Chapter 2081

“Yes!” William sighed sadly, “Perhaps it is God’s will that I should never be able to stand up in this life

“No, I’m sure I can think of a way.” Francesca said hurriedly, “Turn on the video, let me see your leg.”

William sent a video call, his leg had been conscious before after the treatment, he would feel pain and react a little when he tapped his knee, but now it had changed back to the state it was in before the treatment.

There was no reaction at all, it was like a prosthetic leg.

Francesca was very anxious, at this rate, all the previous efforts would be lost.

“Your Highness, it’s time to take your medicine.” At this time, Robin handed William a glass of water and a capsule.

William was about to take the medicine when Francesca suddenly shouted, “Wait a minute.”

William stopped moving and looked up at her, “What’s wrong?”

“You’re taking painkillers?” Francesca stared at the screen, the pills in William’s hand, “Do you have an injury elsewhere, or a pain in your leg?”

“I-I just have a headache, so I’m taking some pills.” William’s eyes twinkled.

“Just take headache powder for a headache, why do you need painkillers?” Francesca was anxious, “Where exactly do you have a pain? It’s not like you’re having problems with your lumbar spine again, is it?”

William didn’t say anything, but Robin couldn’t help himself and knelt down with a poof, “Your Highness, even if you chastise me, I’ll say it.”

Then anxiously said to the camera, “Ms.Felch, His Highness has been suffering from back pain for several days, I don’t know what the reason is, in any case, the situation is now back to the initial state, no, it should be worse than before the treatment.”

“Robin, unbridled.” William bellowed, “No nonsense!”

“Your Highness.”

“Shut up.” William forbade Robin to say any more, and Robin had to bow his head and back away.

“Francesca, don’t worry about me, I’ll be fine.” A gentle smile lifted up on William’s face again as he turned his eyes to look at Francesca.

“When are you coming back?”

Francesca knew that William was hiding his condition because he didn’t want her to worry, she felt she had an unshirkable responsibility to him and had to cure him.

“I’m stuck in Danontand and I’m afraid I won’t be able to return for a while.” William looked a little gloomy, “The day before yesterday was the anniversary of my parents’ death, I wanted to come home to pay my respects to them, but I didn’t expect that my cousins had already deployed a trap, waiting for me to throw myself into it.”

“How outrageous.” Francesca was very angry, “There is no way you can compete with them for the throne, why do they just refuse to let you go?”

“I’d like to ask why too.” William smiled bitterly, “Maybe they will only be willing if I die.”

“William, don’t be like this, pull yourself together.” Francesca’s heart trembled and she hurriedly said, “Tell you what, I’ll go to Danontand to treat you.”

“Really? You’re coming over?” William was overjoyed, but then he was a little worried, “No, I can’t drag you along.”

“Nor will I.” Robin said hurriedly, “Isn’t the old king looking for a doctor for you, Your Highness? We can ask Ms.Felch to come over under this name, so that those people won’t dare to touch her, anyway, when Ms.Felch came to treat you before, she was hiding her identity, those people didn’t know who she was.”

“That’s an idea.” William was still hesitant, “But then, will Mr.Lindberg be unhappy?”

“It’s okay, he’s not that petty.” Francesca immediately said, “I remember your house has a medical room, all the medical equipment is complete, I’ll give a list, you guys go ahead and prepare some medicine, I’ll leave tomorrow.”

William: “Thank you, Francesca!”

Francesca: “I promised to cure you, I must not go back on my word!”

Chapter 2082

Francesca booked a flight to Danontand that evening, and then waited for Danrique's call.

At this time, it was late at night in S Nation, but it was only late in the evening on Danrique's side.

As a rule, Danrique should have given her a call to tell her the situation after dealing with Hazel, but he didn't.

Francesca's heart was a little lost and angry.

She had thought that if Danrique called her, she would explain to him about going to Danontand tomorrow, so that he wouldn't get upset later when he found out himself.

But since he wouldn't even explain to her about his affair with Hazel and didn't even call her, she didn't want to talk about it either.

Maintaining a relationship was a matter for two people, not for her alone!!!

In the morning, Francesca talked to Anthony about going to Danontand when she ate breakfast, urging Anthony to take his medicine on time every day and to remember to inspect the orphanage.

Anthony's brow furrowed: "What are you doing in Danontand at this time of the day? Looking for that William?"

