

Mission To Remarry Chapter 1019

The couple scowled. Though they knew of Lucian's intention to cancel the wedding, they did not expect him to be that harsh to their daughter.

Lucian had already explained over the phone that Aubree might have a hairline fracture, and despite knowing the severity of her condition, he did not even bother to help her.

If somebody had taken a photograph and circulated it, their engagement would have become a joke. The couple's minds raced with the best course of action before resigning to humble themselves. "What happened, Aubree? How did you hurt yourself so badly?"

Not seeming to notice Lucian's cold attitude, the couple directed their concerned attention to their daughter and took over Sonny's job in assisting her.

Aubree allowed her emotions to run rampant at the sight of her parents. She scowled, refusing to answer them.

Sonny stepped forward to speak out. "Ms. Pearson had fallen down the stairs, and her ankle is hurt. It's not serious and she is going to be fine with a couple of days in a cast and rest."

Gina turned pale at those words. "How could you say that a fracture is not serious?" Aubree gave her mother a meaningful gaze at the latter's hostile tone.

said something was ascertained after paying a visit to group watched as Aubree's foot was put in you're here, Mr. and Mrs.

before turning to Sonny. "You will

Sonny promised

as she glanced at her daughter and then at Lucian's stride faltered as he turned around. "Is dry laugh. "Look at how badly injured Aubree is. Besides, her father and I have been busy

"I will send somebody to care for gulped and turned to face her husband with wife was up to and chimed in at once, "That's not what we meant. Besides, we more explicit: they hoped Aubree would be allowed to stay at the as elders, Samuel was reasonably confident that Lucian might agree