

Mission To Remarry Chapter 1025

Frieda froze when she heard that. Although she hated Roxanne and her kids, she never intended to hurt Estella. After all, doing so would mean making an enemy of Lucian, and nobody in Horington would dare to get on his bad side.

However, Aubree had gotten her involved in her evil deeds without her knowledge. "What's the matter? Are you scared?" Aubree asked while looking at her coldly. Frieda came back to her senses.

Aubree is right. Regardless of how I feel about the situation, I am indeed in the same boat as her now. Since there's no running away for me anymore, my best bet is to help Aubree become Lucian's wife! Once she rises to power, we'll be able to cover our tracks!

With that in mind, Frieda flashed Aubree a nonchalant smile and replied, "Since when have I ever been scared? Those little b*tches had it coming! They only have their insolence to blame!"

Aubree simply stared at Frieda in silence. The tension was so high that it took Frieda every ounce of willpower she had just to maintain her smile.

seemed like forever, Aubree nodded and said, "That's more like it." Frieda then mentioned the text message from Cory. "What should we do about the ten million? Do we grew cold as she gave

to threaten you, so mustn't pay him the money. Doing so said is indeed possible. Cory has set me up once, so he might try to do it again. However, I him the money," Aubree muttered through clenched

Lucian tomorrow," Aubree said with a gloomy look in her eyes. Frieda shuddered when she realized what could for the money,

"After we pay him the money, instructions and do as she was told. "Understood. I'll have someone take care of pretended to be touched