

Mission To Remarry Chapter 625-629

Chapter 625

Meanwhile, Lucian had wanted to go and fetch Estella after he got off work. However, Jonathan had called him and asked him out for a meal.

Lucian had wanted to turn him down, but Jonathan had been talking to him about Roxanne for the past couple of days. He might talk to me about her again tonight.

With that in mind, Lucian said yes to him. After Lucian hung up the phone, he told Cayden to fetch Estella, while he went to meet Jonathan.

When he arrived, Jonathan was already waiting for him. Jonathan waved at him when he saw Lucian walking in..

Lucian saw him and walked toward him. The moment Lucian sat down, Jonathan asked, "How was it? You didn't fight with Dr. Jarvis at noon, did you?"

Upon hearing that, Lucian couldn't help but recall how Roxanne had rejected him at noon that day, and his expression turned solemn.

Jonathan noticed the look on his face, so he asked, "Did it not go well?"

If Roxanne doesn't fancy me at all, she wouldn't have reacted that way when she heard what the server said, would she? Lucian frowned. "The process wasn't pleasant, but I'm not too sure about the ending."

Indeed, Lucian actually thought there was still hope for him when he saw her reaction. Jonathan was astonished. It seems that he's satisfied with how it ended. What exactly happened at noon?

“Why do you say so?” Jonathan asked. Lucian glanced at him and gave him a summary of what had happened.

Jonathan was even more surprised when he found out that Lucian had confessed his feelings to Roxanne despite having his flowers rejected by her. What was even more surprising was the fact that Roxanne had questioned Lucian’s sincerity instead of shutting him out entirely. Although he wasn’t there to witness the interaction, he thought Lucian might have a chance here and that he was getting better at pursuing women.

After listening to what Lucian had to say, Jonathan sighed and answered, “That’s good, then. I was worried you might drop the ball, so I’ve even come up with a backup plan. I think it could come in handy if you mess things up with Dr. Jarvis.”

After getting off the phone with Lucian that morning, Jonathan had taken the initiative to come up with a plan to back Lucian up in case things were to go south. Judging by how things went, I don’t think Lucian needs the backup plan anymore.

“Well, Dr. Jarvis’ attitude shows that there’s still hope! At times like this, you mustn’t give her the time to react!” Jonathan cheered Lucian on.

Lucian furrowed his brows when he heard that. “I’m still thinking about what to do next.”

As soon as he finished speaking, Jonathan mysteriously whipped out something from his pocket. In response, Lucian cast him a confused look.

“Coincidentally, I got my hands on two concert tickets this morning.” Jonathan passed him the tickets. “Go to a concert together and improve your relationship with her.”

Lucian raised his brows when he saw those two VIP concert tickets. “Why, thank you!” Lucian uttered with a smile. “Well, I’ve already given you an idea. Now, it’s up to you to come up with a plan to ask Dr. Jarvis out.”

In fact, Lucian had yet to think about that. When he heard those words, he went quiet for a while before grunting in response.

Chapter 626

Jonathan gave Lucian a few more ideas. and they both parted ways after realizing it was getting late. Lucian's gaze darkened when he exited the restaurant and glanced at the tickets. Although he could tell that Roxanne was slightly moved, he still had his doubts.

She didn't even accept my flowers. If I invite her to a concert, she'll surely reject me. What if I get Essie to ask her out? That might work. Roxanne has never said no to Essie.

Holding that thought, Lucian quickly drove back to the Farwell residence. When he got home, Estella had just finished her dinner, and she was scribbling away as she sprawled on the table. Catalina was sitting right beside her.

"Mr. Farwell," Catalina greeted politely when she saw Lucian walking in. After that, she stood up and let him take the seat next to Estella.

Estella simply raised her head to glance at the entrance and greeted in her piping voice, "Daddy."

Then she lowered her head to continue drawing. Ever since Roxanne got injured, Estella had only visited her once. Hence, her mood was getting worse by the day.

