Chapter 2101

Francesca carefully thought back on the bits and pieces of her time with Danrique, always thinking that he would not say break up easily.

Maybe it was really just a way to provoke her.

Probably he missed her too much.

Thinking about this, Francesca still felt a little guilty in her heart, and she decided that she would go to Danrique as soon as she had taken care of the matter here in William.

With such thoughts, Francesca's mood improved and she turned off the light and gradually fell asleep.

"Ms.Felch has just turned off the lights." In the medical room downstairs, the maid reported to William.

"It's 4 o'clock in the morning and she's only just fallen asleep." William said in a low voice, "It seems to be something on her mind."

"I also heard Ms.Felch earlier as if she was talking on the phone, quite emotional." the maid whispered.

William nodded slightly, "Well, go and rest."

"Yes, Your Highness." The maid bowed her head and retreated.

William leaned back on the sofa and looked at the window with a heavy heart.

After waiting for a while, his phone finally vibrated and he immediately answered the call, "What is it?"

"Ms.Felch asked me about the breakup." Monica reported.

"A break up?"

"Yeah, she said that if a guy suddenly wants to break up with a girl, what is the reason."

Monica reported the details of her call with Francesca to William.

When William listened, his eyebrows tightened, "She said that Mr.Lindberg had mentioned the breakup to her?"

“She said she watched a drama, but one guess and I knew it was about her and Mr. Lindberg.”

“Okay, I got it, thanks!”

“Your Highness, Monica is where she is today thanks to your nurturing, so if you have anything to do, just ask.”

“I’m sure I’ll need you in the future.”

“Monica is willing to go through fire and water for you.”

Hanging up the phone, William looked up at Robin in the hospital bed and said to himself, “Why did Mr.Lindberg suddenly mention breaking up with Francesca? What is he trying to do?”

William suddenly thought of something and his eyes widened in consternation, “Could...”

.....

Early the next morning.

When Francesca woke up, the first thing she did was to check her phone.

There were no missed calls, and no text messages.

She was lost inside.

Now it seemed that Danrique’s determination to force Francesca to go to Xendale was very strong, and if she didn’t go, he probably wouldn’t take the initiative to contact her. But now that the situation was so serious on William’s side, she couldn’t just ignore it.

When Francesca was feeling headache, suddenly, there was an incoming call on her mobile phone, she hurriedly picked it up to check, it was not Danrique, it was Anthony.

She was disappointed and impatiently answered the phone, “Hello!”

“Have you seen the news, Francesca?” Anthony asked eagerly.

“What news?” Francesca rubbed her eyes.

“Danrique is getting engaged to.” Anthony announced straight away, “You should hurry up and check it out.”

“What?” Francesca froze for a moment and said with joy, “Could it be that he said that yesterday just to force the marriage?”

She had just woken up and thought Danrique was trying to get engaged to her.

“What are you talking about?” Anthony was anxious, “Do you know that Danrique is going to get engaged to Hazel!”

“What?” Francesca’s drowsiness woke up instantly and she rolled over and sat up from the bed in a flash, “With Hazel?”

“Go watch the news yourself.” Anthony reminded, “Francesca, did you have a fight with Danrique? Why did he suddenly get engaged to another woman? How long are you going to stay in Danontand? It’s better for you to meet earlier and talk it over.”

“I...” Francesca was about to speak when there was a sudden knock on the door outside, followed by William’s voice, “Francesca, are you awake?”

“Just a moment.” Francesca answered and said to Anthony, “Anthony, I won’t talk to you first, William is looking for me.”

With that, Francesca hung up the phone.

Chapter 2102

Francesca got up and changed her clothes, walked over and opened the door to her room, “Good morning, William!”

“Francesca, did I wake you up?” William looked at her in a complicated way.

“No, I woke up long ago.” Francesca noticed that William’s face didn’t look too good and his eyes were red, “You didn’t sleep all night last night?”

“I was worried about Robin, so I kept watch over him.” William said with a smile, “He woke up just after six, he’s in much better spirits now and is having breakfast.”

“That’s good, I’ll be over later.” Francesca snorted, “Go and wash up first.”

“Francesca.” William called out to her.

“Hm?” Francesca looked back at him.

“You, are you alright?” William’s eyes were full of worry.

