

Chapter 867

One Reaper after another also rushed up from the pit. This kind of quicksand was not enough to stop them.

The quicksand was moving very fast. In just a few minutes, it filled up the whole hole. Those who had not yet climbed out would be completely buried in the yellow sand unless they had the strength of Henry. Even their corps could not be found. Maybe after many years, the mountains and rivers would change, and their corps would reappear.

Henry could clearly see that there were many bandits in the hole. However, looking at Yachim's appearance, he didn't care about his men who had been buried.

Even the bandits who rushed out of the pit did not look back. All of their eyes were focused on the copper tripod!

"Boss, we've made a fortune. Now we're rich!"

"This copper tripod has at least a thousand years of history!"

"Boss, this is enough for us to eat for many years!"

All bandits stared at the copper tripod in front of them, their faces filled with excitement.

Yachim was also grinning from ear to ear. He was not in the mood to care about Henry, who had just escaped. He touched the tripod gently with his hand and looked at it as if he was looking at his beloved woman. "This is enough for us to eat for the rest of our lives."

By the side, Delsean and Professor Gu's eyes were fixed on the tripod. Delsean's eyes were full of unwillingness. Obviously, the tripod was his goal this time.

"Come on." Yachim shouted, "Bring Mr. Attard into the car. Today, I have to have a good drink with Mr. Attard. Haha! Without Mr. Attard, our brothers wouldn't be as rich and prosperous as we are now! Listen carefully, please take good care of Mr. Attard and don't neglect him!"

"Hahaha! Boss, don't worry! Mr. Attard is our God of Wealth."

"Mr. Attard, let's go!"

A few bandits escorted Delsean and Professor Gu to the side.

Henry and other captives were also escorted back and walked in the direction of the motorcade.

It took them nearly two hours before they arrived at the motorcade.

At this moment, the sun had already set. If not for the fact that they were in Xin province, the sky would have long gone dark.

Alvin, who was unconscious, had not been pushed into the hole at that time, and now he recovered.

When Yachim brought them back, the bandits let out a thunderous shout once again.

"Come on, set the stove up!" Yachim waved his hand and said heroically.

The bandits all began to work happily, and very quickly, the scent of meat wafted through the desert.

Delsean and other security companies were all tied here. They could only smell the meat in the air, but they couldn't even drink a sip of soup.

Wilson, who had been eating meat in big gulps and ridiculing the rest of Collier Security over the last couple of days, couldn't stop screaming from hunger. He could only swallow his saliva.

The Sandsea Bandits were enjoying good food and good wine. When they had eaten and drunk enough, the sun had fallen down the mountains and the sky was dark.

The people from the security companies, who had been dragged by the car for a day, could not bear it for a long time. They lay their heads down. Some of them were strong-willed and could keep awake. Some of them had already fallen asleep.

At night, the siren of a car woke up those who were sleeping.

They saw the car's dazzling headlights coming. Yachim's voice rang out in the empty desert.

"Mr. Attard, thank you for your gift. I'm leaving now, hahaha!"

"Let's go!"

"Bye, bye!"

Voices rang out one after another. Those off-road vehicles carrying the supplies that were stolen from here from Delsean sped through this desert. They left in just a few minutes.

Delsean and others looked at each other. When they were sure that the bandits really left, they strode to the fire that had not yet been extinguished and used the sparks to burn off the hemp rope tied to their wrists.

They felt as if they had been reborn after regaining their freedom.

Wilson reached for his waist as soon as he released his hands. He grabbed a bottle and drank a lot of water. He didn't drink water for the whole day, which made him feel like his body was burning.

"Water! Who still has water?!" A man had lost his bottle along the way. At this moment, he was crazily looking for a water kettle.

But everyone present had been thirsty for a whole day. Who would share their own water? In this desert, water was their life!

"Please, give me some water!"

"Mr. Attard, there's no more water!"

Those security guards went to look for Delsean and asked for water. But now it was difficult for Delsean to protect himself. Where could he find water? He and Professor Gu had just been trampled on the ground, and their bottles had been lost.

Just then, there was the sound of horse hooves stepping on the yellow sand. The thirteen horses were running towards them. Behind these horses, there were some supplies. Those were water and food.

