

MYSTERIOUS MALE ESCORT IS A MOGUL CHAPTER 885

Zachary felt exasperated. No matter what he said, Charlotte refused to listen to him.

He knew that her trust for him had already been eroded. It was not something that he could solve through words alone.

Actually, he had never liked doing any explanation. He was simply too anxious now...

Upon that thought, he decided to stop disturbing Charlotte. Instead, he watched over the kids silently at the side. Occasionally, he would adjust their blankets and feel their foreheads.

As Jamie was an unruly sleeper, he kept tossing around and almost fell down the bed.

Zachary immediately placed his leg against the edge of the bed. After Jamie had stopped moving, Zachary flipped him to the side gently so as not to wake him up.

Behind him, Ellie suddenly sobbed.

Thinking that she had woken up, Charlotte rushed forward. However, Zachary made a shushing gesture, signaling her to remain quiet. He then shoved a small pillow into Ellie's arms.

Immediately, she stopped crying. Hugging the pillow, she continued sleeping soundly.

In the next moment, Robbie shivered, as if he was having a nightmare.

When Zachar patted his shoulder gently, he calmed down quickly.

Upon witnessing everything, Charlotte could not help but fall silent. Casting all grudges aside, Zachary is actually a good father.

After spending a while coaxing the children to sleep, Zachary was about to sit down when his phone vibrated. He immediately walked out to pick up the call. "What's the matter, Mr. Spencer?"

He paused for a while before replying, "I'll come over right now."

After ending the call, he gestured to Ben before he returned to the ward and told Charlotte, "They're sleeping soundly now and won't wake up till the daybreak. Go and rest!"

Charlotte ignored him coldly.

"I'll leave now." Frowning, he turned around and left.

Only after hearing the door closed did Charlotte turn around and glance at it. Listening to the footsteps outside, she knew that he had already left with his men.

She gazed at the children and fell into deep thought.

After a while, a determined look flashed across her eyes as she made a call. "Tell Mr. Williams to come here."

"Okay!"

Zachary left the hospital.

While Raina sent him and the rest downstairs, she explained to him how the children were doing. In the end, she added, "Don't worry. Looking at the situation now, their fever will definitely subside after daybreak."

"There aren't any reliable pediatricians over there with her, so she'll probably invite you there to take care of the kids. Watch over them carefully and inform me if something happens," instructed Zachary.

"Understood." Raina nodded.

After Zachary got into the car, he did not go home. Instead, he told Marino, "Go to Serene Hospital."

"Yes, sir." The car drove toward the hospital.

Ben asked uneasily, "Mr. Nacht, what happened to Mr. Henry?"

"He woke up." A lighthearted look finally replaced Zachary's gloomy expression that had been dominating his face for the past few days.

"Mr. Henry is awake? That's great!" Ben was overjoyed.

"We need to be on guard now. We must not let Zara grab any opportunities," ordered Zachary.

"Yes, don't worry." Ben nodded profusely. "Since Mr. Jamison, Mr. Robinson and Ms. Elisa are with Ms. Lindberg, we have more manpower now. I've already moved the bodyguards at home to the hospital."

"Okay." Zachary sighed. "Looks like it's a good thing that she took the kids away temporarily."

"I'm afraid that she'll bring them back to Erihal and we won't be able to find them..." blurted Bruce.

Ben glared at him. "How is that possible? Ms. Lindberg isn't someone like that."

"But she's still capable of doing it." Zachary frowned. "However, she won't do it. I'm afraid that Danrique won't tolerate the kids..."

"Doesn't that mean the kids will be in danger over there?" asked Ben anxiously.

"Not yet." Zachary glanced at the time. "But we should bring them back to us as soon as possible."
