

Mission To Remarry Chapter 701

"I think I have Dr. Jarvis' contact too. If you can't do it, I can," Hector said faintly. Jack looked utterly helpless when he heard those words because he knew Hector was threatening him. Rather than letting Roxanne and Jessica meet each other without my presence, I might as well be there to keep Jessica in check.

In the end, Jack agreed to it. "All right. I'll try to contact Ms. Jarvis. But I can't promise she'll agree to it." With a wide smile on his face, Stephen said, "Thank you. Let me know when she gets back to you."

Jack nodded indifferently in response. Stephen chatted with Hector for a little while and asked about the Damaris family's recent situation before standing up to excuse himself.

The moment Stephen left the Demaris residence, a dejected look replaced the smile on his face. That night, Jessica was hammered when a few men brought her home. Stephen was in utter shock when he saw that and thought his daughter had been taken advantage of.

To his surprise, those men told him they were the Farwell family's men and that Lucian had ordered them to send her back. Right away, Stephen knew his daughter had crossed someone she couldn't afford to mess with.

their contracts the next few days. They also couldn't find people financial difficulties, Stephen had no choice but to contact Lucian. He apologized to Lucian, but he was told that and interrogated Jessica. That was when he found out about the person he owed look for the person right away, so he thought father to sell Hector a sad story so that he could it worked, and he managed to her relationship with Lucian? Why is Lucian willing to do upon finishing his work, Lucian thought about the three children at Roxanne's house. She has to that thought, Lucian mansion, the children had just finished a whole bucket of fried