She was rather moody that day because Archie and Benny had told her that Roxanne had recovered, and she had gone to the research institute.

Estella had thought that Roxanne would go to the kindergarten to fetch Archie and Benny. However, she was disappointed when she saw Lysa picking them up.

“Ms. Estella has been rather moody ever since she got home,” Catalina said when.

Lucian was walking over to them. Lucian merely nodded and told Catalina that she could leave. In fact, he noticed how moody Estella was the moment he got home. Only Roxanne can make Essie so emotional.

Lucian quietly went up to Estella and sat next to her. He lowered his head to see Estella scribbling on a piece of paper. I seems that she doesn't even know what she wants to draw! Otherwise, why would she keep rubbing off the drawing after drawing two lines?

Right then, Estella put down the pencil angrily and turned to Lucian. “Daddy!”

“Yes?” Lucian met her eyes.

“Are you done with your work?” Estella asked with a straight face. Lucian had told her he would bring her to visit Roxanne once he was done with his work.

Lucian frowned and answered, “I am, but Before he could finish his sentence, Estella interrupted, “Bring me to see Ms. Jarvis, then!”

“Now is not the time.” Lucian patted her head. Estella pursed her lips in annoyance. “I haven't seen Ms. Jarvis for so long!”

“Essie, do you want Ms. Jarvis to be your mommy?”

Estella was stunned when she heard that. When she regained her senses, her eyes lit up, and she asked, “Daddy, are you serious?”

Lucian nodded. “Have I ever lied to you?”

Estella tilted her head in puzzlement and thought about it for a bit. After that, she smiled and shook her head. Daddy has never lied to me! But....

Estella looked at Lucian in bafflement. and asked, "Are you not marrying Ms. Pearson, Daddy?"

Although Estella had never liked Aubree, she knew about the marriage contract. Lucian had with the latter. Besides, ever since she could remember things, she could remember Aubree putting on an act whenever Lucian was present.

Chapter 627

When Lucian heard Estella mention Aubree, his gaze darkened. No wonder Roxanne still wouldn't accept me! Even Essie knows about the entanglement I have with Aubree. Surely, Roxanne is still bothered by it. No matter what, I must pick up my pace and get Mom to forget about Aubree.

Lucian pulled himself out of his reverie and asked in a deep voice, "Do you like Ms. Pearson?"

Estella shook her head vigorously. Why on earth would I like that evil woman? She's only nice to me when Daddy is present. Whenever he wasn't around, she would pinch my arms and spank me! Lucian nodded and made a promise to Estella. "I won't marry someone you don't like." Estella's eyes lit up once again.

"But if you want Ms. Jarvis to be your mommy, I'm going to need your help, Essie." Lucian shot Estella a meaningful look. Perplexed, Estella tilted her head. Daddy is already so catable. Why does he need my help?

Seeing that Estella was confused, Lucian helplessly patted her head and explained, "There's some misunderstanding between Ms. Jarvis and me. Essie, help me clear up the misunderstanding.. okay?"

Knowing that she could make Roxanne her mother, Estella agreed to his suggestion at once. "Okay!"

After that, Estella looked at Lucian in confusion. “But what do I need to do to help?”

Lucian wasn’t surprised by Estella’s willingness to help. He took out the concert tickets and put them on the table.

Estella stared at the tickets curiously. “What are these?”

“Concert tickets. Help me give these to Archie and Benny, okay? Get them to pass the tickets to Ms. Jarvis so that we can go to the concert together.

Since those were VIP tickets, they could bring their kids along, Estella was still baffled. “Why are we going to a concert?”

Lucian was amused by Estella’s innocence. He pinched her nose playfully and said, “You’re still little, so you wouldn’t know. Just do as I say, okay? Trust me. I’ll marry Ms. Jarvis and make her your mommy.”

Estella nodded obediently when she heard that. “Okay! I’ll definitely do as you say, Daddy!”