“Yes, what can happen to me.” Francesca smiled, “Well, I have to go and take a shower.”

With that, Francesca closed the door.

She was the only one left in the room, and suddenly, the smile on her face disappeared and she hurriedly reached for her phone to check the news.

Sure enough, the news that Danrique and Hazel were about to get engaged had spread all over the world, and almost all the well-known media were promoting the matter.

The news topic also has ambiguous photos, in which Danrique, dressed in a straight black suit, stands in the dark, and in the dim light, the well-defined face looks mysterious and unpredictable.

And Hazel, a white fishtail evening dress, setting off a sexy and enchanting figure, a strand of white sand tied in a low ponytail, noble and elegant.

This all in one, looked very simple, yet a bit like a wedding photo. And Hazel had a happy sweet smile on her face, although Danrique was in the dark, couldn't see the face clearly, but the two were one bright and one dark, one cold and one hot, just like a perfect couple!

Francesca saw this photo, saw those words in the news, every word depicting the love of two people.

A blazing ball of anger rushed straight to her head, and she was so angry that she was frantic.

If it was said that the last time Danrique and Hazel spread rumors was a rumor, she still believed it, after all, those photos were secretly taken, but this time was different.

This photo, which was not at all like a stolen shot, rather looked like it was purposely posed.

And those news before, only part of the self media was spreading, but this time almost all famous media was spreading, even the official media of Erihal was also posting.

It was clear enough that this time Danrique had come for real.

Francesca remembered that last night Monica had said that a man who suddenly wanted to mention breaking up was having another woman at the end of the month, very well, it seemed that Monica was right.

Danrique was just coming to break up with her because he had fallen in love with Hazel.

She actually took the foolishness to think that he was just forcing her to go for him.

How self-serving!!!

It turned out that Danrique had changed his mind a long time ago and was simply trying to dump her and marry Hazel.

The more Francesca thought about it, the angrier and more agitated she became, she could not wait to fly to Xendale right now to find Danrique and ask him clearly face to face. No, what's the point of asking, she should just shoot him!

Medical room downstairs...

William was still watching the news, looking increasingly grave.

"What's wrong?"

Robin, who had just finished his medicine, saw His Highness looking like this and hastily dismissed the others.

The medics and attendants all retreated, leaving William and Robin alone in the room.

"Mr.Lindberg announces his engagement to Hazel." William said in a low voice, "The news is all over the media and it's already spreading."

"What?" Robin's eyes widened in shock, "That means that Ms.Felch is not Mr. Lindberg's fiancée now? Then, wouldn't our plan be..."

His words were interrupted by a look from the future Prince of Energy, Robin glanced warily at the door and lowered his voice, "Does Ms.Felch know about this?"

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2103

Chapter 2103

"She should know." William said in a low voice, "Last night Danrique broke up with her and this morning he announced his engagement to Hazel, that's fast!"

"No way?" Robin was very puzzled, "I see Mr.Lindberg has quite deep feelings for Ms.Felch. He has done so much for her before, why is he suddenly breaking up? Besides, if he had liked that Hazel, he would have been together long ago, why did he only say yes now? With his personality, otherwise he wouldn't have been forced by any situation, why on earth is this?"

"I'm afraid it's to deliberately suppress me." William's brow furrowed, "He saw that I was borrowing his reputation to achieve my goal, so came up with this move! That's a brilliant move!!!"

"Not so..." Robin still found it unbelievable, "If Mr.Lindberg had sensed something, he could have used other methods to suppress us, there was no need to sacrifice his relationship with Ms.Felch, and marry Hazel? He doesn't seem like such an emotional person."

"I'm not sure what medicine he's selling in his gourd, but it's definitely targeting me." William frowned sadly, "I underestimated Mr.Lindberg's aggressiveness, I thought I was quick enough to act and solve the problem before he noticed. I thought I was quick enough to solve the problem before he noticed, and when it was solved, I would apologize properly. But I never expected that he would act even faster than I did, which means that he was already checking up on me when Francesca came to Danontand and then reacting accordingly, just waiting to let it out now and catch me off guard."

"Mr.Lindberg is too ruthless too." Robin said with a frown, "We're just using his prestige, we haven't done anything, but he's fighting back like this, he's just trying to drive me to extinction!"