"Water, water! Quick, give me water!" One of the guards from Blessing Security couldn't care less when he saw someone pulling the water over.

People who had not lived in the desert could not understand the feeling of going crazy without water. It seemed that they were on the edge of death and were about to go crazy.

As soon as the guard rushed forward, they heard the sound of a gun. Then the guard fell straight to the ground and could not get up again.

"You can ask for water, but you have to buy it! One sip, 100,000 yuan!"

One of the 13 riders walked out, waved his hand, and held a water bottle in his hand. There was only a little water in the bottle. Usually, one would not take a look at it before throwing the bottle away, but now it was more attractive than gold and silver.

Delsean swallowed a mouthful of saliva, only to find that his throat was dry, and even his saliva couldn't be secreted out. He waved his hand and said, "I want to buy it. Give it to me!"

"Okay, give the money first!" The leading horseman waved his hand, and a man came out behind him with a suitcase in his hand. He opened it, and it turned out to be a satellite computer. In this desert, there was also a signal.

"Transfer the money, and then I will give you the water." The other party put the satellite computer on the ground. "The account is on the box. You can check how much you want to buy."

Delsean walked over with weak footsteps, skillfully input a string of account numbers and password, and transferred a million yuan.

"So generous. Give me a bottle of water!" Seeing Delsean's movement, the leader waved his hand and asked the people behind him to throw a whole bottle of water over.

Delsean unscrewed the bottle cap at once and gulped it down. When the water wetted his throat, he felt refreshed.

"Mr. Attard, buy me a bottle too." Professor Gu walked to Delsean with difficulty.

Delsean nodded and bought a bottle for Professor Gu.

"Mr. Attard, where is our water?"

"We came here with you. Now you don't want to give water to us anymore?"

"I can make it clear to you that if we can't get water today, you don't have to think about leaving this place!"

Several security guards came behind Delsean and stared at him fiercely.

Chapter 868

Countless eyes were staring at Delsean. They were all from security companies.

"Mr. Attard, it looks like you have to buy all of the water today!" The leader of the bandits laughed loudly. "We aren't unreasonable people. If you want to buy all today, I'll give you a package price of 200 million!"

200 million!

Even Delsean felt his heart skip a beat when he heard the number.

"Mr. Attard, what's wrong? Why don't you say anything?" The horse bandit looked at Delsean and said, "Now I've thought it over. The water bottles can't be bought separately. You either buy all for 200 million or you get nothing. Mr. Attard, I'll give you 10 seconds to think about it."

After saying that, the horse bandit directly took the shotgun from his waist, and directly pulled the trigger against a bucket behind his back.

With a "bang", at the same time as the gunshot, the bucket split in all directions. The water poured into the sand in an instant, which made the people of the security companies red-eyed. The water, for them now, was equivalent to their lives.

The horse bandit smashed a barrel of water. Seeing that Delsean didn't say anything, they aimed at another barrel of water again. "Mr. Attard, you still have five seconds. Think about it."

As the horse bandit spoke, he pulled the trigger again. A water bucket split open and water poured into the sandy ground. In a few seconds, it was gone.

"Well, Mr. Attard seems to have made a choice. Come on, brothers, let the water flow!" The horse bandit leader waved his hand, and all the people behind him took out their shotguns and aimed at several buckets respectively.

"Attard, I tell you, if I die of thirst today, I will take you down with me!"

"Just wait and see. Keep your 200 million yuan and use them in Hell!"

Security guards saw that Delsean didn't say anything, so they all threatened him.

The leader of the horse bandits sneered and said, "Come on, brothers, shoot!"

"Hold on!" Just as the horse bandits were about to pull the trigger,

Delsean suddenly said, "I'll buy! Not only all the water, but also all the supplies!"

"Haha! That's great!" The horse bandit leader laughed. "Mr. Attard is so generous. In that case, it's worth 300 million."

Delsean went forward and, as he did just now, transferred the money skillfully. 300 million was a huge amount of assets, and the string of money was dazzling just to look at.

However, at this moment, no one paid attention to the money that Delsean had transferred, but all of them were staring at the water behind the horse bandits.