"His condition has relapsed, worse than before the treatment, and he's trapped and can't come back, so I have to go over there." Francesca explained.

"Is it that much of a coincidence?" Anthony expressed disbelief, "Did he deliberately find an excuse to trick you into going over there?"

"Yes, why do you have to go to Danontand for good reason? Does Sir know?" Kerrie asked hastily.

"I haven't told him yet." Francesca was drinking her milk, "but I reckon he'll know soon enough."

She had deliberately said this at the dinner table today to tell Kerrie as well.

She knew very well in her heart that Kerrie had been reporting everything on her side to Sean.

"I don't like Danrique, but that William, I like even less." Anthony frowned and said, "I always think he's very deep in the city."

“William’s a male version of green tea.” Kerrie blurted out.

“Enough of you two.” Francesca was very angry, “Don’t talk about my friend like that!”

“I’m sorry, Ms.Felch.” Kerrie said.

The Lindberg family’s rules were very strict, Kerrie was originally careful with her words and respect, but now that she had been with Francesca for a long time, she had gradually become bolder.

Anthony gave Francesca a timid look, not daring to say anything else.

“I’m going to pack my things and leave for the airport.” Francesca put down her cutlery and urged, “Kerrie, take good care of Anthony for me while I’m away.”

“Ah, Ms.Felch won’t you take me with you?” Kerrie was anxious, “Sir has instructed me to look after you in silhouette.”

“I’m going out on an errand now, it’s not convenient for you to follow me.” Francesca was a little impatient, “If you stay here and help me take care of Anthony, that would be the greatest help to me.”

Kerrie: “But…”

Francesca: “No buts, do as I say.”

“Okay.” Kerrie didn’t dare say any more.

Francesca went upstairs to pack her bags, Kerrie helped Anthony to his room to rest, and then immediately slipped back to her room to call Sean.

The phone rang for a long time but no one answered.

It was now 3:30 a.m. in Xendale and Kerrie was not sure if Sean had already gone to bed.

After waiting for half an hour, Sean didn’t reply and Kerrie’s heart was racing.

Francesca packed her things and went downstairs, said goodbye to Anthony, and then drove to the airport.

Anthony was relieved and followed behind, urging, “Be safe and call me if anything happens.”

“Got it.” Francesca waved her hand without looking back, drove the car and sped away.

When Kerrie chased out from the room, she could only see the shadow of Francesca's car, she was so anxious that she hurriedly went to call Sean again.

This time, the call was finally answered, and after Kerrie reported the matter of Francesca going to Danontand alone. She asked anxiously, "Ms.Felch has already gone to the airport, what should we do?"

Sean: "It's definitely too late for you to follow, and even if you do, it's useless if Ms.Felch doesn't take you to Danontand."

Kerrie: "Well, what then?"

Sean: "I'll report it to Sir, and he will decide."

Chapter 2083

Sean walked to Danrique's door and was ready to knock, but he remembered that Danrique had recently been rectifying the group's internal problems and had not slept for three days and nights in a row, and tonight it was hard to fall asleep and be woken up again.

So he withdrew his hand again, thinking that it was impossible to turn the situation around now anyway, so he might as well wait until Danrique woke up from his sleep before reporting it.

This wait lasted four hours.

Danrique woke up early in the morning and went downstairs to have breakfast.

When Sean reported the situation, Danrique's hand holding his cup of tea gave a beat and frowned questioningly, "When did this happen?"

"Four hours ago." Sean said weakly, "I saw that you were very tired these days and could not easily fall asleep, so I did not disturb you, and nothing could be changed at that time."

"Who gave you the right to make up your own mind?" Danrique put down his teacup with a thud and shouted angrily, "You're getting bolder and bolder now."

"Sir, don't be angry." Sean lowered his head, not daring to breathe.

Danrique took out his mobile phone and dialed Francesca's number.

It prompted off.

Francesca should still be on the plane now.

She refused to come to Erihal. She said something about being busy, taking care of her brothers and the orphanage, but now she was flying off to Danontand for William, just like she said.

So, in the final analysis, Danrique was not worth mentioning in her heart at all.

The more Danrique thought about it, the angrier he became and violently swept all the things on the table to the floor.

The bodyguards and maids were all startled and stood to the side in fear, afraid of getting into trouble.

It was only after a long time that Danrique calmed down and calmly ordered, "Go, find out about William."

