

Chapter 620

As soon as Barret spoke, many people turned their eyes to this side. Seeing Barret's reaction, some of Collier Security Company's employees, who had been doubtful about his words before, were shaken at this time. Since Barret could talk to President Jiang in this way, it proved that he would not stay in Collier Security Company any longer.

At this time, the voices of those who tried to recruit the people came out.

"Oh, isn't this President Jiang? Why is she treated like that by her employee? Is it that Collier Security Company has to get closed? If that's the case, why don't you people come to our company? The salary will definitely be better than here."

"Guineay Security is recruiting people, and the salary and benefits are better."

"Superstitious Security Company is recruiting. If you are interested, come and fill in a form. The salary is negotiable."

The sound of the security company's recruiting came at the same time, which was to embarrass Anna deliberately.

"President Jiang, times have changed. Do you think this Collier Security Company is the same as before?" Barret sneered, rolled up the window, and stepped on the gas and left the company.

Anna took a deep breath, shook her head, and drove away slowly.

That middle-aged captain, who was standing at the entrance of the company and looking at the scene in front of him, frowned.

After leaving the company, Anna arranged a place for Henry to live. Then they found a place to eat and talk about tomorrow's grading. Henry also roughly understood what would they look for in tomorrow's grading.

Generally speaking, a unified test would be carried out in a few companies with the highest star level. The judges would be selected from several security companies, and also some of the officials would be assigned to be the judges. The judges' evaluations would determine the grading situation of the security company.

"In the past competitions, there were parts such as investigation, protection, hostage rescue, and free combat. This kind of skills and scores could not be faked most of the time. After all, the results were put there. It could be seen at a glance who did a better job. Generally, the scores of the theoretical tests could be faked." Anna said to Henry, "But those tests are worth only three points."

Henry analyzed what Anna had just said, and then replied, "Okay, that practical part won't be difficult for me. But for the theoretical part, I haven't received any systematic training. If I have to answer any questions, I can only look at it from my own point of view."

"It is okay. Respond how you think you should." Anna said.

As for Henry, Anna was still confident. As long as the grading event was not too outrageous tomorrow, Henry should have no problem.

After chatting with Anna for about two hours, Henry left a contact number and went back to the hotel to rest.

For the whole night, Henry cleared the residue of Leo's Qi in his body again and finally returned to normal.

The next morning, Anna drove to the hotel where Henry stayed and waited. Before Anna came, she called Henry.

Henry soon appeared at the entrance of the hotel. As soon as he got in the car, he asked, "How's it going? Did they inform you?"

Anna nodded. "I got the news. This time, the grading will be between us, Guineay Security and Superstitious Security. The location is the shooting training ground."

The shooting ground in Zuo City covered an area of 5,000 square meters.

In general, this kind of shooting training ground was not available for ordinary people. The first thing to do was to pass a strict political review, then be recommended by someone and only then one could come here. You had to have a membership. And the price of each bullet was very expensive. Normally, the cost of one bullet was about ten yuan. Some people were slightly careless. They would fire continuously, and within three or four seconds, a bunch of bullets would be fired. Therefore, if you wanted to experience shooting, you must have a full wallet to support it. Most of the ordinary people did not have this amount of money.

The entire shooting training ground was a huge square building, which was divided into several areas. There were a hundred-meter-long shooting in situ, semi-automatic rifles shooting in situ, tactical moving shooting, etc. All in all, it was to satisfy most people's desire for shooting.

Anna told Henry that the grading for the last year was held in the shooting training ground. The shooting training ground had different shooting venues. Many of them were imitating all kinds of a tactical war environment. Some of the security grade actual combat tasks would be completed in the tactical environment.

When Anna drove to the shooting training ground, she found that a large number of luxury cars had been parked in front of the shooting training centre. The middle-aged captain that Henry had seen, was waiting in front of the training centre with more than a dozen people. When they saw Anna's car coming, they all surrounded her.

As Anna parked the car, she told Henry that these people in front of the car were all the best employees of Collier Security, and they would participate in the grading with Henry later.

Henry nodded and looked outside the car. There were 13 people, including the middle-aged captain. Except for the middle-aged captain who was a man, the rest were all women. For this point, Henry was not surprised. After all, Anna's security company was initially a female security company. He also curiously asked Anna yesterday. Previously, Anna's resume said that the security company she established was a female security company. Why were there suddenly so many men?

Anna told Henry that she had to recruit people urgently because of the appearance of the two companies, Guineay and Superstitious Security. She knew this middle-aged captain from the Special Forces Brigade. He was a member of another special team. His strength was not bad before, but now he was getting old and his body functions couldn't keep up with him. So his strength started to decline. But in general, his strength was above average in the security industry.

When the car stopped, Anna and Henry opened the doors and got out at the same time.

As soon as they opened the door, they heard the voice of the middle-aged captain. "President Jiang, the people from the two companies have already gone in. Yesterday, Barret stirred up everyone to resign. Some people have left with him, and some people are trying to shake our company. We can't let it go like this!"

The captain looked anxious. It could be seen that he had a pair of large eye bags. Obviously, he didn't rest well last night.

Anna patted the middle-aged team leader on the shoulder. "It's okay. Everything will be solved when the grading is over."

The middle-aged captain sighed, and now he could only wait until the grading was over. But if Anna was a judge, it would be too difficult to get good results this time.

The middle-aged team leader was very clear of the strength gap between him and Anna. In the past, when he was in the Special Forces, Anna's strength had already surpassed his by far. Now that so many years had passed, his own strength had clearly declined. He was clear that he can not do much to help.

Now Anna was going to be a judge. That was tantamount to having one of Collier Security's legs broken! The strength he could exert was less than half of the strength he could exert at his peak.
