's existence. However, those who knew about Li's Village all knew how domineering this village was.

First of all, they didn't allow outsiders to enter. Whoever wanted to enter the village would have to go through some checks. This was something not even the government could do, but in Li's Village, it was already normal.

Secondly, Li's Village was known to be a village full of bullies. In the surrounding villages, if any chickens or ducks ran to Li's Village, then they wouldn't even have to think about getting them back.

Thirdly, Li's Village's people were renowned for being darkish. Most of the people from Li's Village were all carrying loans that were overdue for a long time, but no one was willing to pay them back. When the debtors came to Li's Village, they were almost thrown into the Village without their underwear.

Countless people knew the bad deeds of Li's Village. Once, someone rented a taxi to Li's Village. In the end, the taxi driver pushed the empty car out. The car's petrol was taken away and the seats were removed. Even if it wasn't useful to the people in Li's Village, they wouldn't have left it for the taxi driver. No one would dare to take over Li's Village's business after that incident.

In the beginning, the people of Li's Village only moved inside their village, but in the end, it was not enough for them. They began to attack the surrounding merchants. They ate for free in countless restaurants and many restaurant owners had been killed by the people of Li's Village. Finally, other people could do nothing but move away, which led to the desolation around Li's Village.

However, Li's Village also had some scruples. They dared not to take action in places too far away and near the urban area. Last time, they smashed Rosy Night Club. As a result, Henry rushed into the village, but was finally stopped by others. ¹