"Mr.Lindberg wouldn't be himself if he wasn't ruthless." William sighed, "What's more, I was the one who offended him in the first place, and I have nothing to say if he wants to fight back."

"What should we do now?" Robin looked at him apprehensively, "We've made so much effort, and we see that victory is just around the corner, we can't just give up halfway, can we?"

"I'm trying to think of a way." William looked grave, "Did you remember what you told me this morning?"

"Remembered." Robin nodded his head repeatedly, "Don't worry, I know what to say, but Ms.Felch's side..."

Before Robin could finish his words, there was a hurried knock on the door from outside, "Your Highness, Your Highness, Mr. Silas is here."

Hearing this, Robin was instantly confused and looked at William in dismay, "Why is Silas here at this time?"

"I think His Majesty must have seen the news and asked him to come." William's expression was even more ugly, "This is a brilliant move by Mr.Lindberg. Everything was on the horizon of victory, and he suddenly came up with this such a move to knock me into the bottom."

“Yeah.” Robin was anxious, “According to the original plan, His Majesty will come to our castle tomorrow, just to check the water supply, and then he will be able to arrest people. Everything is going smoothly, and in one day, one day, suddenly the wind changes. Do you think His Majesty will change his mind now and not pursue the matter?”

“Not only not pursue the poisoning, but probably question my intentions as well.” William narrowed his eyes slightly, “Questioning my intention to find someone to frame those houses, questioning me for faking the relationship between Francesca and Mr.Lindberg and using Mr.Lindberg’s name to achieve my goals.”

“No way.” Robin was completely dumbfounded, “If that’s the case, wouldn’t that be our plan.”

“Where’s the plan.” William interrupted, “It would be nice not to impose a charge of deception and treason on me now!”

“Then what can be done?” Robin was in complete disarray.

“There’s only a gamble now.” William frowned, “Bet that Mr.Lindberg’s feelings for Francesca are strong enough!”

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2104

Chapter 2104

Robin didn’t catch William’s meaning, but at this point, they had to take a gamble.

“Knock, knock!”

At this time, Again there was a knock on the door from outside, followed by an attendant who was reporting, “Your Highness, Mr. Silas is here.”

“Please come in.” William and Robin glanced at each other.

The attendant pushed open the door and invited Silas in.

Silas bowed to William and then said bluntly, “Your Highness, His Majesty has asked me to come and fetch you and Dr.Felch to the palace.”

Hearing this, Robin’s face changed greatly, but William was calm and said with a smile, “That’s fine with me, His Majesty can summon me anytime, but with Francesca, I have to speak to her first.”

As William was speaking, Francesca pushed in the door, dressed in a white lab coat and carrying a medical kit in her hand.

Seeing Silas, Francesca was slightly stunned, and then looked at William.

“Francesca, let me introduce to you.” William immediately introduced the two to each other, and then said, “Francesca, His Majesty has asked Silas to come and pick us up from the palace.”

“Isn’t he coming over tomorrow?” Francesca asked directly, “What are we doing over there now?”

“Dr.Felch.” William was about to explain when the Silas stepped forward and said politely, “His Majesty has learnt of your great medical skills and admires you so much that he would like to invite you to the palace as a guest, so I hope you will be gracious enough to do so.”

As the old king’s personal attendant, to be so polite to Francesca was already giving him face.

Unfortunately, Francesca did not eat this: “I don’t like to be a guest, if Your Majesty has anything to ask, you can just come here and ask.”

“Francesca...”

“Dr.Felch.” This time, the Silas’s tone increased a little, “You are young and may not understand yet, His Majesty the King has specially invited you and even asked me to personally come and pick you up, this sincerity is truly unprecedented, please don’t make things difficult for His Highness and me.”

“Why is it difficult?” Francesca asked in confusion, “I am here to heal the sick and save people, and I have not broken any laws, why does the king have to see me? Why does it become a problem if I don’t go?”

Silas: “Dr.Felch...”

“Lord Silas.” Silas was about to say something else when William interrupted him, “Francesca is my good friend and my life-saver. She has never liked to be tied down or to deal with politics, since she doesn’t want to go to the palace, let’s not make things difficult for her, on Grandfather’s side, I will take care of it.”

