

Chapter 931

Rainer's face twisted due to the unbearable pain caused by Henry.

"I told you to bark, didn't you hear me?" Henry said softly.

Sylvia, who was standing by the side, could not help but worry when she saw the expression on Henry's face.

She was not worried that Henry would suffer from Rainer's revenge, but rather, this was the first time Sylvia had witnessed Henry in such a state for as long as they had known each other.

In the past, Henry would kill his enemies violently and quickly, but this time, he kept torturing Rainer on.

Under Henry's torture, Rainer, as a young master from a wealthy family, could not take it anymore. He could not care less about his dignity or anything else.

"Woof! woof!"

Rainer let out two barks, his expression full of pain.

"Hah, if you had been this obedient earlier, don't you think you'd suffer less?" Henry lifted his foot off Rainer's hand.

Just as Rainer thought his nightmare had ended and heaved a sigh of relief, Henry's foot slammed right into Rainer's abdomen, sending him flying a few meters away.

Rainer lay limp on the ground, the impact on his abdomen made him feel as though his stomach was about to split open. The pain was so intense that he could not even make a sound. Sweat broke out across his forehead and his consciousness faded away.

After he did that, Henry's smile resurfaced. He waved to Mr. Frazer and the other owners and said, "Take those compensation fees to Secretary Lee, she'll take you through the procedures."

Mr. Frazer and his friends looked at the scene to took place in front of them and broke out in a cold sweat. When they heard Henry's words, they nodded vigorously like chickens pecking on rice. They obediently headed to see Secretary Lee to complete the procedure.

Henry took two steps forward, grabbed Sylvia by the hand and said, "Dear, let's go home."

Sylvia opened her mouth to say something, but she held back.

Henry led Sylvia towards to exit. When they passed by Rainer's secretary, a cold glint flashed across Henry's eyes, and he said, "A dog has to act like a dog, I think your master wouldn't want to see his dog barking at someone who even holds him in awe."

Upon hearing this, Rainer's secretary's body shook violently, his eyes showed signs of retreat.

Henry did not say anything more and left with Sylvia.

After they had left the company and were seated in the car, Sylvia could no longer hold her thoughts back, "Honey, why did you react so aggressively today?"

"Jealousy." Henry started the car.

Sylvia covered her mouth and laughed, "Stop it. You really scared me just now."

Henry turned his head to look at Sylvia. He stared into Sylvia's eyes and said softly, "Honey, I've never been a kind-hearted person."

Henry's words made Sylvia fall into a trance instantly, also making her heart skip a beat.

Yes, he was never a kind-hearted person. If he was really that kind, how would he be regarded as a king and taken charge of Radiant Island? If he was really kind, how would he have survived the oppression from his clan? His gentleness was only saved for himself. Deep in his heart, he had always been restraining himself, but this restraints impacted him greatly.

Sylvia now was no longer the innocent little girl who knew nothing. She now knew of the cruelty of the underground world and the rules of the clan. At the same time, she knew that with Henry's current status and position, there would be many people watching him from the darkness. All his actions and everything he had handled represented his attitude. And this attitude of his had the power to affect an unimaginable number of things.

Sylvia said no more. She stretched out her soft hand and held Henry's big hand. "Honey, thank you."

"What's there to thank me for?" Henry smiled slightly. "Darling, I'm telling you this just to let you know that I haven't changed, and I won't change."

Sylvia nodded. She closed her mouth lightly and looked ahead.

Henry started the car, and the Benz GT sped ahead like a cheetah.

Henry drove to the market. As Henry discussed with Sylvia about their plans for dinner, Sylvia received a phone call.

"I see. I'm on my way."

Sylvia hung up the phone.

"Darling, let's go straight to the airport. Things are not looking so good fo the man who had helped Grandpa greatly. Grandpa plans to make his way to the capital now."

"All right."

Henry nodded and turned directly to the airport.

At Yinzhou Airport, the Lins occupied a lot of its shares. There was a special passage for the Lins. Henry and Sylvia did not need to line up at all and went straight to the boarding gate upon arriving at the airport. This boarding gate also led a private plane that belonged to the Lins.

When Henry boarded the plane, he saw that Robert, Nelson, Channing, Leopard Kurata, Sylvia's eldest aunt and second aunt, as well as Dasiy and her mother, had all arrived.