"Yes." Sean knew what he wanted to check and immediately went to inform Gordon.

Danrique got up and left the restaurant, faintly instructing, "Prepare the car, go to the company."

Mylo: "Yes, sir."

Mylo hurriedly had the car prepared, then pulled Sean and said, "Brother Sean, what do you think is going on with Mr.Lindberg? Given his nature, he should have just flown over to intercept Ms.Felch, why is he so calm now?"

"Probably do a big." Sean said meaningfully.

"Huh?" Mylo didn't understand.

"Go and do your work, don't be so nosy." Sean urged.

Mylo: "Yes."

Danrique went straight to the company without taking any measures. But he looked cold all day, and the ten metres around him fell into a place of ice and cold, making people tremble with fear.

Sloan looked at the situation and screamed in his heart that it was bad, he hid and quietly called Francesca.

"Hello!" Francesca took a long time to answer the phone.

“Ms.Felch.” Sloan heard the airport radio voice on the other end of the line and hurriedly asked, “Are you arriving in Danontand?”

Francesca: “Even you know about it. News travels quite fast.”

Francesca rolled her eyes, she knew it, Danrique put Kerrie beside her just to spy on her.

“Mister threw a good tantrum and scolded Sean.” Sloan covered the microphone with his hand and said anxiously, “Ms.Felch, you should call Mr.Lindberg and explain.”

“What’s there to explain.” Francesca disdained, “He didn’t explain to me even if he had something to do.”

Sloan: “But...”

“Has he made any movement?” Francesca was curious if Danrique would fly straight to Danontand after he found out about this, or if he was going to call her to raise hell.

“Sir has lost his temper, don’t know about the rest.” Naturally, Sloan wouldn’t say that Danrique had sent someone to check on William, and he still knew the importance of these light matters.

“Is he at home or at the office now?” Francesca asked.

“At the company.” Sloan whispered, “He’s been sullen all day today, we’re all so nervous.”

“Don’t be afraid, he won’t do anything to you.” Francesca didn’t say much, “Well, I’ll go and get busy first, thank you for telling me this, Sloan.”

Chapter 2084

After hanging up the phone, Francesca looked through her address book and there was one missed call from Danrique when she was on the plane.

This was the only one, and then there were no text messages or anything.

Francesca hesitated to call him back, but when she thought about the fact that he met with Hazel yesterday and didn’t explain anything to her, she didn’t want to bother explaining anything.

Thinking of this, Francesca put her phone away, dragged her suitcase and walked out in big strides.

“Ms.Felch is it?”

At this moment, a few men in straight black suits stopped Francesca’s way, “We are sent by Majesty to pick you up, this way please.”

Before Francesca came, William personally introduced her to the old king, who had someone send her an invitation letter, and then she came to Danontand under the name of a special doctor.

So it would be normal if someone from the old king came to pick her up now.

But Francesca always felt that something was wrong and was about to ask for clarification when the men were already attacking her back and forth, half-asking, half-pushing her towards the car.

Francesca immediately sensed that something was wrong and refused to get into the car, and said alertly, “William said he was going to send someone to pick me up, I’d better call and ask him first.”

“No need, get in the car first.” A bodyguard pushed Francesca directly into the car.

Francesca frowned and was about to fume, when a familiar voice came, “Dr.Felch!”

She turned around and saw that it was Robin, followed by several court soldiers behind him, as well as an elderly officer.

Robin bent down and saluted before smiling and saying, “Gentlemen, this is the special doctor. Majesty has hired for our Highness, so I will take it straight back to you, so don’t bother.”

He put himself in a very low position and gave the other side face.

It was not good for the men to be openly angry, but they also had a task to do, so they forced themselves to say, “We are also under orders.”

“Following orders? By whose orders?” The old officer stepped forward and questioned coldly, “Did Majesty ask you to take this doctor to the palace? Why didn’t I hear? Do you want me to go and check again?”

When the men saw the old officer, they all turned pale, bowed their heads and hurried away.

With a sigh of relief, Robin bowed to the old officer in gratitude, “Thank you, Mr.Silas!”

“His Majesty the King is too busy with his day to have the energy to deal with such trivial matters, and I never thought that someone with a heart would exploit the situation. It is good that you found me in time, otherwise it would have been a sin to delay His Highness William's treatment." the Silas lamented helplessly.