“Your Highness...” The Silas was about to say something else when William bent down and bowed to him, “I beg of you.”

Seeing him like this, Silas did not dare to force himself any further, but simply sighed deeply, “Alright, then I will wait for you outside.”

With that, Silas went out.

Francesca was already in a bad mood today and was even more annoyed by such a fuss, but seeing William's humble appearance, she felt bad in her heart and said softly, "William, I'm sorry, I don't want to make things difficult for you, but I want to go to the palace too."

"If you don't want to go, then don't go, this matter has nothing to do with you in the first place." William was ever so gentle when facing Francesca, "I'm already sorry for involving you in this, if there's anything, I'll deal with it myself, I don't want to drag you down."

"But, will you be able to give a good account of yourself when you go to the palace?" Francesca was a little worried about him.

"It's fine, I'll deal with it." William patted her arm, "Well, we can't keep the Silas waiting, I'll go first, you shouldn't be too tired today, go and rest after checking with Robin."

"Mhm." Francesca nodded and watched William leave.

"Ugh." Robin sighed sadly, "I thought I would be able to fight back successfully this time, but now it looks like it's all about to be over."

"What's over?" Francesca asked, puzzled.

"It's all my fault, my fault." Robin blamed himself greatly, "I shouldn't have gone to the palace to complain to His Majesty, I shouldn't have revealed your identity, and I shouldn't have involved you and Mr. Lindberg."

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2105

Chapter 2105

"What's the mess?" Francesca couldn't understand him, "You said who I am, I understand because the king wouldn't believe me if I were a normal doctor. But why did you talk about my relationship with Mr. Lindberg?"

"I didn't mention it originally, but when His Majesty learned that you're an excellent Doctor, he made sure to see you to explain the poison test in person, and to have you produce evidence to prove it, and at the same time to deploy the royal team from the palace to verify your test. I remember that before you arrived, His Highness had repeatedly instructed that no matter what happened, you must not be involved, and that you did not like to socialize or show your face, let alone deal with the royal political circles. In order to dissuade His Majesty from that idea, in a moment of haste, I revealed your identity as Mr. Lindberg's fiancée, thinking that in this way His Majesty would treat you with courtesy, or at least not check you to make things difficult for you."

Having said all this in one breath, Robin was a little weak, adjusted her breathing and continued —

“Sure enough, as soon as His Majesty heard that you were Mr.Lindberg’s fiancée, his attitude was immediately different, and although he still said he wanted to see you. It was really a hospitable meeting, not an interrogation or an examination. I always thought I was doing the right thing at the time, but I never thought.”

At this, Francesca understood: “I didn’t expect that today Danrique would announce his engagement with Hazel, so the king would think that you and William were lying to deceive him, so he had that old man come to fetch me and William to the palace today.”

“Yeah.” Robin sighed deeply, “I didn’t expect this to happen either, and now I’m afraid that not only will His Majesty not investigate the poisoning thoroughly, but he will also pursue Your Highness and I for our deception.”

At this point, Robin asked cautiously, “Ms.Felch, what is going on here? What happened to you and Mr. Lindberg?”

Without speaking, Francesca directly put down the medical box and turned to chase after them.

“Ms.Felch, Ms.Felch!” Robin shouted a few times and failed to call out to her, looking at Francesca’s hurriedly running out, his eyes quickly changed.

He knew that although the situation was bad now, as long as Francesca was willing to stand on their side, everything was still salvageable.

Francesca rushed after the car before it started and offered to go to the palace with William.

William was stunned, and the party immediately asked her to get into the car.

On the way, William was still persuading Francesca: “Francesca, what’s wrong with you? Didn’t we agree that I would settle this myself? Why are you following me up again?”

“I can’t leave you to face it alone.” Francesca was firm, “I tested out the poison, so if the old king wants to see me, let’s do so, it’s good to explain the situation face to face, to save his old man from always wanting to see me.”

“Cough cough…” the Silas coughed in anxiety, “Ms.Felch, when you arrive at the palace, you cannot talk to His Majesty the King like this.”

“Then how should I speak?” Francesca asked rhetorically, “I am not a prisoner, do I have to beg him in a low voice?”

