

Chapter 905

Inhaling Spiritual Qi would indeed make one feel relaxed, but it was precisely because of this that it proved that Spiritual Qi could affect one's body.

For the Qi-controlling Realm master, slowly absorbing Spiritual Qi could strengthen his body, but for the ordinary people who had not been trained, the powerful Spiritual Qi might affect their bodies. Although they would only absorb a little every day, no one knew what would happen in the years.

Henry looked at Silver Visitor's worried face. He knew that compared with worrying about the safety of the residents, the officials were most worried about whether the Spiritual Qi would affect the poultry livestock.

After all, it would take at least three to five years or at most a few decades to see the result if the human body absorbed Spiritual Qi. However, if the poultry had absorbed it, they would not have to wait for such a long time.

From the perspective of the biological chain, a human's body was born with disabilities.

Looking at any living creature in the world, fish were born to swim, and tigers and leopards were born with a hunting nature. And human beings could not survive on their own when they were born. This was the difference between human beings and other species in terms of their physical condition.

In terms of physical strength alone, according to proportions, any living creature must be a hundred times stronger than human beings. Therefore, human beings may not be able to withstand the energy brought by the Spiritual Qi, but the other living creatures could.

What would happen if the poultry absorbed a certain amount of Spiritual Qi? Would the tiger that was originally trapped in the iron cage break through the iron cage? Or would the power of an ordinary chicken or dog increase exponentially?

No matter how you looked at it, it was definitely not a good thing for Spiritual Qi to leak out.

Henry saw many people wearing isolation clothing. Qi wasn't something that everyone could possess. Even if they were members of Section Nine, that did not mean they could be able to deal with this amount of Qi.

A member of the Section Nine came to Silver Visitor with two sets of isolation uniforms. After greeting them, he handed the suit to Silver Visitor.

Silver Visitor nodded. After taking the isolation suit, he handed one to Henry and put one on himself.

Although both of them were Qi- concentrating realm experts, and they had subconsciously formed a layer of Qi-shield around their bodies, it was not wrong to have an extra layer of assurance.

Henry also did not refuse the isolation clothing offered by Silver Visitor. He had been around the world for so many years and was careful of everything. Henry understood it very thoroughly. No one knew what would happen in the undercity dungeon. To have an extra layer of protection was a responsible thing to do.

After he put on the isolation suit, his whole body was completely cut off from communication with the outside world, even the sound could not be transmitted in. Fortunately, there was a real-time walkie-talkie and oxygen transmission device set up in the isolation suit, so that people could still communicate normally.

"Martial Uncle, let's go down."

"Okay." Henry nodded.

The two of them arrived at the entrance of the undercity dungeon. The original hole had already been set up, and at the same time, a lighting device had been installed.

The corners of Henry's mouth rose slightly. These things were obviously not arranged just now. Obviously, Section Nine was determined to win this auction.

This time, Henry didn't need to jump down. He could just walk down the stairs following the lighting equipment.

From the ground to the place Henry jumped from last time, there was a total height of 23 metres. As soon as they entered the hole, they were covered by a fog, which was formed by Spiritual Qi.

"You don't think it's a Spiritual Stone mine, do you?" Henry guessed.

"No." Silver Visitor denied directly. "Martial Uncle, Spiritual Stone mine would cause a certain magnetic field effect. This definitely is not anything like Spiritual Stones mine."

Henry nodded and did not say anything. His understanding of Qi was definitely not as good as that of Section Nine. The exploration of the undercity dungeon this time, for Henry, was to satisfy his curiosity and see what was hidden there. Secondly, it was an opportunity to broaden his horizon and learn something new.

There were some lighting devices installed at the ceiling of the tunnel so that Henry and Silver Visitor could somehow see the road in front of them.

Fortunately, there were no other forks in the tunnel. The two of them walked quickly.

A few minutes later, Henry and Silver Visitor came to the end of the tunnel where a corner of the broken shield was exposed.

Here, Henry also saw five figures. Three of them were wearing isolation uniforms, and the other two were wearing ordinary casual clothes. In front of them, there was a thin layer of Qi-shield that isolated the fog-like Spiritual Qi.

It was a man and a woman in casual clothes. They looked to be in their twenties. The remaining three people in isolation clothes were all men. It could be found that the man and the woman in casual clothes had arrogant looks on their faces. Obviously, they were very confident in their own strength, thinking that the fog-like spiritual Qi outside had no effect on them. As for the other three men in isolation clothes, they lacked confidence.

