

Mission To Remarry Chapter 1017

In the meantime, Estella was getting hungry from waiting, so she let herself out the door. As soon as she arrived downstairs, she heard Aubree express her intention to spend the night.

Alarm bells sounded in Estella's head. She waddled over to her father's side. Daddy and Ms. Jarvis had not reconciled, and she would be even angrier if she finds out that Ms. Pearson is going to spend the night here!

Even worse, Estella feared her father would have Aubree become her mother. The child gazed at her father with wide, unblinking eyes and conveyed her thoughts without uttering a word.

Lucian met Estella's eyes and caressed her head comfortingly, then turned his gaze to Aubree. Aubree's heart thumped audibly at the realization that Lucian's answer was not what she wanted to hear.

"You should go to a hospital for that. I wouldn't be able to explain myself to my mother if your condition worsens." Lucian's tone was cold.

After he spoke, the man stood up from the couch.

Estella immediately grabbed her father's trouser leg and followed him closely behind.

father and daughter, Aubree glared maliciously

That little b*tch again!

"Could you come with me

sideways at her with a jeer but his house, it was only polite that Lucian sent her

Estella tugged on her father's trouser leg, looking all sent her daughter next to him before inclining his

Estella

go to the hospital with her, Daddy!" Estella said while puffing

was hinting

her father with the most forlorn look she could muster, you'd promise me that you would ask for my blessing if you were to find me

Estella sounded very hurt.