"Fortunately you were there, otherwise..." Robin let out a long sigh.

"His Majesty is always concerned about His Highness's health." The Silas patted his shoulder, "It's just that His Majesty is too old to take care of many things."

"I understood."

The two exchanged pleasantries, then that Silas left with his men, and gave Francesca a look before leaving.

"Ms. Felch, I'm sorry for putting you through this, let's get in the car." Robin was afraid that staying here for a long time would cause trouble, so he quickly took Francesca to the car and left.

"Looks like this wave of court battles hasn't stopped yet." Francesca stared at the rearview mirror and noticed that someone was following them from behind.

"Come on, let's go." Robin urged anxiously, then sighed helplessly, "These people, they're pervasive, they simply don't give a d*mn."

"I'll do it." Francesca switched places with the driver, "Navigate."

"Yes." That driver hurriedly entered the destination on the car navigation.

Francesca started the car and flew out with one throttle.

That driver hadn't sat still and almost hit the windshield, and behind, Robin fell out of her seat, terrified.

But Francesca didn't care so much, speeding up the car, seeing the seams, driving the car as fast as it could, and soon arrived at William's castle.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2085

Chapter 2085

Robin and the two bodyguards got out of the car, their legs were trembling and their faces were pale.

William had long been waiting for Francesca at the door, and when he saw this, he first froze for a moment, then laughed, "Hahaha, it was Francesca who drove the car, wasn't it?"

“Someone is following us, we need to get rid of them as soon as possible.” Francesca got out of the car and casually threw the car keys to her attendant.

“This car skill of Ms.Felch is really out of this world.” Robin finally slowed down and covered his heart and sighed.

“Haha, Robin, you’re getting old.” William laughed and joked, and then started coughing again.

“Your Highness.” Robin rushed forward to pat him on the back.

“William, why do you look so pale?” Francesca approached to check William’s condition and also reached out to touch his forehead, “Dizzy, you have a fever.”

“It’s been a week, it started like this on the third day back, the temperature goes back and forth, it won’t go down.”

Robin said anxiously, “Ms.Felch, it’s all up to you.”

“You talk so much.” William frowned and glared at Robin, then looked at Francesca tenderly, “Francesca, it’s not as serious as he said, I just have a low fever, maybe the weather is recurring and I haven’t adapted yet.”

“Come inside first, I’ll check.” Francesca pushed William into the house.

Robin immediately ordered someone to follow behind with Francesca’s luggage and backpack.

The castle was lined with attendants and courtesans, all bowing down to Francesca.

It was as if Francesca was the saviour of the castle, the goddess who would decide their fate!

After all, if William collapsed, these people would also face a miserable fate.

Back in her room, Francesca washed her hands and began to launch a detailed examination of William.

After about an hour or so, she came to the conclusion, “You’ve been poisoned again!”

“Huh??” Robin was horrified, “How could this happen? We’ve been very, very careful this time, all our food and drink has been checked before we enter.”

“It means that the other party has poisoned at an extremely high level.” Francesca took out a bottle of medicine from her backpack and handed it to Robin, “Take it three times a day, before meals, now use it once first!”

“Yes.” Robin immediately went to pour water and fed William to take the medicine.

After taking the medicine, William didn't feel anything either, so he asked Francesca, “Francesca, is this a serious problem?”

“The other party clearly wants to put you to death, do you think it is serious?” Francesca asked rhetorically, “And the one who poisoned you is a master.”

“How so?” William pursued.

“You've only had such symptoms for a few days already, which means it's not a chronic poison, but it won't kill you immediately either, the other party is clearly controlling the dosage so that you'll die of poison at an opportune time.”

Francesca looked at the marks on the silver needles and judged very decisively.

“It's so hateful.” Robin was very annoyed, “Our highnesses don't fight or grab, we just want to live peacefully, why does the other side always want to kill us?”

“It is useless to lament this now, the most urgent task is to find the source of the poison as soon as possible.” Francesca swept the surroundings and said to William, “William, this castle of yours, it needs to be cleaned up!”

“Okay.” William nodded, and then ordered, “Everyone, follow Ms.Felch's instructions!”

“Yes!” Robin and all the attendants and maids, all replied in unison.

After receiving William's permission, Francesca decisively ordered, “Robin, control all entrances and exits, no one is allowed to enter or leave for 12 hours, and no one is allowed to communicate with the outside world.”