When Silver Visitor came over, the five people stood straight at the same time. The arrogance on the face of the man and the woman in casual clothes was reduced a little. They said in unison, "Hello, Instructor!"

Silver Visitor nodded and did not introduce Henry to them. This was because the few members of the younger generation in front of him did not have the qualification to meet someone from Radiant Island. Under normal circumstances, even if they went to Radiant Island, they might not be able to enter the island.

"What's the situation now?" Silver Visitor asked. His voice was transmitted to everyone's ears through the inside of the walkie-talkie. The man and the woman in casual clothes were also wearing headsets.

"Instructor, the density of the Spiritual Qi here has increased by three more points, and the speed is still rising." A man in an isolation suit took out a tablet computer and clicked on it a few times. "No, the tablet has already been affected, and it's useless. I can't see the data in real-time."

After Silver Visitor heard this, he pondered for a few seconds, then took a few steps forward and said, "Tell the people on the surface to get ready, start to raise the shield."

"Got it!"

The faces of the five members of Section Nine all showed a look of respect.

Henry followed Silver Visitor and silently watched without saying a word. He was waiting to see what would happen when Silver Visitor raised his shield.

"Don't go forward, come back!" The woman in casual clothes snapped. "This isn't an ordinary gas, and the isolation suit may not necessarily be able to block it."

The man in casual clothes also said, "Stay here. Don't be excited. This is not your laboratory."

Obviously, the two of them regarded Henry as an accompanying scientific researcher.

Hearing the words of the two men, Silver Visitor bent down to hold the shield. When he was about to say something, he heard a voice from his private channel and Henry's private channel. "It doesn't matter. Go ahead."

Henry didn't take this man and woman's disdain seriously at all. He had seen many arrogant people.

Chapter 906

Silver Visitor was standing in front of all of them, looking at the broken shield that only had one corner exposed. He took a deep breath, reached out to grab the edge of the shield, and then lifted it up.

One could see that the broken shield was stuck in the ground. Even Silver Visitor could only pull out the shield bit by bit.

With Silver Visitor's movements, the rest of the shield slowly appeared in front of them. The shield was made of bronze and covered with a lot of rust. Under the rust, there were marks. Obviously, the shield had once collided with the sharp weapon.

Gradually, the entire shield was pulled out from the ground by Silver Visitor. The shield was shaped into a rhombus and was about 60 centimetres high. Apart from the missing horn on the top, there were two more parts below that were missing.

Before Silver Visitor and others could carefully study the shield, the whole underground tunnel seemed to be triggered by some mechanism, and suddenly began to tremble violently.

Everyone could clearly sense that the ground beneath their feet was trembling, and it started sinking into the pit.

The man standing in front of Henry glanced at his feet subconsciously. As a result, as soon as he lowered his head, the ground under his feet disappeared and his whole body fell down.

So did Henry and the others. Almost at the same time, the ground under their feet all cracked.

After a short fall, they all fell to the ground. However, the ground was not flat. It was a downward slope, which made the people who fell on it continue to slide down uncontrollably.

Henry and Silver Visitor adjusted their bodies immediately. As long as they were willing, they could stop their fall at any time. However, neither of them did that. After all, their purpose this time was to see what was in this undercity dungeon.

They fell down in a hurry, and the lighting equipment on their suits was not fully turned on. Because they kept rolling, the light source couldn't provide good lighting for everyone. It was dark at the bottom of the tunnel. Even Silver Visitor and Henry couldn't see the scene in front of them clearly in this situation of high-speed movement.

This gliding continued for nearly a minute before it finally came to a stop. Other than Henry and Silver Visitor, the remaining five members of Section Nine all fell to the ground. It was fortunate that three of them had isolation clothing to protect them. The quality of this isolation clothing was not bad. As for the man and woman in casual clothes, they looked much more miserable.

Henry was calculating the distance in his head. They had slid down at least 200 metres.

200 metres underground did not sound so scary. But this was already a restricted area that 99% of the people in the world had never come into contact with.

When he completely stopped, Henry began to look around. His eyes gradually adapted to the darkness and he could see some blurred scenes.

Henry looked around and found that the bottom of the pit was particularly vast, just like the top floor of the City of Hell. He could not see the end of it.

"This... this is too big!"

Henry heard a voice that sounded a little shocked from the headset.

"What's this place?"

