

Mission To Remarry Chapter 868

"Ms. Jarvis."

Jack stood at the door with his assistant in tow. His brows twitched when he saw the expression on Roxanne's face. "Did I come at the wrong time?"

Roxanne swallowed her disappointment and plastered a smile on her face. "No, no, I've just got home."

Jack nodded lightly at her reply. His eyes swept past her and landed on the two boys.

"Hello, Mr. Damaris," the boys greeted him politely as he surveyed them.

Jack nodded at them in acknowledgment before turning back to Roxanne. "The children are looking much better."

Roxanne was surprised and confused by Jack's remark. After a while, she recalled that the two boys had pretended to be sick earlier that morning.

She was so preoccupied with her worries about Estella that she had momentarily forgotten about that.

Now that Jack had reminded her of it, Roxanne glanced at her sons.

concern, Mr. Damaris. We've taken some medicine and are feeling here, Mr. Damaris?" Roxanne asked, guiltily and angled his head toward his car parked in the distance. "The medicine that you requested is ready. Why don't you have a look followed him

we got there just in time," Jack said as Roxanne was inspecting the medicine. "As soon as you left, Herbscape Group was immediately seized and taken over. If we had been one step too late, we wouldn't be able to gave a faint smile. Her thoughts drifted medicine that she clouded over Roxanne's eyes. She slowed down her inspection behavior

to Roxanne because he was curious as to why she had her house, he had thought that now that he had seen her, he did not think that trouble, Mr. Damaris.”

about it. I’m just worried that it’ll affect your research,” Jack replied calmly, pulling his gaze

the two boys standing

but it seemed that the two