“Alright, alright.” William hastened to round up the situation, “Lord Silas, Francesca has always been used to being spontaneous, but she is a polite and educated person, she has respect for the elderly, not to mention that His Majesty is my grandfather, she has a sense of propriety in her heart.”

Hearing William say this, the Silas said nothing more.

William’s words were clever, i.e. he defended Francesca and rounded up the situation at the same time.

Francesca also did not say anything more, she looked out of the window, thinking of Danrique, her heart was blocked, she just wanted to settle this side of the matter as soon as possible, fly to Xendale to find him and ask him a clear question face to face.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2106

Chapter 2106

As for Danrique’s side, he had just learnt about Francesca going to the palace with William, he was so angry that he smashed his phone: “This stupid woman!”

He had already threatened her with a breakup, she didn’t even know to compromise and still wanted to protect William. Was she missing a brain, or did she not love him at all and loved William, right?

The more Danrique thought about it, the angrier he became.

“Sir, don’t be angry.” Sean carefully soothed, “I think Ms.Felch is just too kind and too simple, that’s why she was bewitched by William, soon she will know the truth.”

“She’s not called simple, she’s called stupid!!!” Danrique was so angry that he was about to explode, “This time we must teach her a lesson, so that she can learn to learn what it means to be sinister on earth!!!”

“But .....,” Sean wanted to say something but stopped.

“What do you want to say?” Danrique could see what he was thinking, “You think I’m too hard on William?”

“From an interest point of view, William turning over would only be good for us and not bad for us, after all, he is our partner and once he succeeds as king, he will be a body of interest for us in the future. If we let his cousins become king, we will have one less interest body, we have just opened up the market in Epea, we still need some more such interest bodies in order to secure our position in the future.”

At this point, Sean paused and looked at Danrique carefully, afraid that he would be angry.

“Keep talking.” Danrique made a hand gesture.

“I know you are angry, mainly because William has used Ms.Felch and borrowed your identity to achieve his goals, so you are now putting him on the spot at this juncture, just to teach him a lesson. I can understand that, but I don’t think there’s much to be gained by bringing William down, not only is there less to gain, but it will also anger Ms.Felch.”

“You mean that Francesca will fall out with me over William?” Danrique’s reaction was huge, “I’ve gotten things this far, can’t that stupid brain of hers still figure out what’s going on?”

“With Ms.Felch’s intelligence, she will definitely be able to understand tonight, but...” Sean thought for a moment and said softly, “Sir you have overlooked one thing, Ms.Felch is a doctor!”

“So what if a doctor?” Danrique indeed didn’t think it through.

“As a doctor, she has a chivalrous heart in her bones to punish evil and eliminate evil.” Sean analyzed, “It’s true that those people bullied William, right? It’s also true that they poisoned William and the people in the castle, right? Now that she is trapped in Danontand, she will definitely be responsible for the people in that castle to the end. Even if she knows that William used her, she is afraid that she will still understand him, after all, he is carrying a blood feud and dozens of human lives.

What was the point of using her friendship for those responsibilities and lives? On the whole, Ms.Felch has nothing to lose, she may be disappointed with William for this, but she will certainly not turn her back. On the contrary, you, if you must kill William, you will be putting him to death, putting to death the eighty or so lives in his castle! From a humanitarian point of view, which is more important, you say?”

Hearing these words, Danrique fell into deep thought, Sean’s analysis was correct, but he was still not convinced: “Is my place in her heart less than William’s?”

“No, someone as loyal as Ms.Felch will not pretend, her feelings for you are genuine, her feelings for William are only sympathy and friendship at best. But because of this, the love is deep and the blame is strong, the requirements for those who love deeply are always higher, instead of ordinary friends, the expectations will be very low.”

Sean finished all this in one breath and carefully advised, “Didn’t you say? William will definitely call and beg you tonight, I think, you can consider whether you want to give him a chance.”

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2107

Chapter 2107

Danrique was silent for a moment and said indifferently, "That will depend on his performance."

"Right now you are his only saving grace, for revenge and to turn over a new leaf, he will agree to you on any terms." Sean said meaningfully.

"Well, including Francesca." Danrique sneered mockingly, "Maybe in order to help him, she'll come beg me too."

"Uh." Sean didn't dare to speak, he just thought that everything was expected by his master.

