

Chapter 599

Upon hearing these words, Dempsey's irritation disappeared instantly. Instead, he showed a respectful attitude.

Although he looked very arrogant on the surface, he was very clear that compared with those big shots from the clan, he was nothing. If those big shots were angry, he could get thrown out of Zhao County with just a few words. If he could serve those big shots well, then his future life would be a hundred times better than it was now!

"All right, you go and get yourself ready. Don't make trouble here!" Dempsey's father waved his hand discontentedly. Then he looked at the young woman Dempsey brought back and frowned. "How many times have I told you? Don't bring everyone back home. Look at this thing. Get out of here!"

Dempsey's father's words embarrassed the young woman and she looked at Dempsey.

"Get out of here, what are you waiting?" Dempsey glared at the young woman impatiently and then walked into the house.

The young woman did not dare to say anything. She lowered her head and left the house.

Behind the house, a piece of white cloth was hung and a wooden coffin was lying in the backyard. The "Xi" character, which was cut out of a white paper, was attached to the top of the wooden coffin. When a breeze blew, the white cloth would make a sound.

A long Land Rover was driving from the airport to Zhao County.

Henry and Lam's family were sitting in the Land Rover. Lam's stepmother told Henry the basic information of the Zhao family.

"The other party has an arcade place in Zhao County called Ulysses Entertainment Center. The dead one was the youngest son of the boss of Ulysses Entertainment Center. He also has an elder son, Dempsey, who is very arrogant and spoiled."

When Henry heard the name of Ulysses Entertainment Center, he unconsciously smiled. "How small is this world? Sometimes, coincidences really happen!" He had just met the young master of Ulysses Entertainment Center in the morning, but he didn't expect that it was his family who did this.

Thinking of Dempsey's arrogant look, Henry could probably guess what kind of character his parents had. No wonder they were so aggressive that they made people control Lam's father's freedom. Even after their son died, Lam still had to get married. They had a habit of being overbearing!

In Zhao County, Dempsey and his father stood in front of their house, and the luxurious cars stopped here. Dempsey and his father would bow respectfully every time a person came out of the car and greeted them. There were too many elders, even Dempsey couldn't tell who they were.

The Zhao clan gathered here. They had been apart for many years. In order to continue the development of the clan, they had to have thin blood lineage. Until now, many people's blood relationship with the Zhao clan was very weak, and it dated back only two generations.

An old man in his seventies with white hair, dressed in a black suit, walked to Dempsey's father and asked, "Is that woman here?"

"They're already on their way," Dempsey's father replied respectfully.

"Okay." The old man nodded. "Remember, this matter has to be done properly. If the seniors are not satisfied, I can't help you!"

"Understood, dad."

The old man took a step forward. Just as he was about to walk into the house, he suddenly stopped and asked again, "By the way, did you find the man from the rumour?"

"He is also on the way. What should we do to with him?" Dempsey's father asked. This time, he was clear that it was the order of the clan for Henry to come. Dempsey's father did not know the reason.

"Don't engage with him first. Someone from the clan will deal with him." The old man said and strode into the house.

At two o'clock in the afternoon, the Land Rover slowly drove to the entrance of the house and stopped among a bunch of luxury cars.

When the door of Land Rover was opened, someone immediately came over. A strong man in a suit got out of the car, opened the door, and said rudely, "Get off!"

After that, the strong man stretched out his hand and pulled Marlon off the car.

"Don't pull him. What are you doing? Believe it or not, I'll sue you!" Lam's stepmother's voice came from the car. With Henry's support, she was very confident now.

Marlon turned his head and repeatedly winked at Lam's stepmother, hoping that she could restrain herself a little bit. No matter how powerful the person from Yinzhou was, they still had to be on good terms with the Zhao clan because they were in Zhao County.

Lam's stepmother strode out of the car as if she didn't see it. She was like a leader who came to visit.

Before the car stopped, Henry noticed that this house was also built and arranged by the Eight Diagrams. He had been paying attention to these things.

When he got out of the car, he thought that people from the Zhao clan would come up and say something harsh. After all, they said that they should come together. But when he got out of the car, Henry was surprised to find that people of the Zhao clan were actually a little polite to him.

"Hello, Mr. Zhang. This time, I invited you here mainly to ask you about something." A middle-aged man came to Henry and took the initiative to reach out his hand to Henry.

Seeing this scene, Lam's stepmother looked even more proud. "So what if they are from the Zhao clan? The Lins are not weaker than anyone else. They're worth ten billion yuan!"

Lam's stepmother wondered, apart from the few people in China, how many people's assets could exceed 10 billion.

After seeing this scene, Marlon had a glimmer of hope in his heart. Perhaps, this young man really had some kind of power.

Dempsey, who had been waiting at the door of the house, had already walked into the house to entertain the guests. He did not see Henry.

Dempsey's father came out and came to Henry and the other three with a smile. He smiled at Lam's stepmother and said, "Lady, lady don't be angry. You know, I am a businessman. We are all businessmen. We are used to fighting with each other in the business field. When we are negotiating with you, our tone is a little bit serious. You don't have to care about it. After all, my old man is not in a good mood. I hope you can understand."

Dempsey's father's attitude at the moment totally changed compared to the attitude he had when he talked to Lam's mother on the phone.

Lam's mother glanced at Henry, who was beside her, and naturally thought that it was because of Henry. It seemed that Henry was powerful even here.

Lam's mother waved her hand. "It's okay, it's okay."

"Haha." Dempsey's father laughed. "It's good that you don't take it seriously. Look, the two families will soon become one family. Although it's unfair to Lan, we promise that she can re-marry after one year. Our family will not stop her. We won't interfere in her private life after one year. And this matter will only be known by our family. It won't spread around. Don't worry."