Although Estella didn’t know what Lucian was up to, she knew she could trust him. If Daddy says this will work, I’ll listen to him! I want Ms. Jarvis to be my mommy! That way, I can see her, Archie, and Benny every day!

Lucian patted her head and put the tickets into her school bag. “It’s getting late. Go to bed, okay?”

Having been told of the possibility of having Roxanne as her mother, Estella brightened up. She picked up her pencil happily and said, “I’ll go to bed later!”

With that, she sprawled on the table and started drawing again. Lucian raised his brows and sat next to her quietly. What is she going to draw now?

Estella drew two adults holding hands, and there were three kids standing next to them. At a glance, one could definitely tell who the people in the drawing were.

“That’s you, Daddy! Then, there’s me, Ms. Jarvis, Archie, and Benny!” Estella held up the drawing proudly. “We’re a family!”

Right then, Lucian couldn’t help but recall that Estella had drawn something similar before. That time, I wasn’t holding Roxanne’s hand in the drawing. This time, we’ve indeed become a family. Lucian’s lips curled into a smile when he noticed the difference in the drawings.

Chapter 628

Early the following day, after freshening herself up, Roxanne got out of the bedroom and saw Archie and Benny waiting at the door.

“Mommy!” The boys’ eyes lit up in excitement. They were in anticipation of Roxanne sending them to school, as it had been a while since she last did so.

Thinking about Archie and Benny’s conversation last night, Roxanne felt her heart soften. She lowered her gaze and patted their heads. “Hurry and head downstairs for breakfast. I’ll send you boys to school later.”

The two nodded their heads vigorously. During breakfast, the boys were especially obedient. When they finished breakfast, Roxanne changed into another outfit and sent the boys to kindergarten.

Arriving outside the kindergarten, Roxanne spotted many children with their parents at one glance. There are indeed many parents who send their kids to school.

She recalled that she had asked the boys to follow Lysa because she had wanted to avoid Lucian some time ago. Archie and Benny must’ve been upset then. With that thought in mind, Roxanne looked apologetic.

“Ms. Jarvis.” Pippa exchanged some pleasantries with Roxanne upon seeing her send the boys to school. “It’s been a long time. I heard from Archie and Benny that you hurt your foot. How is it now?” Roxanne put on a smile. “Thank you for your concern, Ms. Ward. I’m almost completely healed.”

While the two women were engrossed in the conversation, Archie and Benny held Roxanne’s hand tightly as they glanced around their surroundings in search of Estella.

Essie was looking forward to seeing Mommy come to fetch us yesterday. If Essie gets to see Mommy today, she’ll surely be overjoyed.

Nonetheless, there was still no sign of her after they searched high and low for a long time.

At that moment, Roxanne noticed the boys’ actions. Realization dawned on her that she might run into Lucian and Estella if she stayed any longer.

It’s fine meeting Essie. But how am I supposed to face Lucian after yesterday’s matter? That made her want to stop talking and leave the venue immediately. But before she managed to say anything, she felt Archie and Benny tighten their grip on her hands. Roxanne’s heart leaped to her throat, and she almost couldn’t bring herself to turn her head around..

“Ms. Jarvis!” Not too far away, Lucian’s car had stealthily stopped by the roadside.

The moment the car door opened, Estella hastily jumped out from the passenger seat and ran toward Roxanne without carrying her bag.

Archie and Benny tugged Roxanne’s hands and exclaimed, “Mommy! Essie is here!”

Hearing the boys’ voices, Roxanne, unable to act unconcerned about the situation any longer, whipped her head around and looked toward Estella.

Coming into her vision was the young girl with excitement written all across her face. Behind, Lucian, with a small school bag in his hand, was strolling over while staring at Roxanne inquisitively.

When the two pairs of eyes met, Roxanne blinked and retracted her gaze hastily.

At this point, Estella had already run up to her and hugged her leg tight. "Ms. Jarvis, your feet..." A look of worry washed over the young girl's face.