Two lights suddenly lit up. The two flashlights were turned on, and the lights brought by the flashlights allowed everyone to see the surroundings clearly. This time, not only the five young members of Section Nine, but also Henry and Silver Visitor could not help but open their mouths wide, looking as if they had seen a ghost.

Around them was a vast flat ground. Beyond the vast flat ground were layer after layer of black stone roofs.

"Now, we seem to be standing on an altar." A man in an isolation suit swallowed his saliva.

"We are standing on the altar." Silver Visitor spoke, and it could be said that he agreed to the man's sentence.

At this moment, the place where everyone was standing was the altar that was used to worship heaven in ancient times. The altar was very large, like a whole football field. 17 metres in front of Henry, there was a staircase that was less so narrow that two people could not walk side by side. Below it, there were hundreds of stairs. Except for these stairs, there was no other way to go down.

Henry walked to the edge of the altar. Looking down, he found that he was at least dozens of metres above the ground. Around the altar, there were dense black buildings.

The reason these buildings were black was not that they could not see the sun all year round, but because they were made of bricks. They were made of black hard bricks and each of them was built in the shape of a tower.

This revelation under the undercity dungeon made Henry and others realize that this was actually a whole underground city!

Henry turned his head and glanced around. He found that the faces of the members of Section Nine, including Silver Visitor, were full of shock. Even Henry himself was also shocked.

Underground city! In a place that was several hundred metres underground, there was actually an underground city! If this news were to spread, who knew how many people would go crazy over it!

"Why is there an underground city here?"

"With the changes over time and earth movement, is the city that used to be above the ground, suddenly got buried here?"

"Which dynasty is this city from? Even if you look at Chinese history of five thousand years, there hasn't been a single dynasty that has flourished this type of tower-like structure!"

Each member of Section Nine spoke one sentence after another. They seemed to be talking to themselves as they made these guesses.

"Martial Uncle, do you have any impression of this?" Silver Visitor asked Henry through the private channel.

"No." Henry shook his head. "In my life, I have never heard of such a city. In ancient China, building such an altar was definitely not the characteristic of small towns. At least this city belongs to the first-class national capital."

"How about the capital of the North-West? The ancient country?" Silver Visitor made a guess.

"No." Henry denied Silver Visitor's speculation. "The architectural style of North-West is different. It's useless to guess. Let's go down and have a look."

"Okay." Silver Visitor nodded.

Several people came to the edge of the altar. Looking at the hundreds of stairs that almost went down vertically, the three members of Section Nine in isolation uniforms all felt their legs go weak.

This flight of stairs was extremely steep. There were no handrails on either side of the stairs, and if one wasn't careful enough, one might fall straight down.

Two members took the lead and walked down the stairs. The remaining three members walked in the middle, while Henry and Silver Visitor walked in the end.

"Instructor, the test results have come out. The density of Spiritual Qi here has dropped to the lowest value, and there is air circulation. There is another way out of here except for the entrance we came in." The man holding a tablet said.

Upon hearing this, Silver Visitor took off his helmet. As expected, his breathing was not affected at all.

Chapter 907

On the narrow and steep stairs, everyone walked slowly.

Silver Visitor placed the broken shield behind his back.

A few minutes later, the crowd walked down from the altar and stood on the ground.

Below the altar, there was a huge square. There was no building on the square. The ground was flat and it was paved. It was not the common road. It was made of black bricks.

When they stood on the square and looked around, they all felt a sense of shock.

Just now, on the altar, they could not directly see the spire-like buildings in the city. When they looked down, they noticed that these spire-like buildings were arranged very neatly and of the same height. Each building was divided into several layers, and each layer's height was the same.

These buildings were lined on both sides of the road. If they wanted to pass through, they could only pass next to them. As for what was in the distance, they could not see it.

"Instructor, now we..."

"Let's go inside and take a look." Silver Visitor's gaze was focused on the nearest spire-like building.

The members of Section Nine nodded and walked towards the spire-like building in front of them.

Henry did not separate from them, but followed them and watched all this.

"Try to get in touch with the people on the surface." Silver Visitor said.

"I have tried, but the signal has always been affected. The Spiritual Qi above is too thick, and it can seriously affect the communication of equipment. It is difficult to communicate at the moment," the person with the tablet replied.

Silver Visitor nodded. "Continue trying and tell them to send as many people as possible. This place is too big."

"I understand."

They walked to the front of a spire-shaped building. Each building was 18 metres high and had a total of six floors. The bottom was diamond-shaped, and there was only one door.