The moment they saw Henry, everyone except for Sylvia's eldest aunt, nodded at him.

The rest of the Lins received news of the land that Henry had sold off for a sky-high price, but all they knew was that it was sold to the officials. They had no idea of the relationship Henry had with the Silver Visitor. Sylvia did not tell her family much about the Underground society.

Sylvia's aunt sat alone in a corner, murmuring inaudibly without raising her head. Ever since Richard had been sent to prison, her mind had always been in a very abnormal state. 1

"Okay, he has arrived. Inform the pilot, let's go." Robert was sitting in a large seat, his face filled with anxiety.

With a sense of weightlessness, the plane propelled rapidly to the sky.

It would take a total of three hours to travel from Yinzhou to the capital.

When the Lins' plane touched down at the capital airport, it was already ten o'clock in the evening.

At the exit of the airport, an MPV had already been waiting there. The Lins got on and headed directly downtown.

As the capital of Yan Xia, its importance was self-evident. The pedestrian flow there was huge, and the traffic was also terrible. Driving in the capital was definitely a pain.

Just like Yinzhou, the development of the capital was mostly focused at the northern part of it. The southern part of it was slightly behind and the traffic flow was relatively lighter.

This time, Robert was headed to the capital.

Henry sat by the window and looked at the passing scenery. He murmured, "We haven't visited the capital for such a long time. I wonder how those people will react when they find out that we've come so suddenly. Well, guess I'll just take this opportunity to clear up of some grudges of the past."

In the distant Sosasmo desert.

The originally vast lands of yellowish sand had transformed into a modern city in a surprisingly short period of time. If the people who had come here a few months ago returned here, they would definitely be shocked.

at the very centre of the city, there was an island, flowers bloomed all over it.

An ancient castle stood tall at the centre of the island.

Old Peze, picked up the old hand-crank phone of the castle. Upon hearing the voice that came through the phone, a puzzled look formed across Peze's face. "They've entered the capital?"

Chapter 932

Henry is here in the capital!

The news spread throughout the island at once.

The Yan Xia capital had always been a very special place, no matter in the underground world or anywhere else.

There were many unspoken rules in the underground world. One of which was that the King of the region could not enter the capital simply as he liked.

Once the king had entered the capital, he would definitely attract the attention of the people from all directions.

"Let's go. Considering our Boss' character, he'd definitely want to put an end to that incident."

"Let's all go too. We all had a part in that incident."

"Although it's already been a few years, this revenge still has to be served."

"How do you plan to take your revenge?"

Moon Goddess tied up her long hair behind her head and smiled lightly. "Do it with a knife."

"I'm getting old, but I'll play with you young ones one more time." The old housekeeper Peze put down the floral wine that was in his grasp.

Everyone knew that the King of Hell was powerful beyond imagination. He had made a name for himself at a young age and stood at the very top.

However, very few knew what the King of Hell had gone through on the path of fame.

No one would become strong for no reason, and no one would live a smooth-sailing life. The price one had to pay to acquire power was something that could not be seen by others. The more powerful one was, the more it would cost.

Three years ago, when the City of Hell was first built, everyone entered the capital. At that time, they were not as strong as they were now. Back then, Henry, Wade, Cesia, Sea God, and Alex were all members of the underground killer organization.

When they had entered the capital last year, it was also winter. Sea God's whereabouts were exposed. After they entered the capital, Henry and the others were pursued.

That year, the reputation of the City of Hell had not yet been known. Henry and the others who had been under hot pursuit were seriously injured and were trapped in a dead end. The pursuers bore the intention to humiliate them, which lead to them leaving a doggie door for Henry and the others to crawl out of, then capture them all in one single stroke.

At that time, Henry and the others only had one code name. They fought their way through it after crawling through the doggie door.

After that incident, Henry never entered the capital again. However, the person who had betrayed Sea God had made a name for himself in the capital.

The underground world had an unwritten rule that the King could not enter the capital.

If Henry never entered the capital, he would never get his revenge.

Now, after three years, Henry had entered the capital again. This time, they have come with a thirst for vengeance!

Under the veil of night, the capital was shining brightly with lights. Under these lights, a bloody fight was already brewing.