“Yes.” Robin immediately did as he was told.

“Find the source first, then solve the problem.” Francesca looked at her watch and instructed Robin, “In one hour, have everyone gather at the entrance, I want to check them one by one.”

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2086

Chapter 2086

“Yes, Ms.Felch.” Robin immediately went to it.

“Now I want to check the main water switch, the water switch in your room, and the storage room.” Francesca grabbed her backpack.

"I'll accompany you." William made a gesture and his entourage immediately pushed him and accompanied Francesca to check.

"Francesca, you suspect someone has poisoned the water supply?" William asked.

"You should have guessed that you had been poisoned and conducted a secret examination." Francesca surmised.

"You are so clever." William exclaimed from the bottom of his heart.

"Since you have checked them all, it means that you can't find any problems in those parts of the kitchen, in that case, the problem lies in the dark." Francesca deduced, "Apart from the water source and the storage room, I can't think of any other place."

"We've actually thought about the water source." William said, "The whole castle is filled with people who drink from the same water source as I do, so if there's a problem with the water source, then how come they're okay?"

"How do you know they're fine?" Francesca asked rhetorically.

William froze for a moment, and those attendants all panicked.

"They all have blackened eyebrows one by one, which means they are also slightly poisoned, it's just that because of your health and the fact that you are taking medicine, this poison is incompatible with your medicine, so your reaction is just faster and more obvious."

Francesca said solemnly, "To put it mildly, if I come back in a few months, I'm afraid there won't be a single living thing left in this castle of yours, and it will have to become a haunted mansion by then!"

Hearing this, everyone was all scared out of their wits.

"How cruel they are." William was so angry that his hands were shaking, and he, who was always calm and collected, could not control his emotions now.

"Luckily, everything was in time." Francesca immediately checked the water source, and there was indeed a problem. The poisonous trick was small and not easily detectable, but slowly invading the body, over time, it would surely kill him.

And the reason why William reacted so quickly to the various drugs was because he had been disabled for years and was weak, and because he had been taking Francesca's medicine.

Medicine and poison are mutually exclusive, so there was a reaction very quickly.

It was also because the reaction was produced so quickly that timely action could be taken.

Otherwise, William would have been like everyone else, waiting months for a reaction.

William immediately had the water source turned off, and then accompanied Francesca to check the storage room. Francesca checked carefully and found a box of essential oils that had not yet been opened.

She immediately had it opened and examined it with a silver needle, and sure enough, there was something wrong with the essential oil as well.

“This essential oil is for my exclusive use.” William explained, “Because I have trouble falling asleep, I need to use aromatherapy to hypnotise me every night, but I always get it ordered from an old friend who shouldn’t be harming me.”

“I’m not sure who harmed you, but in any case there is something wrong with this essential oil.” Francesca was certain, “I’m only responsible for finding out what’s poisonous, but the person, you need to fix it yourself.”

“Understood.” William nodded his head.

At this time, the attendant came to report that the crowd had gathered at the entrance and waited.

Francesca and William immediately went to the door, and she inquired, “Have there been any newcomers to the castle recently?”

“No, it has always been the loyal maids my parents left behind.” William sighed, “Only some of the bodyguards I keep close to me were hired two years ago, the others are all of age, and I think, they should not harm me either.”

“I hope so, but hearts are unpredictable.” Without further ado, Francesca followed William to the door.

Bodyguards, soldiers, maids and slaves, adding up to seventy to eighty people, all stood neatly at the entrance, waiting for Francesca’s interrogation.

The bodyguards and soldiers had always seen big scenes and were all fairly calm.

The slaves and maids were all trembling, nervous and scared.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2087

Both William and Robin were curious, wondering what method Francesca was going to use to interrogate.

They both knew that she was an amazing doctor and had a knack for healing, but they didn't know that she could actually interrogate people?

Francesca looked these people over one by one, then simply announced, "All are fine, you can disperse."

Hearing these words, everyone froze.

The maids looked at each other, unsure of what to do.

The bodyguards and soldiers also felt puzzled, not understanding what Francesca was judging by, did it say on their faces whether they had any problems or not?

Robin was also aghast, "Ms.Felch, you mean, let them disperse?"

"Well, disperse, each to his or her own place." Francesca clapped her hands.

Robin looked at William.