"Why do I feel that there is something wrong with this gloomy building?" When the lady in casual clothes walked to the door, she felt a little scared and couldn't help but say.

As soon as the woman opened her mouth, a few sentences were heard immediately.

"Yeah, I feel the same way too."

"There's something weird about it, but I can't tell exactly what it is."

When the people from Section Nine looked at the tower, their eyes were full of awe.

Silver Visitor stood in front of the entrance to the tower and raised his head to look at the tower, revealing a thoughtful look.

Henry, who had been silent all the time, suddenly said, "This is not a place where people used to live."

Now everyone took off their helmets. Henry's voice didn't need any communication equipment to be transmitted to everyone's ears. As soon as his voice came out, several people from Section Nine couldn't help shuddering.

"What... what do you mean?" The woman in casual clothes took a deep breath and said, but her voice was still trembling.

Now, they were in a place hundreds of metres underground, surrounded by darkness. The underground city that suddenly appeared with all kinds of strange shapes and buildings could magnify people's imagination, which was easy to make people's imagination run wild. Now that Henry suddenly came out with such a sentence, it was indeed a bit scary.

"Look." Henry stretched out his hand and pointed at the tower. "Every tower here is of the same height, and there is only one entrance. As far as I know, in ancient times, no town was built according to such a plan. Most importantly, there are no windows on these towers."

Henry's last words suddenly awakened several people.

"Yes! There are no windows. No wonder I feel so awkward about these towers. It's because there's no window!" A member of Section Nine said.

The spire-shaped building without a window was like a giant awl. It looked extraordinarily weird.

"If this isn't a place where people used to live, what could it be?" The man in casual clothes asked, "Could it be that these are all just empty towers?"

"Let's go in first and then we'll know." Silver Visitor stepped forward, at the same time, he was controlling his Qi.

With Silver Visitor leading the way, the other members of Section Nine also put away the fear in their hearts and followed behind Silver Visitor.

Walking into the building, they saw an empty hall in front of them.

There was nothing inside.

Moreover, although from the outside, the building was divided into six floors, but when they came inside, they could see that this building was not divided into many layers, and they could see the top of the tower when they looked up. The interior of the tower was empty, and the surrounding walls were sturdy without ventilation.

Such a big tower only had a small entrance and exit, which made people feel depressed and uncomfortable when standing in it.

"There seems to be something on the top!" A member of Section Nine lit a flashlight to the top of the tower and saw something on the top.

Silver Visitor controlled his Qi under his feet and jumped up all of a sudden. With one jump, he had already reached the top of the tower.

Then, Silver Visitor waved his hand on the top of the head and then landed on the ground.

After Silver Visitor landed on the ground, a stone tray appeared in his hand. This stone tray was the size of a bowl or plate that people normally ate from. On the stone tray, there was a round stone bead.

"This stone bead... why does it look so familiar?" The man that held tablet came forward and carefully looked at the stone tray in Silver Visitor's hand. Suddenly, he exclaimed, "This is Spiritual Stone!"

"Spiritual Stone?"

Silver Visitor, Henry, and the others all looked puzzled.

The Spiritual Stone was in a shape of a clear Fire Crystal. How could it be an ordinary stone?

"It's a Spiritual Stone." The person holding the tablet took the stone bead on the stone tray in his hand and observed it carefully. "This is how a Spiritual Stone looks after it exhausts its spiritual energy. I have seen it in the laboratory once. When the spiritual energy of the Spiritual Stone is exhausted, the surface will be similar to an ordinary stone, but the inside will be hollowed out. As long as you exert a little bit of force, it will turn into powder."

The person holding the tablet said as he lightly pinched it with his fingers. Then, the stone bead in his hand, under his gentle pinch, instantly turned into powder and fell to the ground.

"This... "

The crowd looked at the dust on the ground and didn't know what to say.

"Go to the other towers!" Silver Visitor waved his hand and ordered.

The five members from Section Nine didn't hesitate. They immediately left and walked toward the surrounding towers.

Soon, they came out of the towers with stone trays in their hands. Stone beads were placed on top of the stone tray.

"Instructor, there's a Spiritual Stone on each of the towers, but they're all used up."

"It's been too long. The stones haven't been sealed up. It is normal that all the energy in them was consumed."

"No wonder the Spiritual Qi at the entrance of the undercity dungeon is so dense. It turns out that the Spiritual Qi below is piled up. There are hundreds of towers here. If there is a Spiritual Stone in each tower, there will definitely be a huge amount of Spiritual Qi!"