Including using this opportunity to settle the Atkinson family.

As long as Francesca didn't make any more mistakes, then they would be the biggest winners.

It was just that she was the only one Danrique cared about the most.

Francesca sneezed twice, feeling like someone was scolding her, rubbed her nose and checked her phone, but there was no movement at all. But right now she didn't have the heart to think about that much, the car had arrived at the palace.

She got out of the car, still in her white coat, wearing a pair of special medical glasses, her hair uncombed in the morning, with a messy beauty.

Such casualness made her look a little out of place in such a gilded palace.

"Please, Dr.Felch!" Silas made a polite invitation.

Francesca followed William's side, striding towards the inner hall.

William seemed to have not been here for a long time, squinting slightly and looking ahead, he could not help but feel a little emotional, "Counting up, it's been ten years since I've been here."

"Yes, the last time you came, you were still a teenager." The Silas recalled, "It was His Majesty's birthday and you came for the banquet."

"Hmm." William smiled to himself, "That time I rolled down the stairs and made a fool of myself, many people were looking at me as a joke, only my grandfather himself helped me up."

"It's none of your business, it was someone who did that to you."

Speaking of this, the Silas could not help but feel a bit distressed, “They took advantage of His Majesty’s absence and had to coax you to try to stand up. It was obvious that your leg had been paralyzed for years, and they still forced you to stand up, and when you couldn’t, they dragged you up from your wheelchair and then let go when they were caught unawares, causing you to roll down the stairs.”

Speaking of this, the Silas was even more righteously indignant, “Those brutes, relying on their parents’ authority to bully you like that, and afterwards several dukes said they were just children, playing around.”

“They were indeed children, and all younger than me.” William smiled slightly, seemingly unmoved by the past and instead unusually calm, “The ones who were older than me, stayed around to abet and did not do anything.”

“Since then, the king has had to stop letting you back into the palace, not because he doesn’t miss you, but because he doesn’t want to see you bullied again.” The Silas sighed and said, “Your Highness, His Majesty’s heart goes out to you, it’s just that there is so much he can’t do about it.”

“I know.” William smiled bitterly and raised his eyes to look at the green grassland in the distance, “Look, Francesca, I used to ride my horse there when I was a child and fell down there too.”

Hearing this, Francesca was even more heartbroken William: “All blood relatives and flesh, why do they treat you like this?”

“My father is the eldest son and has the best hope of succeeding to the throne.” William said meaningfully, and changed the subject, “It seems there are other guests today.”

He looked at several other luxury cars parked not far away and his eyes narrowed slightly.

“His Majesty has also invited a few of your cousins.” The Silas said softly, “Don’t worry, His Majesty will not make things difficult for you.”

William did not say anything, just silence.

“I would like to meet those people for a while.” Francesca’s fist clenched and creaked.

After listening to William and the Silas talk about what happened when she was a child, her heart was full of anger and she just wanted to fight for William.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2108

When they arrived at the inner sanctum, out of the blue, it seemed warm and welcoming, like a magnificent but not overwhelming home.

A large family portrait hung on the wall, with many people in the photo, the old king in the very middle, surrounded by his children and grandchildren.

Francesca saw a young William in the picture, much like he is now, except that at that time, he was not yet paralysed and there was light in his eyes.

Those clear, precious blue eyes were as brilliant as the stars in the sky. He was nestled in the King's lap with a smile so innocent that it was clear enough that he was happy at that time. After all, his parents were also standing by intact.

"I can't believe I looked forward to growing up as a child." William suddenly let out an exclamation, "How silly!"

"One always has to grow up."

Suddenly, a mellow voice came, Francesca turned around and saw that the old king was just like on TV, loving and easy-going, but looked very kind.

"Your Majesty." William bent down and bowed his head.

Francesca, out of courtesy, bowed her head in salute as well.

"Welcome, Dr. Felch." The old king gave Francesca a deep look and then said to William, "William, just call him Grandfather like before, no need to be so rusty."

"Yes, Grandfather." William nodded his head.

"Please sit down." The old king greeted and took his seat.

Francesca didn't make any formalities and sat straight down on the sofa.

The palace staff brought pastries and fine Epean black tea, then silently retreated to the side.

The Silas stood silently behind the old king, his head bowed.