William nodded, and Robin had no choice but to dismiss the crowd.

"So, what else do we have to do now?" Robin asked Francesca respectfully.

"That would have to be asked of you." Francesca looked at William, "Now that you have found the evidence, do you want to ask the old king to come and take a look at it, then find out the real culprit and get justice for you?"

"It's useless." William smiled bitterly, "What's more, although the problem has now been identified, the murderer has not been found, and even if the murderer is found, it's useless without uncovering the person behind it."

"So what are you going to do? Keep letting people bully you?" Francesca asked rhetorically.

"No, I have something in mind." William narrowed his eyes and said in a low tone, "Since they won't let me go even if I don't fight or grab, I'll simply fight them to the end."

"That's right." Francesca encouraged, "Although we don't harm people, we can't just let them get away with it, or else those around you will suffer along with them."

"Yes." William nodded heavily, "I won't sit around and wait for death, but this matter needs to be considered in the long run."

“You think hard about what to do.” Francesca said no more, “I suggest you take the evidence first, and then solve the water problem as soon as possible. Also...”

Francesca looked at Robin, “There are eleven hours left, you have to keep an eye on whether anyone will go over to the sluice gate, or contact the outside world.”

“Understood.”

Only then did it dawn on Robin, so Francesca had just said there was no problem, but he was actually using retreat as an advance to lure that mole out.

“There shouldn’t be a mole.” William frowned and said, “The water source could have been poisoned from the outside as well, it doesn’t have to be one of our own.”

“Of course, the poison should be from the outside.” Francesca nodded, “But they would have paid someone to tip off the situation here, how else would they have known when I was coming to Danontand and intercepted me at the airport?”

“That’s true.” William nodded.

“Could it have been a message received from the palace side?” Robin guessed, “No, all that is known over there is that a doctor was hired, the flight information is only known to our people.”

“You guys should know more about these things than I do, why do I need to remind you?” Francesca shook her head and sighed, “William, no wonder you’re being bullied like this, how can you be so simple-minded!”

“Francesca is right, I’ll have to be more careful from now on.” William laughed.

“Well, I’m going back to my room to rest, discuss amongst yourselves and then access the new water source early, otherwise life will be a problem, I still have to shower and eat.” Francesca snorted and went upstairs.

“Ms.Felch.” Robin called out to her hastily.

“Hmm?” Francesca paused in her steps and looked back at him.

Robin had something to ask, but didn’t dare ask it, so he just looked weakly at William.

“You said the others are poisoned, can you give them some medicine?”

William naturally knew what was on the minds of Robin and those in the ministry and opened up for them.

"I know about this, but I don't have enough medicine with me, let's talk about it in a few days." Francesca said casually, "This little bit of poison won't kill you."

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2088

Chapter 2088

After Francesca said that, she went upstairs, leaving Robin and the rest of the ministry frozen in place.

They were panicking in their hearts, but when they heard Francesca say that, they were completely confused again.

Francesca had clearly said that they were all poisoned, how come they were now reacting as if it was as simple as a cold and fever, not worth mentioning at all.

"Francesca is just like that, but she has a good heart and won't let anything happen to you guys." William said soothingly.

"Yes." Robin nodded his head repeatedly, "Don't worry everyone, since Ms.Felch knows we've been poisoned, she will never sit back and do nothing."

"Yes." The entourage then put their minds at ease.

"Don't let the others know about the poisoning yet, so as not to cause panic." Robin handed over, "A few of you keep a covert eye on the water source and the storage room tonight to see if any suspicious characters have passed."

"Yes." Robin arranged everything and pushed William back to his room.

Closing the door, Robin opened a bottle of mineral water and handed it to William, then asked apprehensively, "I didn't expect Ms.Felch to be so powerful, will our secret be leaked?"

"What secret? Leak what?" William changed his usual gentle and jade-like posture and stared at Robin coldly and sternly.

"Uh..." Robin froze and bowed his head in a panic, "Yes."

"It is true that someone has poisoned and plotted against us, it is also true that there is a problem with the water supply, we are not deceiving Francesca." William warned in a hushed voice, "Except that I found out about the problem in advance."

"Yes." Robin nodded as he wiped his sweat, "We can't cure the poison, sooner or later we're going to have to invite Ms.Felch over, it just won't mean the same thing to have her find out the problem herself. I just found that Ms.Felch is far smarter and more individual than I thought, and I'm afraid that if she senses anything different, she'll get angry and leave us alone."