The car that Robert and the others were in drove all the way to the southern suburbs of the capital.

In the olden days, the southern suburbs of the capital were still considered a bustling area that belonged to the royal family. However, now, the development of the southern suburbs was relatively slower compared to the other places. Real estate was also relatively cheaper.

There was a villa located in the southern suburbs, high walls surrounded it. The area of the villa was at least 1,500 square meters.

Although the housing price in the southern suburbs was cheaper than other places, it was extremely rare for the ordinary to have such a big yard in the capital.

The car stopped right in front of the yard. It was already dark, and the gate of the yard was wide open.

A woman in her thirties stood at the gates of the yard.

Robert and the others got out of the car.

"Are you guys from Yinzhou?" The woman checked Robert and the others out.

"Yes, I am. I'm here to visit Master Qin," Robert replied politely.

"Come with me." The woman glanced at Robert and then said, "The rest of you wait at the door."

Saying that, the woman turned around and walked into the yard.

Robert glanced at Sylvia and the others and said, "You all wait here for a while. Don't overthink it. Master Qin's sect rules are very strict."

"Grandpa, we know. Just go in quickly." Sylvia said.

Robert nodded. He tidied up his suit and walked into the yard.

When the people outside the yard saw that Sylvia did not move, they all stood outside the car.

Unknowingly, Sylvia had already become the one in the Lin Family with the most weight in words other than Master Lin. Even Master Lin had asked for Sylvia's opinion a moment ago.

In the villa, Robert followed behind the middle-aged woman, passing through the parking lot where several luxury cars were parked, and came to a luxuriously renovated villa. There were two villas in the yard, one was renovated to show an European design and the other a modern Chinese design.

In front of this modern Chinese villa, most of the cars parked there were some business-style luxury cars, such as the Benz S600. In front of the European villa, several supercars were parked.

One could tell who lived in the villas by observing the cars that were parked in front of them.

The older members of the Qin Family lived in the modern Chinese villa.

The moment Robert entered the villa, he was hit by a pungent smell of medicine, which particularly disgusted him. Before Henry had appeared before him, he had been struggling in piles of medicine every day.

After passing through the hall, they came to a revolving staircase that led straight to the second floor.

"Be careful, don't break anything," the middle-aged woman said sternly.

Robert remained calm and nodded his head.

When he reached the second floor, the smell of the medicine was even stronger, which made Robert frown harder. "How will Master Qin recover with such a strong smell of medicine enveloping him?"

"Is the old man from Yinzhou here?"

A voice came from the second floor.

Robert looked up to see a middle-aged man in his forties striding towards him.

"Hello, Master Lin. My name is Colton. I'm the 6th son of the Qin Family. You can just call me Colton. My father specifically told me that you'll be coming over today. Unfortunately, since my family is busy, I'm left here with a servant to entertain you. Please forgive us." Colton said in a loud and clear voice, full of energy.

Robert simply waved his hand and said, "I'm indebted to Master Qin. I don't care for these formalities. How is Master Qin feeling now?"

A troubled expression showed on Colton's face. He shook his head and said: "Father is terribly ill. The doctor said he probably won't survive this year."

Upon hearing this, Robert's face darkened and his body tensed up subconsciously.

"Master Qin, he..."

"Sigh." Colton sighed. "Master Lin, why don't you come with me to see him?"

Colton led Robert into a room inside.

The middle-aged woman who had led Robert over earlier glared at him with disdain from behind him before walking down the stairs.

Colton stopped in front of a room on the 2nd floor. The room's door in front of him was shut tightly.

The smell of medicine that drifted all over the villa came from this room.

"Master Lin, my father is inside. His situation ... you can go in and take a look for yourself." Colton said as he hands Robert a mask.

Robert nodded, took the mask and put it on. Then he pushed the door open and walked in.

The moment Robert entered the room, the sorrow that had been on Colton's face disappeared completely. Instead, an expression of disdain appeared on his face. He picked up a bottle of disinfectant and sprayed it all over the room, then walked away with large strides.

This room Robert had entered was very large. It was obvious that the design of this room was very luxurious, but now it was filled with white. Everything in it seemed lifeless. The strong smell of disinfectant drifted in the air, making him very uncomfortable.