"Early yesterday morning, Robin came to the palace to report something, I would now like to check with you." The old king made a gesture.

A middle-aged woman in the shape of a secretary came over with a tape recorder and first saluted the king and William, then began to play it.

The voice over was Robin's report to the old king of what had happened. Robin first said that William had returned to the castle and had once again had a relapse of his old illness, and then that William had had a very powerful divine doctor come to the castle to examine and treat him.

The divine doctor found out that he had been poisoned and then followed the trail to find out that the entire water supply of the castle had been poisoned, as well as William's essential oils.

Robin also brought in samples of the poisoned water and essential oils to be checked.

Throughout the whole process, Robin made sense, but didn't mention anything else, or who the suspects were, or even any other incidents of bullying William had suffered over the years.

The old king had asked him a few questions midway through, but other than that, did not make any comments, but finally instructed Robin directly to have that doctor come to the palace to see him and wanted to ask about the situation personally.

Robin was immediately flustered and hastily excused himself.

It was better if he didn't push back, but as soon as he did, the old king questioned his motives, and it was then that Robin revealed Francesca's other identity.

Listening to the recordings, everything was just as Robin had dictated, and there was nothing wrong with it.

Only later, the old king's attention turned all the way to the relationship between Danrique and Francesca.

The old king almost didn't answer when Robin said so much earlier, and when he heard Robin say that Francesca was Danrique's fiancée, he immediately pursued the question, was this information accurate? The old king was almost not able to answer.

Robin said yes with conviction and also said something about what happened between Danrique and Francesca.

The old king pursued this very carefully, repeatedly confirming that Danrique was serious about Francesca and had the intention of getting married, before he relented and said that he would personally contact William later to inform him of the treatment plan.

Hearing all this, Francesca, even if she was more innocent and ignorant, understood the powerful relationship, more than whether William was persecuted, the old king was more concerned about this relationship between her and Danrique.

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2109

Chapter 2109

This also meant that in the old king's mind, the so-called business opportunities and contacts were more important than William and the 80-odd lives in the castle.

In seeing this fact, Francesca felt even more sympathy for William.

She could suddenly understand William's secrecy all these years, not because he was cowardly and incompetent, but because he knew that even if he fought for it, it would never come to fruition.

Even now, it would cost the lives of eighty people in his castle, but not in exchange for a chance to investigate.

And all hope was actually on this personal relationship between her and Danrique.

How absurd was this?

The most crucial thing was that the old king was able to play this recording in front of William and Francesca in an open and honest manner, which meant that he did not think there was anything wrong with it in the slightest.

At this moment, Francesca suddenly understood why his master had repeatedly stressed that he was not allowed to deal with people from the Zarain Realm and the royal family.

After playing these recordings, the old king straightforwardly questioned, "William, is it your intention for Robin to come to me?"

"No." William said softly, "But I will pay for everything he says and does!"

"Very well, take responsibility." The old king smiled slightly, "That means that you also ordered him to lie?"

"Robin did not lie." William hurriedly explained, "It is true that the castle water source was poisoned, and it is also true that the essential oil was poisoned."

"Dr.Felch's identity is also true?" The king directly questioned.

William was slightly stunned and looked at Francesca in a complicated way, not knowing how to explain.

"What identity is His Majesty the King asking about?" Francesca asked rhetorically, "The identity of Dr. Felch, or the identity of Danrique's fiancée?"

She spoke with this aura, not at all as if she was talking to a king, but rather as if she was theorising with an equal, without the slightest hint of cowardice or concession.

The old king was stunned by this aura of hers, and could not help but be slightly stunned for a few seconds before he came back to his senses: “The outside world cannot find out the specific information of the divine Doctor, and before this morning, there was no information on Mr. Lindberg’s fiancée, but now has it.”

This was a meaningful statement. This was also true, the identity of Dr.Felch has always been hidden, even the king may not be able to fully confirm, before the old king did not question, but only because he thought that this identity is not important.

What he was more concerned about was her relationship with Mr.Lindberg.

However, Francesca, who had always been a lonely and arrogant person, was even more furious when she heard these words, “What does it have to do with this matter if I am Danrique’s fiancée?”

“Francesca!” William hurriedly held her hand and reminded in a low voice, “Don’t get excited, speak properly.”