"First, Francesca is a responsible person, also very kind. She will not to us even if she is really angry. Secondly, this matter, heaven knows you know, you know me know, as long as you don't say anything, no one will know. Besides, I haven't done anything harmful. I only found out that there was something wrong with the water supply, but I didn't say anything in order to draw the snake out of the hole." William spoke with righteousness and justification.

"Right." Robin gradually calmed down, "So what do we do next?"

"Did the Silas see Francesca at the airport today?" William asked.

"Met him, he even gave Ms.Felch a look as he was leaving, his eyes were quite meaningful." Robin was observant, "He should have investigated Ms.Felch's identity as soon as he returned, he should have known by now that she is the doctor!"

"Contact Silas and tell him about Francesca's discovery that the water source is poisonous." William ordered in a low voice, "Especially emphasise the fact that my condition has worsened due to the poisoning, and that all eighty-three people up and down the entire castle have been poisoned along with me.

Moreover, Francesca has said that if she had come a few months later, there would have been no survivors of the eighty or so people in this castle, and the castle would have become a haunted mansion. Such a heartless act is outrageous, I beg Your Majesty to do justice!!!"

"I understood!!!" Only at this moment did Robin truly understand William's intentions.

A few days ago, William found himself poisoned and immediately took him alone to check the water source late at night, and soon discovered the problem.

At that time, Robin was so furious that he immediately went to report to the king, but William stopped him in an unusually calm manner.

Afterwards, he even asked him to cooperate with him in a play to trick Francesca into coming over.

Robin originally thought that William had done this so that Francesca would find out the truth herself so that she would feel sorry for him and therefore have feelings for him.

It was only now that Robin realised that their highness master was far more scheming and far-sighted than he had imagined.

Chapter 2089

“A single decision separates victory and defeat,” said a solemn William with eyes narrowed. “All these years, we had endured countless acts of cruelty, humiliation, and intrigue from them. This shall decide whether we’ll be able to turn our fortunes around for ourselves!”

“Rest assured, Your Highness. I know what to say.” Robin nodded firmly. “I don’t think we should try to discuss this over the phone. Instead, I should hurry over to the palace to explain the situation to Silas in person tonight, then request for an audience with His Majesty himself.”

“Do not rush, this matter has to be considered in the long run.” William narrowed his eyes and analyzed carefully, “For so many years, those houses have plotted against me not once or twice, does His Majesty really not know? The actual fact is that you can find a lot of people who are not aware of it. But he is old, if he bothered to suppress those wolfish beasts, I’m afraid he would also be greatly wounded. It is not worth it for me, an isolated and helpless invalid. Therefore, if I want His Majesty to make up his mind to sanction them, I must find the right opportunity. And this time, it is the best opportunity. We have to use the hands of another person to find out about this matter and report it to His Majesty, and that person must be of great international prestige. His Majesty is worried that word of this matter will tarnish the reputation of the royal family, and he cannot silence this person, so he has to order an investigation.”

“So, Ms.Felch is the best choice.” Robin suddenly realized, “Miss Francesca, not only has a high status in the global medical community, but also, she is Mr. Lindberg’s fiancée. No matter of His Majesty, or those few houses, they would never dare to touch her, and no one would dare to question what she said.”

“That’s right.” A hint of guilt surfaced in William’s eyes, “I used Francesca, and she will definitely hate me if she learns the truth later, but I have no choice.”

“You don’t have to blame yourself too much.” Robin soothed, “In fact, this incident is not a loss to Ms.Felch, after all, it is about the face of the royal family, no one would dare to reveal this secret to her. Besides, in order to protect her, you went out of your way to ask the Silas to accompany me to pick her up from the airport, and now that she is by your side all the time, her safety is also guaranteed, and even if those houses pursue the matter later, they will not dare to touch her because of her status as Mr.Lindberg’s fiancée.”

“Having said that, I have always lied to her.” William sighed helplessly, “And this matter can’t be hidden for long, with Mr.Lindberg’s personality, I’m afraid he’ll come after us soon, so we have to settle this as soon as possible.”

“Yes.” Robin nodded repeatedly, “But what I’m worried about is that those houses are so powerful, even if His Majesty orders an investigation, will it just be a bluff, and in the end, find a few scapegoats to make a show of it and forget about it?”

