

Mission To Remarry Chapter 964

As soon as Cory finished speaking, he suddenly heard a rustle. He carefully lifted his head and saw Lucian standing up from the desk, walking in his direction.

Lucian was already exuding a domineering aura when he was seated. Cory only felt suffocated when the man suddenly stood up.

Lucian stood before Cory with a straight face. In an icy voice, he said, "It's a slip-up on my part. You're a private investigator. It's only natural for you to speak after I pay you."

With that, Lucian glanced at Cayden. Cayden understood instantly. He got a check and handed it to Lucian. Cory only heard the sound of light footsteps. Then, a slender and defined hand was waving a check before his eyes.

"Tell me who did it, and this check will be yours. You're free to write whatever amount you want," Lucian said in a softer tone.

Cory fixed his eyes on the check.

He had been a private investigator for many years. Naturally, he only had his eyes on the money.

Cory knew that the amount he could write on the check promised by Lucian was nearly limitless.

had not happened, he would have sold Aubree

angered by the things that had happened

Cory had thought of all the

was the one who told her about Roxanne and the other's whereabouts. What if Aubree told Lucian that I saw her doing everything but chose to do

still someone acquainted with Farwell

Lucian cares about the Pearsons' reputation, the his mind at the Aubree were in the same boat. He could not risk from the check. Feigning calmness, he said, "I really have no idea what you're talking about, Mr. Farwell. No one ordered me to waving the check as soon as Cory finished stopped beating. He could up and down with

before me knows everything, but he's just too now, I'll let you off. However, if you continued being stubborn and check, he turned around