“Is there anything wrong with what I said?” Francesca simply could not bear it, “Your Majesty, please answer my question!!!”

“Unbridled!!!” The Silas hurriedly scolded, “Don’t be rude to His Majesty.”

“That’s all.” The old king didn’t care about Francesca’s attitude, instead he laughed, “Seeing your nature, including the way you speak, you are very similar to Mr.Lindberg.”

“Who wants to be similar to that ba*tard?” Francesca blurted out.

“Francesca!” William was anxious.

When Francesca saw William’s anxious look, he slightly collected himself and said instead, “Your Majesty, the water source of William’s castle was poisoned and more than eighty people’s lives were at stake. At this critical moment, you should do your best to order a thorough investigation into the matter, find the real culprit and punish him severely, instead of dwelling on unrelated matters.”

“I will certainly investigate this matter thoroughly.” The old king smiled slightly, “If someone did poison William and the people in his castle, I will not condone it, but I also cannot allow someone to use others for some ulterior motive.”

Mistaking a Magnate for a Male Escort chapter 2110

These words of the old king came out with a powerful deterrent effect.

Suddenly, the atmosphere became stiff.

Francesca, who had always been uninhibited, also froze, and she subconsciously looked at William, a bold guess suddenly popped into her mind. could it be...?

“Your Majesty.” William raised his eyes to look at the old king and said without humility, “I ask myself, I have never had any unspeakable secrets, nor do I have that guts to take advantage of others, especially Mr.Lindberg!”

If the old king was insinuating, then this was a positive answer from William.

“Then tell me, did Robin lie?” The old king narrowed his eyes and stared at William in a complicated way.

“From the recording I just heard, Robin is telling the truth word for word, not a single word is a lie.” William replied without heartbreak.

“Is that so?” The King was a little hesitant.

“After all is said and done, isn’t it just a fiancée status? I’ll answer you.” Francesca finally couldn’t hold back, “Before four o’clock this morning, I was still Danrique’s fiancée, after four o’clock I wasn’t, because we broke up. Then this morning the media announced the news of Danrique’s engagement to Hazel, that’s all.”

Silas made completely frozen, “So childish?”

“Why the sudden break up?” William asked in a low voice, “Is it because of me?”

“Nothing to do with you, he’s the one who went nuts.” Francesca had a fire in his belly, “Robin didn’t lie and neither did William. Although I don’t want to get involved, and even more so, I don’t want Danrique to get involved because of me, but things have come to this point and I have to explain clearly.

First of all, although I am good friends with William, it is true that he has been poisoned many times, it is true that the water source of the castle is poisoned, it is true that the essential oil is poisoned, and it is even more true that he and all the 80 people in his castle have been poisoned, these are all indisputable facts. I don’t understand your complicated background, nor do I understand any conspiracy or trickery, all I know is that those who harm others should be convicted.

Why does it become some kind of ulterior motive when it comes to your side? Did William poison himself to incriminate others? Is it possible that all the persecution and humiliation he has suffered all these years was self-directed? Did he break his leg by himself?”

These words carried a more or less aggressive air. It instantly overwhelmed the king's momentum.

The king's eyes became flickering and he seemed a little afraid to face William.

Indeed, this was all indisputable.

Even if William really used Danrique's name to sue, there was nothing wrong with that, someone was trying to murder him in the first place, couldn't he still resist?

He just knew that he was alone, and that even if he and the 80 people in his castle lost their lives, it would not be enough to attract attention and make the king decide to punish those other grandsons.

That's why he had to find another way.

But he held on to this.

It is only because, William has no backing, no support and no conditions to succeed to the throne!

So it can be used to sacrifice.

"Francesca."

"You let me finish my words." Francesca interrupted William and continued, "The same flesh and blood relatives, I do not understand, why do you treat William like this? Is it because he is no longer of use with both parents gone and his legs paralyzed?"

"You..." the king turned blue with anger, "are unbridled!!!"

"You should know better than anyone in your heart, right?" Francesca was not afraid of him at all and continued, "From his ability to his character, William is the best, and it is only because he is paralyzed in both legs that you are giving him up. Then I am telling you now that his legs can be cured and one day he will stand in front of you again and prove to you that no one can defeat him!"
