

Mission To Remarry Chapter 737

Chapter 737 Open Admiration

Roxanne was moved upon hearing Harvey's words. "I understand. Thank you, Professor."

Unable to stand seeing her being slandered by netizens online, Harvey softened his tone after giving her a quick lecture. "Give it your all now that everyone knows you're my student. Don't let me down."

Roxanne grinned. "I'll do my best."

"I believe in you," encouraged Harvey. "Also, that Damaris kid. He's not bad, you know—"

"Professor!" Roxanne hurriedly cut him off knowing what he was about to say. "I have to make breakfast for Archie and Benny. I'll talk to you next time."

Harvey stopped at the mention of the two boys. "All right. Say hi to them for me."

"Okay," the woman responded before pausing briefly. "Please thank everyone on my behalf."

Harvey readily agreed.

they both

came on the door right

glanced at the time before quickly getting out of bed.

Mommy?" they asked, staring straight at longer than usual that morning only to realize there was no food, nor their way over, worried that of a call with Professor Lambert," the woman was in good health, the boys went back into the room to wash sons had already prepared breakfast, including her the dining table, Roxanne suddenly recalled something. Now that the comments are looking better, I won't have to just as she was about just on her way to get the door, the two boys ran ahead in excitement and opened the mansion gates without even

who was waiting