

Mission To Remarry Chapter 861

Soon, Lucian stopped his car in front of James' psychiatric clinic. As Lucian had made the call while he was on the way, James was already waiting at the door.

After getting out of the car, Lucian walked over to the other side to carry Estella, who was still crying. Upon seeing his outstretched hands, she dodged to the side.

"Let me do it," James offered as he stepped forward. He reached out to Estella and said gently, "Essie, good girl. Let me carry you."

Estella shook her head and choked out, "I want Ms. Jarvis..."

James couldn't help but frown in confusion and glance at Lucian.

Lucian had mentioned that Estella wouldn't stop crying on the phone earlier, but he did not get the chance to explain what had happened in detail.

Meeting James' eyes, Lucian furrowed his brows and said, "Let's talk inside."

Jarvis will be here soon. Come with me first and let's wait for her inside,

James doubtfully for quite a away. After all, he his expression, Estella finally stretched her arms toward him and allowed him to carry her out of she whimpered and hid her face in James' chest. It was clear him. Nevertheless, he stayed quiet and followed James confusion grew as he looked at the

this was the first time in the

the treatment room, James sat down while holding Estella and signaled Lucian to take toned down to turned his gaze

me something since last night, but I didn't again, Lucian tried his