

Mission To Remarry Chapter 724

Chapter 724 Please Do Not Take Offence

Subsequently, she got to her feet and regained her composure before heading to the restaurant next door.

“I’m sorry to have kept you waiting.”

Upon entering the restaurant, Jessica gave her two guests an apologetic look.

Her arrival brought a sense of relief to Roxanne and Jack who responded with a faint smile. “It’s all right. Please take a seat.”

Nodding in acknowledgment, Jessica sat down beside them. However, at the sight of the untouched food on the table, she looked at them in surprise. “Didn’t I ask you to start first? Why did you wait for me? I’m really sorry that the food is now cold.”

Since Roxanne didn’t know Jessica that well, she simply broke into a cordial smile.

he gave her a perfunctory reply. “Since you’re the host, it’s right that spoken when silence descended upon a loss as to what to do, Roxanne gave Jack an awkward look, for she

she and Jack could still talk about had arrived, they would

Roxanne had no desire to continue wasting time on her mind. Taking the initiative to break the silence, he said, a knowing glance. "Ah, I'm sorry. I was befuddled after getting stuck in the traffic Roxanne. "I had too much to drink the other night, Ms. Jarvis. Therefore, I had she spoken than she downed her glass of wine in a single gulp. After that, she showed her empty glass to them and even paused in front of Roxanne to hint gesture elicited a conflicted look in Roxanne's eyes, as it was evident that Jessica was pressuring her into

only drink when it