

Mission To Remarry Chapter 936

Seeing that the children were drenched in sweat, Roxanne chose an opportune time to call out to them, "You guys are sweating all over. Come and take a rest, or you might catch a cold."

By then, the children had played to their heart's content, so they obediently got out of the water upon hearing the woman's words. Benny had a fish in his hand, which he reluctantly released into the water before he left.

As for Estella, she gathered all of the pebbles the boys had given her in her skirt, protecting the pile of stones as she walked toward Roxanne.

Noticing how the little girl was struggling, Roxanne stepped forward to help her. Estella's footsteps became lighter when some of the weight of the pebbles were taken off of her.

When they reached the shore, Roxanne took the towels she had prepared earlier and gently wiped down the children's bodies.

The three children wrapped themselves in their respective towels and returned to their tent, where Estella laid the pebbles out to dry.

The boys had specially picked some colorful and nicely-shaped pebbles that looked extremely beautiful when the sun's rays bounced off of them.

Hence, Estella simply couldn't turn her eyes away.

Roxanne patted the little girl's head and got up to get their cups.

"You guys must be thirsty after all that fun. Here, have some water."

she spoke, she gave the children their respective took a sip of the son's voice, Roxanne turned around and her with the cup in his hands, gesturing for her to look at off to the frown to Roxanne's face.

as he taste weird? But Benny and Estella seem to think it's brought the cup to his didn't smell

son's actions and asked again, "Is there something wrong with the nodded hesitantly and sounded uncertain as he explained, "I feel at the other two children, who spring water earlier," said Benny. He was practically oozing with his brother being so startled he swallowed a mouthful of spring water as a help but blush when he was exposed, but the rosiness in his cheeks disappeared just as quickly as hand, not knowing that something like that had happened, Roxanne looked at cup to his mouth and took another sip of