“The preparations we have made over the years were not done in vain.” William frowned, “As long as His Majesty is willing to investigate, we can take advantage of the opportunity to lay out all the incriminating evidence we have collected over the years, and if necessary, make it public. This way, His Majesty cannot even think of not striking hard!”

“Understood.” Robin suddenly realized, “So you have planned everything long ago, why didn’t you tell me about it, I was worried all along.”

“Francesca is too smart, if you showed the slightest hint, she could see it, so I hid it from even you.” William said, “But now it’s different, everyone knows about the poisoning, it’s reasonable for you to go to His Majesty to report the situation even overnight.”

“Then why did you say no when Ms.Felch asked us to go and tell His Majesty just now?” Robin was still a little puzzled.

“In Francesca’s mind, I have always been a kind and tender person, and if I were to let you go and report the situation, she would again think I was ruthless when those few houses were full of people in the future. Therefore, I want her to personally encourage me to go, so that, in the future, if anything happens, she will not blame me.” William explained indifferently.

“I see.” Robin was suddenly enlightened, “Your Highness is indeed thoughtful, only, I think Ms.Felch understands things and would not blame you, who would not fight back when those people plotted against you like that.”

“That said, one can always sympathise with the weak, especially a healer.” William was very sure, “Francesca is now looking towards me, in the future she will look at those few old and young families in a state of wailing and her heart will be shaken.”

At this point, William smiled bitterly, “Just like my beloved grandfather, doesn’t he know how my parents died?”

He knew. It’s just that when those houses pleaded bitterly, he thought of all his own flesh and blood, and he couldn’t bear to discipline them. After all, one cannot rise from the dead, but those who are alive, must continue to live. Is it funny? That’s human nature!”

William raised his eyes and looked out of the window. The sky was full of stars, complicated thoughts surged in his eyes.

It was as if he had remembered something, and was infinitely sad.

But soon, that sadness was replaced by cold hatred.

Twenty years ago, when he was five years old, after he was pushed off his horse by his cousin and trampled by a blazing horse into a serious disability, he overheard that it was all a conspiracy.

In order to destroy the last hope of their family, it was necessary to cut off the root of the problem and put him to death.

But he was fortunate not to die, only to become disabled.

The families were able to keep him alive.

But from then on, William knew that he would live to take revenge!

The future William, who has always kept a low profile, recently revealed to the public that the group he founded outside the country was on the rich list, causing a crisis for the families.

Then, during a break in his treatment, he deliberately went back to Danontand to pay his respects to his parents.

Just to lure them down.

This time, however, William returned to see the old King, whom he had not seen for a long time.

The old king was very happy for him when he found out that the group he founded had done so well, and he implied in his words that the cousins should live in harmony with each other.

Therefore, those people did not dare to do it in the open, they could only poison in the dark.

This gave William a great opportunity to turn over a new leaf!

After all, he had the trump card of Francesca in his hand!

“Your Highness, don’t worry, I will complete this mission.” Robin had grown up with William’s father since he was young, witnessing the rise and fall of their house, and how William had climbed to where he was now, step by step.

It really was blood soaked.

Robin sincerely hoped that William would get his revenge!

William slid his wheelchair to the window and stared out with narrowed eyes, “Those people are watching us outside, if you go out now, I am afraid you will not reach the palace before you are assassinated.”

“I owe my life to the Duke (William’s father), and if I can help you avenge your death, even if it means death, I’ll do it!” Robin had already decided to throw his weight around.

“You won’t die, and if you do, who will help me?” William thought for a moment and took out his phone to look for the number, “I’ll call His Majesty now and he will send Silas to fetch you.”

“Will His Majesty agree?” Robin was a little uneasy.

“From the time I was handicapped by those people when I was five years old to now, twenty years, I have endured the humiliation and never asked anything of his old man. Not even a word about the bullying of those people, and now I just want you to meet his old man on my behalf, and this is the kind of favour he still has to give.”

William was very sure of himself.

“Would it be a waste to use such an important favour on me?” Robin asked hastily.

“As I said, victory or defeat is at stake, and as you are the key to victory or defeat, I must ensure your safety.”

William dialed the old king’s number directly.

Soon the old king answered the phone, seemingly to an unexpected surprise: “William? It’s been a long time since you called your grandfather.”