"Well, 300 million has been transferred. Look into it yourself." After operating on the satellite computer for a while, Delsean said.

"I don't think it's necessary. I believe in Mr. Attard's character. In that case, Mr. Attard, enjoy these supplies. Hahaha!" The horse bandit leader laughed and turned his horse around.

Just when Delsean and the others thought that the horse bandits would leave, they saw the head of the horse bandits suddenly pull the trigger.

"Bang, bang, bang!" Several gunshots rang out in succession. The dozen water buckets pulled by the horse bandits were instantly smashed open, leaving only a small amount of dry food and horse bandits. As for the rest, they were all pulled away.

"Giddy up! Giddy up!"

After all these, the horse bandits left without a trace, leaving Delsean and the others behind.

Looking at the only bucket of water left by the horse bandits in front of them, Delsean and others were stunned for a few seconds. Almost at the same time, more than a dozen people rushed to the bucket. There was a switch at the bottom of the bucket. After turning on the switch, the clear water flowed down, and a group of people rushed to get the water. They opened their mouths, and there was clear water flowing out of the hole. They did this because there was a lot of water flowing, but there was not much that they could really drink.

Seeing such a scene, Henry shook his head.

What was a rabble? No matter how strong a person was, without unity, it was a rabble. Now, these security companies were a rabble. 2

On the other hand, the people brought by Henry had some cracks on their lips, but they were in no hurry to the water. This was the difference between the two teams. If there were smart people here, they could conclude that the people brought by Henry were all elites only by this matter.

But at the moment, no one would notice it.

A bucket of water contained not a small amount of water, but it was not much either. If everyone drank it nicely, they would be able to quench their thirst, and each of them would still have some water left. But now, they were fighting over it, and they had not drunk much. Only one or two strong men drank a little more. Although they drank too much, during the fight just now, their bodies had also lost a great amount of water. The water they had just drunk could only ease their thirst.

When the last drop of clear water in the bucket was finished, the competing crowd dispersed from the edge of the bucket.

Tonight, no one chose to stay here. Nowadays, there was a shortage of supplies, so if they stayed here for one more second, there would be a little more danger. After a little recuperation, everyone chose to continue walking overnight.

Originally, there were hundreds of people in their team when they entered the desert. However, because of the departure of the two security companies and the encounter with robbers in the desert today, there were less than a hundred people in the team now. Moreover, everyone looked different from the aggressive appearance when they came. Everyone's face was full of fatigue and fear.

Today, they had encountered the Sandsea Bandits and had lost quite a few people. Those who had survived all sighed with gratitude at their good fortune.

Henry observed that Delsean's eyes were full of unwillingness.

The whole team walked in the direction from where they had come earlier. There was no lead or division of labour. They formed a group of threes and fours.

On the way back, Alvin had been following Henry without saying a word, silently covering the water bottle and food bag that Henry gave him before the desert.

At the front of the line, Wilson Cao, the one in charge of Blessing Security, as well as the one in charge of Flourishing Security, and the one in charge of Vigour Security, were all walking with Delsean. Nobody knew what they were talking about.

Henry thought about it and knew that they were talking with Delsean about the follow-up commission payment.

No one knew what they were talking about, but Wilson's voice suddenly raised to eight degrees and resounded in the night sky.

"What?! Mr. Attard, if you want to die, don't drag us down! You have seen their strength. We are not comparable to them. We are just a security company, but who are they? They are a group of demons who kill people without blinking an eye!"

"Yes! You still want to grab the tripod? Money is important, but you have to be alive to spend it. We won't agree with you even if your commission is increased by 100 times, not to mention 10 times!"

"Vigour Security will not go!"

In front of them, the leaders of the three security companies spoke.

Henry, who was walking behind, listened to the words of the three leaders of the security companies. The corners of his mouth curled into a playful smile. "Delsean still wants to grab the tripod? Is it possible? Is there any secret in the tripod?"

Henry deliberately took two steps to see Delsean's expression clearly. He found that after the three security companies refused, there was no other expression on Delsean's face except regret and unwillingness. 11

 Watch Ads to Get 15 Vouchers