Nonetheless, Roxanne's attention was on Lucian, as she could sense that the man was looking at her even from a distance away.

Truthfully, she was slightly distracted that even the smile on her face looked forced when Estella showered her with concern. "I'm feeling much better now. You don't have to worry, Essie."

Despite so, the young girl's gaze remained fixated on Roxanne's feet. Knowing that Estella was worried about her, Roxanne tried to squeeze out a smile and turn one round in a relaxed manner. "Look, Essie. I don't feel any pain at all."

Only then did the young girl feel at ease and lift her head to flash Roxanne a sweet smile.

Chapter 629

At that moment, Lucian approached the group and looked at them quietly. When Archie and Benny saw his arrival, they shared a look and greeted him after some hesitation. "Good morning, Mr. Farwell."

Lucian cocked his brows and reached out to pat the boys' heads. Roxanne had wanted to ignore Lucian's presence. But hearing Archie and Benny greet him, she figured it would be an unsightly behavior to continue to pretend not to see him when Pippa was around.

With that in mind, Roxanne looked at the man and uttered placidly, "Mr. Farwell."

Lucian turned his head and made eye contact with her. "What a surprise to see you sending Archie and Benny today when you've just recovered, Ms. Jarvis."

I thought she'd hide from me again after the incident yesterday. That's why I got Essie to hand the tickets to Archie and Benny and, in turn, help pass them to her afterward. What a surprise to meet her again that soon, huh?

An odd look crept up Roxanne's face when she sensed the underlying meaning in the man's words. Nevertheless, she tried to stay composed and forced a smile on her face.

"Ms. Jarvis!" Estella suddenly tugged at her shirt sleeve. Perplexed, Roxanne lowered her head to look at the young girl.

"Ms. Jarvis, let's go to a concert together!" Estella invited warmly with an innocent look.

She had entirely thrown the matter to the back of her head, as she was too thrilled to see Roxanne sending Archie and Benny to school just now.

It was only after seeing Lucian did she remember her task at hand.

Initially, she was supposed to pass the tickets to Archie and Benny according to Lucian's plan.

However, she was eager to find out about Roxanne's answer since the latter was right before her.

In contrast to the excited young girl, Roxanne was briefly astounded when she heard those words. Instinctively, she shot a glance at the man before her.

A concert? That can't possibly be Essie's suggestion. I'm sure she must be acting under Lucian's order. Throughout the conversation, Lucian had never shifted his eyes away from Roxanne.

When met with her gaze, the man calmly explained, "I happened to get two tickets yesterday. We can bring the kids along as well. I wonder if you're interested in it, Ms. Jarvis?"

It was just as she had expected.

Though her mind was in a whirl, she turned down that invitation readily. "I'm sorry, but I'm afraid I don't have time for that." Then she looked at Estella apologetically. "Essie, if you want to watch it, you can go with your daddy."

Not expecting Roxanne to reject her so outrightly, the young girl turned to look at Lucian for help.

However, the man stared at her and gestured that there was nothing he could do either and for her to try her best.

Pouting, Estella shifted her gaze back to Roxanne and continued to tug her sleeve pitifully. "I want to watch it with you, Ms. Jarvis."

As much as Roxanne could not bring herself to see the young girl's pitiful appearance, she did not want to get involved and led by Lucian again.

Regarding those words Lucian had said to her yesterday, she was, in fact, still in puzzlement and disbelief. Yet, even before she had enough time to gather her wits, he was asking her out to a concert.

Deep down, Roxanne feared that she would grow more attached to the relationship. "Ms. Jarvis, if you aren't going, then I won't be going too." Estella lowered her head in disappointment.

Looking from above, Roxanne could only see the young girl's fluffy hair and trembling shoulders.

It was apparent she was silently sobbing with her head lowered.

Roxanne felt her heart ache terribly at that sight. She shot Lucian a look, hoping that he would say something.

Unexpectedly, he stood still, seemingly with no intention of speaking.

Essie. I'll go with you, all right?"
